McNamara Discloses Plan To Abolish Army Reserves

OTIS WEBB (left) of Port Arthur, Tex., and Edna Liotta, who gave a New Orleans address, were arrested in Shreveport Saturday in connection with the slaying of a Carthage, Tex., policeman and the wounding of another. (AP Wirephoto)

Three Held In Shooting Of Policemen

CARTHAGE, Tex. (AP)—One policeman died and another was seriously wounded early Saturday in a gunfight with two men they stopped for routine questioning.

Dist. Atty. Kabot Baker charged the two men, Thomas W. Shaw, 39, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and a Louisiana prison escapee; Otis Webb, 39, of New Orleans, an ex-convict; and their 18-year-old girl companion, Edna Liotta, also of New Orleans, with murder.

IN STOLEN PICKUP

Shaw was arrested in Shreveport, La., early Saturday while driving a pickup truck which had been reported stolen in Carthage shortly after the shooting. He waived extradition and was transferred to Carthage.

Webb and Miss Liotta were captured as they were riding in a taxi in Shreveport Saturday afternoon. They were held in the Shreveport jail.

None offered any resistance.

Killed was Carthage Patrolman J. M. Woods, about 50, who recognized the trio's red and white car as one fitting the description of a getaway car in the holdup of a drugstore in New London, Tex., 40 miles west of here Friday night. He was shot in the chest and stomach.

Wounded was Patrolman Fred Williams, 63, who answered Woods' radio call for help and arrived to find Woods scuffling with two men. A hospital spokesman said his condition was good.

Baker said that in the scuffle one of the men wrested a .38 caliber revolver from Woods and fired all of its bullets and all of the bullets in his own .38 caliber revolver at the two officers.

Baker said witnesses told him of seeing the car drive away and a man jumping from the car and dashing away on foot. The car continued toward Louisiana.

Baker said Shaw had made a written statement, but he declined to release its contents.

Baker also said officers had found Woods' revolver near the scene where the truck was stolen.

Louisiana officials said Shaw walked away Dec. 9 from the New Orleans charity hospital, where he had been taken from the Louisiana prison at Angola for treatment. He was serving an eight year sentence for armed robbery.

They said Webb had been sentenced April 5, 1963 to serve 18 months in the Angola prison for forgery and on Sept. 9, 1963 to 18 months for passing worthless checks.

POLICE CHECK

Dynamite Bundle Found Near U.N.

NEW YORK (AP) — Three sticks of dynamite with blasting caps were found Saturday a half mile south of the United Nations headquarters — target Friday of a bazooka rocket that exploded in the East River.

Police said the dynamite needed only an electrical charge to set it off. They were attempting to determine whether there was any link between it and the bazooka shot.

Accompanied by a woman and a child, he carried it into a nearby garage and said: "This looks like dynamite. I found it there."

STRANGE WIRING

Detective William Suchowski of the Bomb Squad described the dynamite wiring as "strange." He said the sticks "were ready for action, but it's not the way construction men operate."

In construction work, he said, caps are not attached until the dynamite is about to be exploded.

The caps were removed in an open area outside the garage and the entire find was taken to Fort Tilden for examination.

Police meanwhile filtered among Cuban exiles and turned to the Army for clues in the bazooka blast that rattled the United Nations windows.

Members of the Bomb Squad took the four-foot-long, black-painted bazooka to the Army's Picatinny Arsenal at Dover, N.J. Police said the weapon, which fires a rocket 3.5 inches in diameter and 18 inches long, had no serial number. They said they could find no manufacturer's identity mark.

The bazooka, with a paper Cuban flag attached, was found mounted on a wooden box, on the Queens side of the East River directly opposite the U.N. headquarters.

The weapon lobbed its rocket over a tugboat straight toward the U.N. building on the Manhattan side.

Christmasy

The women of the office got up a humdinger of a big, silver, table - model Christmas tree late in the week, and were beaming at the many compliments.

TOUR CHAIRMAN SAYS

Beautiful Monroe Possible For Yule

Monroe has the opportunity of being one of the most beautiful places in the world at Christmas, because of evergreens and shrubbery that form a natural background for Yule decorations.

Mrs. Richard T. Bright of 1707 North Second street, Saturday made this observation concerning the current Christmas Home Lighting Contest.

Only two days remain for Monroe residents to enter the contest, being sponsored jointly by the City of Monroe and the New-Star—World Publishing Corporation. However, after the 5 p.m. Monday deadline for entries, those participating have until 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 18, to complete their decorations.

"Monroe is a gorgeous place and lends itself so well to a Christmas lighting contest," said Mrs. Bright, who is chairman of the Monroe Garden Club Christmas Tour set for Monday.

She said when people come to visit her from Dallas, her former home, they marvel over the greenery that remains throughout the year. "With this, local residents can use their creative ability and not have to spend a lot of money to get an attractive Christmas display."

The contest is open to all residents of Monroe and adjacent subdivisions east of the Ouachita river.

Residents wishing to enter the contest must fill out the official entry blank appearing daily in the Morning World and News - Star and mail to the Christmas Home Lighting Contest Department, in care of either newspaper in Monroe.

The coupon today appears on page 14C.

Judges will be selected by the Monroe Chamber of Commerce from among leading women in the community. They will tour the city after dark to select winners in three categories:

Class C — Decorating expenditures more than $50; first prize $120, second prize $75 and third prize $35.

Cong Attacks End Lives Of 2 Americans

Guerrillas Stage Winter Offensive At North Border

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U. S. officers have been killed in the southern Mekong Delta, bringing to nine the number of Americans killed in a week of sharp Communist attacks.

A U.S. spokesman said Saturday the two died Friday, one when he was trying to direct armed helicopters in a strike at Viet Cong mortars, the other in the defense of the town of Duc Long. Two Americans were wounded with the second officer and another is missing.

DAILY BATTALION

The attacks have ranged from Camau Peninsula, in the deep south, to near the border with North Viet Nam in the north in what has been described as the Viet Cong's "winter offensive." The Communists have launched at least one attack in battalion strength daily.

The toll of American dead reached seven with discovery of the body of an American armored adviser, reported missing in the battle of An Lao Valley in the north. He was Spec. 5 William R. Hamlin of Seattle.

The total of Americans killed in action has risen to 233.

"As more advisers come out here they are getting closer to the firing line," the U.S. spokesman said. "You can expect more casualties."

Some Americans are in patrols of only 10 or 12 men. U.S. personnel are vulnerable in district towns, which are coming under attack by Viet Cong guerrillas.

The casualties among government forces have been heavy, including at least 30 killed at Duc Long.

Meanwhile in Saigon, three of South Viet Nam's most influential Buddhist monks began a 48-hour strike in an attempt to stir up followers to topple Premier Tran Van Huong's regime.

"We have tried to be patient, but the government has threatened the existence of Buddhism," declared Thich Tam Chau, chairman of the Buddhist Institute, in a speech to 200 assembled monks and nuns.

"We thought we could reconstruct Buddhism after the downfall of the former dictatorship (Ngo Dinh Diem). But this government for more than a month has slandered Buddhism more than ever before."

Chau, with Supreme Patriarch Thich Tinh Kheit and Thick Tri Quang, began a hunger strike.

Chau asked that the hunger strike be confined to the three, saying "you others must wait for another time." Later, at a rally at Buddhist headquarters, he told 2,000 Buddhists not to demonstrate against the government "until the orders are given to you from us."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said there would be no answer to a letter signed by Chau asking the United States to help overthrow Huong. The letter compared Huong to former President Diem and asked U.S. help in "building a truly democratic government."

Mild Readings Forecast Today

PLEASANT

Temperatures under partly cloudy skies today will range between a pleasant 66 and 70. The low tonight is predicted from 38 to 42.

There will be many more hours of clear skies today with 50 to 60 per cent of sunshine in the area.

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Robert McNamara Saturday at a Washington news conference announces plans to wipe out all Army reserve units and merge some with the National Guard. McNamara uses a chart to discuss proposed changes. (AP Wirephoto)

Guard Units Would Take Over Duties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara made public Saturday his plan to abolish the Army Reserve organization and place its functions and part of its personnel in the National Guard.

Remaining individuals in the Reserve are to go into the military limbo of standby status.

McNamara estimated the reorganization ultimately will save $150 million annually.

NO LONGER NEEDED

He asserted there no longer is any valid military requirement for existence of the Army Reserve units as such. This assessment is certain to stir some strenuous opposition in Congress.

McNamara's action, forecast for days in published reports, was announced officially at a Pentagon news conference.

The main plan deals only with the Army Reserve, leaving the Air Force, Navy and Marines Reserve programs unaffected at present.

But in an accompanying statement, McNamara disclosed that he plans to remove about 100 members of Congress and some 5,000 other upper echelon federal employes from ready reserve status and this would affect reserve officers in all branches of the armed services.

His argument is that these men would be more useful to the nation in their present jobs than in the armed services in wartime.

Among the more prominent political figures holding high Reserve rank are Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. The 1964 Republican presidential nominee is an Air Force major general and Thurmond holds a similar two-star rank in the Army Reserve.

In addition to statements of dissent from congressional sources, the Reserve Officers Association demanded public hearings before the Army Reserve reorganization is implemented.

McNamara called the program a "realignment" of Army Reserve and National Guard forces. But, in essence, it means that divisions and subdivisions of the Reserve will disappear and in their place will be a National Guard augmented by five brigades formed from the reserves.

The Guard there upon would have an estimated 549,314 men in its high-priority outfits. But, said McNamara, this is less than the present overload strength of about 700,000 for the two organizations — of which the reserves have 300,000.

On this basis, McNamara predicted annual savings of about $150 million in Defense Department costs, including drill pay to reservists. But new money will be needed to get such a program under way, including funds for equipping the units.

McNamara said he will make this request to Congress. That could open the way for Congress to weigh the whole program, even if McNamara's sponsorship of legislation is limited to no more than requests for money.

Thurmond was one of the first to express alarm after the formal announcement of the plan although several other Congress members were critical in advance.

YULE FUND DRIVE

Success Depends Upon Goodness

"Goodness is the only investment that never fails."

When Henry David Thoreau, noted American philosopher, wrote these words he might have had the Goodfellows in mind.

Their aim is to spread goodness to the needy families of the area for Christmas.

But, their success or failure depends upon the goodness of the citizens of the Twin Cities. The Goodfellows are asking for cash donations, good used clothing, toys and food.

Contributions to the fund should be sent to the Goodfellows, in care of the Morning World and News-Star, Monroe.

MOTHER WRITES

A Calhoun mother of eight writes, "My children range in age from 4 to 15 and for each Christmas I have had to ask for charity so they could have the food and clothing they needed, without any hope of more than a small toy or two. This Christmas I hope and pray desperately that I can help my children have a very happy and wonderful Christmas. If God, and someone like you, will help me I know I can."

Many letters such as this one come into the newspapers each day, asking for assistance from the goodwill organization. The need far exceeds the supply. A total of $2204.50 has been collected to date, but almost $4000 is needed in order for the Goodfellows to reach their set goal of $6,000.

"I am writing for help for me and my mother," writes a Monroe son. "She has been ill for about eight years and I have not been able to work. I'm the only child she has. My mother is unable to do anything for herself. I have to lift her from her bed to her chair. If you can see anyway possible please send us something to make our Christmas a little happier."

A nine-year-old boy of West Monroe asks for "warm clothes and some shoes" for him and his two brothers for school.

One Rig Victim Not Found Yet

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP)—Coastal waters were combed late Saturday for a missing crewman of an oil rig which overturned Friday night.

The missing man was H. R. Pilcher, about 20, of Port Barre, La.

The other five crewmen were rescued unharmed. E. P. Pierron spent 2½ hours beneath the toppled rig before a deep-sea diver reached him with an oxygen tank. He came up with minor injuries.

Merger Hits Solons Used To Traveling

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100 Congress members face the loss of active military reserve status which for many has meant free trips to far parts of the world as annual training.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told a news conference Saturday that "about 100 congressmen" and some 150,000 other federal officials and employes will no longer be able to hold ready Reserve assignments.

"It is a waste of manpower and funds," McNamara said as he announced a series of orders for cutbacks and merger of the Army Reserves and National Guard.

Reserve commissions of the affected officials range from two-star major generals down to captains and lieutenants.

McNamara said that senators, representatives and the others will be shifted to an unpaid status in the standby reserves.

"We are transferring personnel holding key assignments in the judicial, executive and legislative branches of the government from the ready Reserve to the standby Reserve," McNamara said.

His orders dealing with key government officials appeared to apply to the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps as well as the Army. A series of other announcements dealt only with the Army Reserve.

Parishes Consume $82 Million In 1962

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Public Affairs Research Council (PAR) released a comparative analysis Saturday of parish government operations in Louisiana.

The analysis showed what services parishes provide, what is spent on them, and sources of revenue for each.

PAR said in fiscal 1962 all Louisiana parishes, except Orleans and East Baton Rouge, spent $82.6 million on governmental functions and services, and collected $83 million in revenues.

The private research agency said Plaquemines Parish led in per-capita revenue collections with $255.44 collected for each inhabitant. Plaquemines also led in per capita expenditures during 1962 with $170.19 per inhabitant.

But PAR said Plaquemines had no municipalities and receives large revenues from oil and gas production.

Such statistics contain certain defined limitations, PAR said, but they can be "valuable as a point of departure for further analysis of parish government."

The agency said parish government is a product of political evolution in Louisiana rather than sound planning.

The analysis also compared county, or parish, revenues and expenditures throughout the United States.

Louisiana ranked 29th with $34.44 in per capita expenditures among all counties in the nation. The state ranked 28th in per capita revenue collections by parishes with $34.58.

The report showed highways constitute the largest single item of expenditure of the state's parishes, amounting to one out of every four dollars spent. Police protection was the second major category of expenditure.

The report also showed the property tax was the major revenue producer, yielding 37 per cent of the revenues collected by the parishes. Over the nation, counties obtain 46 per cent of their revenues from the property tax.

IN DOWNTOWN MONROE

20,000 View Yule Parade

An estimated 20,000 people, mostly children but generously sprinkled with grown - ups, turned out to see the parade.

Of the 38 units entered in the parade, sponsored by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, nine were awarded first, second or third prizes in the three divisions of competition—floats, senior marching units and junior marching units.

The Future Teachers Club and the Art Club of Ouachita Parish High School using as their theme, "Keep Christ In Christmas," reaped the benefits of their joint effort as their float captured first prize. The winner depicted a scene of Mary and Joseph and the Wise Men with the Infant Jesus in the manger and included a three - piece stained glass window with a white cross.

Taking second place in the float division was Our Lady of Fatima school with their theme, "O Come, Let Us Adore Him." The school used a nativity scene similar to that of the OPHS entry highlighted by a large manger covered with pine trees.

Delta Sigma Fraternity took third prize with their float showing Mary and Joseph on the threshold of the inn being turned away by the innkeeper. The fraternity used a play on words in their theme, "Let Christ Inn Your Christmas."

Neville's marching tiger band won first place in the senior marching unit competition with OPHS and Bastrop taking second and third, respectively.

In junior marching competition Jefferson Junior High took top honors with Winnfield and Ouachita Parish Junior High School taking second and third prizes.

While Santa Claus himself was the apparent favorite of the younger set, the Guyton School of Baton's marching lasses won the heart of everyone including the judges with their rendition of "We Wish You a Merry Christmas." Dressed in green and white and led by Miss Martha Guyton, a coed at Northeast State College, they were given special recognition for their performance.

Jaycee Parade Chairman Bill Vaughn, who termed the parade a "howling success," said afterward that the Jaycees are optimistic that the parade will continue to grow in future years.

"The parade," he said, "was highly successful from the standpoint that it brought thousands of people to downtown Monroe and stressed the religious meaning of the holiday season in every respect.

"The Monroe Jaycees are optimistic as to the future growth of this annual event and plans are even now underway to make next year's parade an even bigger event.

"We feel that without the co-operation of many local civic and service groups, schools and churches, a project of this magnitude could not be undertaken and we wish to thank publicly all the many participants."

Judges for the event were Mrs. Gloria Yarbrough, Mrs. Dixie Ware, Joe Barry Mullins, Si Willing of Winnsboro, and Judge Mack Barham of Bastrop.

LSU Board Approves Branch For Shreveport

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors approved a $45.5 million operating budget Saturday for next fiscal year, and revealed sites for two new commutercollege branches.

The board approved as the site of a two-year commuter college in Shereveport a 200-acre tract between Youree Drive and East Kings Highway owned by David Crow, Albert Sklar and Leonard Phillips.

The site is across Youree Drive from East Ridge Country Club and Piedmont Oaks Tennis Club, near the South Broadmoor residential subdivision.

The university agreed to pay $250,000, or 12,250 an acre for the land.

For the site of another commuter college, the board accepted an offer from the heirs of Arnold Le Doux of a 100-acre donation and an option to buy another 100 acres at $1,000 an acre.

The Le Doux property is 2½ miles south of Eunice in Acadia Parish off Ritchie Road. It is on a 1,600-acre tract owned by Mrs. Adeline Ardoin Le Doux, widow of Arnold Le Doux, and Edward G. Le Doux, Jack S. Le Doux, and Mary Lou Le Doux.

The colleges are expected to be completed in the fall of 1966.

In other action, the LSU board set up an executive graduate council to co-ordinate graduate programs throughout the LSU system. It authorized the law school to expand its summer academic program to offer two six-weeks sessions starting with the 1965 summer term.

And it gave athletic director James J. Corbett a new 10-year contract at $20,000 a year, and provided bonuses to the athletic director and football coaching staff for the LSU team's participation in the Sugar Bowl game. The bonuses range from 5 to 10 per cent of individual salaries.

The board authorized LSU President John A. Hunter to enter a 99-year lease agreement with the Church of Christ of Baton Rouge for a campus center for student religious activities.

Honor Society Slates Awards

RUSTON (Special) — Applications for graduate fellowships awarded by Phi Kappa Phi, a national scholastic honor society with a chapter at Louisiana Tech, must be submitted by Feb. 15 to Miss Annis Cawthon, secretary of the chapter, it was announced by Dr. Bob Tarbarlet, associate professor of education at Tech.

Three awards are made annually in amounts ranging from $600 to $2,500.

Each chapter of Phi Kappa Phi submits candidates from the senior membership. These students must be ready to enter graduate study at the beginning of the academic year immediately following. A person's scholastic record, his plans for graduate study and the evaluations supplied by his professor receive primary consideration.

U.S. Engineers Advance Plans For 4 Bridges

Four Louisiana locations were placed in the advanced category for the construction of future bridges by the Vicksburg District of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, it was announced Friday by William T. King, Jr., Lt. Col, Civil Engineer.

The Secretary of the Army and Chief of Engineers have given their advance approval to the locations and plans of future bridges to be constructed across the above listed waterways.

The Vicksburg District said clearances to be provided in the bridge should be coordinated with that office prior to preparation of plans. Before the commencement of construction, a copy of the bridge plans should be furnished the Vicksburg office for information and record purposes.

Newspaper Closed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A newspaper published by the press officer of South Viet Nam's chief of state was closed by the government Saturday on grounds of "sowing disorders detrimental to national security."

The banned newspaper was privately owned by Hoang Ho, press chief for chief of state Phan Khac Suu.

TONIGHT WILL be the final performance of Monroe Little Theatre's current production, "Sunday in New York." The two shown above, Jan Evans, and Chris West, play the leading parts. Jan portrays the part of a girl who visits her brother in New York, but with the hope of finding an eligible bachelor. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. Tickets can be obtained by calling the box office at 323-1235.

Cast Announced For Production

Principal players selected for this production are Nancy Walker of Minden, Mimi; Mary Beth Williams of Alexandria, Musette; David Wylie of Ruston, Rodolphe; Gene Kirkpatrick of Lake Charles, Marcel; James Gill of Baton Rouge, Schaunard; Jerry Zachary of Homer, Colline; James Taylor of Homer, Alcindoro, and Wayne Millet of Denham Springs, Parpignal.

Chorus members for the presentation, which is scheduled for March 18 and 19 in Howard Auditorium, are needed.

Man Wants Woman

LONDON (AP) — A man sued a woman Saturday for breach of promise and 5,000 pounds ($14,000) damages. The plaintiff, law clerk Eardley C. Gunasekera, 27, said Christina Ware, 22, a nurse, broke off their engagement.

Anvil City, Alaska, an isolated village on the Sward Peninsula, grew into the bustling city of Nome within a year after gold was found nearby.

SPOTLIGHTING THE AREA

With Jimmy Hatten

It would be hard to point to any one material thing that changed the destinies of frontier settlements as did the railroad. The mere presence of the iron trail developed some of our better known towns in north Louisiana, for instance, while withering others away because of its absence.

Let's consider the case of Vienna, in Lincoln Parish.

Vienna, probably named after Vienna, Ga., is the oldest town in the section of Louisiana west of the Ouachita and north of Natchitoches. Incorporated in 1848, it faced a bright future — a Masonic Lodge was organized in 1851, a church in 1853, and then a school house. The "Old Huey House," served as a hotel in the early days of the stage line. "The North Louisianan," a newspaper, was established.

Vienna was the only town of any size in the immediate territory. By 1873, Vienna had been named the seat of Lincoln Parish. A two-story frame courthouse was erected.

But the hushed death knell for Vienna as a major city was sounded even before its rapid growth began. For before the Civil War, the Vicksburg, Shreveport, and Pacific Railroad had been built as far west as Monroe.

In 1883, the first locomotive came to a way-station in Lincon Parish. A man by the name of Robert E. Russ donated a site for a town, which was later surveyed by the railroad engineers.

They named the town for Russ and today it is Ruston. The railroad built through Lincoln Parish was four miles south of Vienna. The Vienna merchants moved their base of operations to Ruston, and, by popular vote, the parish seat itself was moved to Ruston.

Vienna's day in the sun was over.

When "Old Rough 'N Ready" came to East Carroll Parish to hunt bear in 1907, a Washington newspaperman wrote that President Theodore Roosevelt had turned his back on civilization "for a period of rest and sport in the wilds of North Louisiana."

And it's doubtful if that section of the state will ever again witness the likes again.

After at first meeting with failure to kill a bear in East Carroll, the hunting party moved to a new camp on Bear Lake in Madison Parish. It is said the hunters and hounds pursued their sport with such gusto that old-timers swore all the game would forever be frightened away, what with the crashing through the canebreaks and the blowing of the horns as if Gabriel himself had, at last, decided to sound the call.

Droves of animals were reported seen scurrying as if their very lives depended on it, across east-west Y and M.V. right-of-way to the south.

But the President got his bear, and the news was flashed to an amused world. In commemoration of his visit and success, O'Hara's Switch was re-named Roosevelt.

The President and his party galloped their horses 16 miles in three hours that afternoon to reach the Shield's home, where from the hunt, the rest and daily swims in the lake, he declared he never in his life had seen finer sport.

RECEPTION ROOM is an outstanding feature of the First Fidelity Mortgage Company's new home office building at Tower Drive and North 18th street. Mrs. Ruth Parks, receptionist, is shown at her desk in the modern and functional office, which contains an unusual interior design. The new building serves as headquarters for the firm, which has branch offices in Lake Charles and New Orleans, Hot Springs, Ark. and Picayune, Miss.

First Fidelity Mortgage Firm In New Building

First Fidelity Mortgage Company, co - founded eight years ago by Jamar W. Adcock and William R. Boles, has moved into their new home office building, located on Tower Drive and North 18th Street in Monroe.

For the past six and a half years, the main office of the firm had been located on Riverside Drive in Monroe.

The new building serves as headquarters for the firm, whose business reaches throughout the state of Louisiana and into Southern Arkansas, Eastern Mississippi and the Gulf Coast of that neighboring state. The home office is staffed with 22 experienced personnel, and is under the direction of James W. Beaver, executive vice president of the firm.

Chartered in 1956 to help meet the increasing demand for home loans in Northeast Louisiana, First Fidelity has grown and expanded rapidly. The company now specializes in commercial, FHA, VA and conventional home loans.

The firm has branch offices in Lake Charles and New Orleans, in Louisiana, and Hot Springs, Ark, and Picayune, Miss.

At the close of operations for the first full year, First Fidelity had in excess of $6,000,000 in loans. Today, it is servicing nearly $60,000,000 in loans, and is doing business with eight nationally known institutional investors.

In announcing the opening of the new, modern building, the company's founders Adcock and Boles, said, "We are proud of our new home office; not only because it provides us with much needed additional space, from which we will be better able to serve our customers, but also because it represents an expression of confidence by the public in our company."

Chinese Elected

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China announced Saturday 3,037 deputies were elected to the Third National People's Congress scheduled to open in Peking Dec. 20. The elections began last Sept. 4.

Service Station At Oak Grove Is Burglarized

OAK GROVE (Special) — A downtown Oak Grove service station was robbed during the early hours Saturday morning. An undetermined amount of cash was taken.

Walters Service Station was robbed between 12 midnight and 1 a.m. after a burglar or burglars gained entrance to the washrack room through a rear window. A window was then broken that leads into the main office.

According to reports, the cash register was not tampered with because it was left empty and open at the close of the day's business transactions. However, the cash box hidden in another part of the office was removed. The unestimated amount of money taken included the day's receipts.

The sheriff's office at Oak Grove is questioning a suspect in the case and continuing the investigation of the robbery. JAN

Local Man, 69, Hurt In Crash

A 69-year-old Monroe man, Paul L. Artman of 111 Forest St., suffered a broken wrist and an injured knee Saturday about 11:22 a.m. when he was involved in a two-car accident at North Fourth and Pine Streets.

Investigating officers said the Artman vehicle was going south on North Fourth and ran a red light at Pine colliding with an eastbound vehicle driven by Willie S. Ellison, 71-year-old Negro of 11c Texas Ave.

Late Saturday a member of the injured man's family reported him to be in satisfactory condition at St. Francis Hospital.

A slight alteration has been made in the United States-Mexico border, the National Geographic says. Mexico lost land along the Rio Grande when the river shifted course in the 19th Century. An exchange of treaty ratifications early in 1964 restored to Mexico a large part of El Paso's Chamizal Zone. Four miles of the Rio Grande will be relocated in a concrete channel along the new boundary.

Bastrop Church Cantata Today

BASTROP (Special) — A Christmas Cantata will be presented by the Memorial Methodist Church choir at 5 p.m. today in the church sanctuary.

Selections from "Carols of Christmas" by Ellen Jane Lorenz will be featured. Miss Edna Blethen will direct the 14-voice group and Mrs. Howard Wailes will accompany on the organ.

The choir is composed of sopranos: Mrs. M. A. Wroten, Mrs. Lois Eppinette, Mrs. Marley Ping, Mrs. C. L. Cheshire, Mrs. Calvin Lovell and Mrs. Tom Frank Naff; altos: Mrs. Cecil Lilly, Mrs. Kenneth Mitchell and Mrs. Glenn Murphy; basses: Howard Wells and Billy Dark; and tenors: Boyd Priest and Warren Storment.

Rev. Abe Connerly, pastor of Memorial Methodist, invited the public to attend the Christmas music festival.

Many New Books Are Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A variety of lovely and interesting books in the factual field were added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library last week. One of the loveliest ones is "The Bible As History In Pictures" written by Werner Keller. This book could be used by students, teachers and preachers. Another beautiful book on a religious theme is "The Hill Of The Lord" written by Edward Longstreth. This is a book of Bible stories for adults. "Counselling With Senior Citizens" by J. Paul Brown is very valuable for ministers who want to make the correct approach to the older people in their congregations. "Farewell To Foggy Bottom" written by Ellis Briggs is a scathing indictment of the U. S. foreign service written by a former career diplomat. "See How They Run" written by Paul Allyn is a very clear account of how a congressman is elected. "Your Hundred Billion $$$" written by Jacob A. Rubin is a book which claims to tell you how to make a fortune. "Treat Them Human" by William Hirsch is a very illuminating and folksy account of the work of the sheriff in Toledo, Ohio.

Students planning to enter college and their parents are always looking for books which rates the different colleges and finally one has been published. It is "Comparative Guide to American Colleges For Students, Parents and Counselors." It will be invaluable in making a choice of schools. Another book for college bound students is "Your College Education-How To Pay For It" written by Sarah Splaver. Both of these books will be widely used and are valuable additions to the Library collection. An interesting addition to the library, which was published as a Louisiana Document is "the Fulvous Tree Duck in Louisiana" written by Robert Bruce McCartney. It contains a great deal of information not available until it's publication.

So many people suffer with heart ailments that a new book on how to take care of this important portion of the body is always welcome. The latest one is "Your Key To a Healthy Heart" written by Herbert Bailey. Cookbooks are always in demand this week "Through Europe With A Jug Of Wine" written by Morrison Wood is a very fine book on European cookery. "200 Main Course Dishes" by Marian Tracy will be eagerly read by the homemaker who is looking for something new.

There are several lovely books in the field of fine arts "Victorian Architecture" is a very fine study of the architecture of the Victorian period. Most of the illustrations deal with building in England, but it is an informative as well as an interesting book. An... sites and the remarkable woman who built them." This book was written by Leonard Victor Huber and published by the New Orleans Chapter of the Louisiana Landmark Society. "Life With Picasso" by Francoise Gilot is a very fine biography of this modern artist. "Painting with Purpose" by Morris Davidson is an excellent book of instructions for artists. "Five Operas and Richard Strauss" written by Lotte Lehmann is an excellent account of the operas written by Richard Strauss.

The literature collection has not been neglected. Copies have been received of a new edition of "Leaves ... work on the poems of John Keats. Of great interest to students of Archeology is "Daily Life of the Etruscans" written by Jacques Heurgon. "Forever Old, Forever New" is the fascinating account of Emily Kimbrough's recent sojourn in Greece. William Davenport is the author of "India, A Personal Guide" which should be most useful to a traveller to this country.

There are three books of contemporary life in the United States. "So What Else Is New" is Harry Golden's eighth book. His steady readers will welcome another volume of his homespun philosophy. "Florida; Polluted Paradise" by ... "The Silent Traveler is San Francisco" by I Chiang is a very beautiful book as are all of Mr. Chiangs. He writes beautifully and the illustrations which he does himself are really exquisite. An interesting book of history is "One Small Candle" written by Thomas J. Fleming. It is an account of the Pilgrims first year in America.

There are several new biographies. One is "John M. Browning; American Gunmaker" written by John Browning and Curt Gentry. Hester Chapman is the author of "The Tragedy of Charles II, in the years 1630-1660." Richard Whalen is the author of "The Found... written by General A. A. Vandegrift.

Fiction was very scarce this week, but there are two new mystery stories, "A Knife For the Juggler" by Manning Coles and "The Glass Cell" by Patricia Highsmith. There is also a good western story, "The Vanquished" by Brian Garfield. The main Library will be open this afternoon for reading, reference and the circulation of books. The hours are 2:00 to 5:00 p.m.

SPECIAL MASS

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI plans to celebrate an unprecedented open air Mass in St. Peter's Square on Christmas Day, Vatican sources said Saturday.

Month's Salary To Yule Fund

JONESVILLE (Special) — State Rep. David I. Patten of Catahoula parish has announced that he will give a month's legislative salary to a Christmas fund to help needy children and families in Catahoula parish.

"Nothing can be more touching than to think of a little girl without a doll, or a little boy without a toy for Christmas," Rep. Patten said.

"I was once a little boy without a toy for Christmas, and for that reason I want to give to this cause," he added.

Patten said, "our state ranks among the highest in helping ... qualify for help through these agencies. These are the ones we hope to reach at Christmas."

He also said "Anyone who would like to join me in this program will be welcome to do so, and it will be greatly appreciated."

TO LIGHT STATUE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Pope Paul VI will push a button at the Vatican Jan. 1 to turn on the flood lights at Rio's 128-ft. hilltop statue of Christ the Redeemer and open the city's 400th anniversary celebration. The statue was first lighted on Columbus Day, Oct. 12, 1931, by a radio signal from Italian inventor Guglielmo Marconi in Pisa.

BOOKS

Master Builder Of Short Stories

THE HORSE KNOWS THE WAY. By John O'Hara. Random House. $5.95.

This is the fourth year in a row that a book of short stories by O'Hara has been issued, and there was one novel in between.

The wonder lies not only in the great quantity of stories that he has poured out — there are 28 in this collection — but the fact that he keeps surpassing himself in the matter of quality. Many of the stories in this book have a terrific impact.

As everyone knows by now, O'Hara has a supersensitive ear, and utilizes terse dialogue to achieve his effects with a minimum of effort. He also has a very sharp eye for the small visual details of his scenes, so that his descriptions take on a stark exactitude.

The result is that you feel you know his people, that you identify with them and feel their emotions. In many of the stories, you are enticed into a real concern with the outcome of the narrative.

In this collection O'Hara has several items in which people reach the flash point of their emotions and suddenly tear into each other.

In "The Clear Track" a husband and wife come to a bitter break over their respective infidelities. In "The Madeline Wherry Case" there is a more explosive climax to a similar situation. "The Staring Game" is about two old biddies who drop the polite amenities and claw jealously at each other. There is a nasty male bully deviling a woman friend about her guilty past in "The Jet Set." In "All Tied Up" there is a sadistic banker tormenting an employe.

Pathos is another strong factor, in "The Bonfire," a tale of a young widow learning to fear her own emotions, and in "I Can't Thank You Enough," a story of a lonely, frustrated spinster.

O'Hara says in a foreward that he is leaving the short story "for a while, at least." After recording proudly that he was given the Award of Merit of the American Academy of Arts and Letters for the novel, it is clear that he is eager to return to that form and demonstrate his skill once again. As he says, "I have work to do."

Meanwhile he has evidenced in this book his natural mastery of the short story. Few are his peers.

Research On Both Pictures Of Gen. Patton

PATTON: ORDEAL AND TRIUMPH. By Ladislas Farago. Obolensky. $9.95.

Almost two decades after his death, George Smith Patton Jr. remains one of the controversial figures of World War II. His detractors picture him as a profane glory hog with little feeling for his men; his admirers portray him as a military genius who could have ended the war in Europe months earlier and could have saved Eastern Europe from communism.

Farago, chief of research and planning in the special warfare branch of the Navy during World War II, says he spent a dozen years researching the material for this 850-page book in hope of finding out which picture is correct. He aparently concluded that each side is partially right.

Patton, as seen in this lively account, was indeed a man obsessed with his own brilliance and destiny — but at the same time was a compassionate man, concerned that not a soldier under his command die unnecessarily.

And he was a genius of sorts, whose exploits, starting in World War I, did perhaps more than those of any American to show what a terrifyingly effective weapon the tank could be when used properly. But he also was an incredibly stubborn man whose vanity and sometimes abusive vocabulary dismayed so many people that the value of his arguments was lost.

Farago tracks Patton's personal and professional life step by step through its high and low spots. The picture that emerges is largely a familiar one — the tall, flamboyant, profane, pistol-wearing soldier who was a master horseman, an impeccable host, a rigid disciplinarian and above all a man's man who could command the fiercest loyalties.

Less familiar aspects include Patton's stated belief that he was the reincarnation of a long line of warriors, his fears that he would be drawn from the military life by a call to preach, and his use of his private wealth for such purposes as buying spare parts for his tanks when the Army failed to supply them.

The military experts and historians probably wont' agree on the merits of the book any more than they do on Patton. But in the meantime it makes fascinating reading.

Goes As Native

EYE OF THE DAY. By Tarquin Olivier. Morrow. $4.

For nearly two years young Olivier conducted a sort of one-man version of the people - to - people program out there in Southeast Asia.

What he brings back in the printed page is far more than a travel saga, though he does spin many a tale of the exotic sights, sounds and smells of those offbeat places.

His technique was to work his way into the highly unofficial corners of the places he visited, to live with native families and break down their reticence toward foreigners. The American equivalent would be to win a boardinghouse familiarity with taxi drivers, oil riggers, county farm agents, clerks, teachers, hillbillies, salesmen and a few businessmen and bureaucrats.

The effort had its hazards. He had to take part in a bloodletting native dance; he came down with malaria on the far island of Timor; he often had to maintain face by eating miserable food, and he risked his neck wandering over the unmarked border of Burma.

From Indonesia he reports his impressions of a Sukarno whose spell-binding oratory masks the economic disintegration of the country. He flirted with a Balinese girl, lived in a crammed hovel with the family of a taxi driver, interviewed a Malayan prime minister, and visited with a Thai prince (junior grade).

He found people whose Asiatic minds are convinced that planning for tomorrow is irreligious; he found others who cannot trust even members of their own race unless they know them in a personal, clannish way.

There are times when his account is so vivid as to be florid. He follows the traditional techniques of the adventurous explorer, but he also is an investigator. What he reports contains an element of medieval terror in the midst of the nuclear age. This is no think-theory, political analysis. It is a sampling of the under side of the Asiatic chaos.

Book On The Barrymores Is Excellent

THE BARRYMORES. By Hollis Alpert. Dial. $6.95.

Alpert has made a comprehensive project of this triple biography, gathering into his long, illustrated volume a very complete chronicle of the professional and personal careers of Lionel Ethel and John.

It is a sympathetic account, in the sense that the author is dealing with three lives which often were torn by tragedy and disaster. And although he treats the Barrymores' weaknesses with candor, he also fills in their portraits with a full measure of their appealing qualities.

Alpert also emphasizes the paradox that although they came from an acting family, none of the three Barrymores really wanted to go on the stage — yet in the 1920s they became the reigning family of the theater, and later of the movies.

Because of his thorough research, Alpert's story of the three individuals becomes a major view of the entertainment world in which they lived, including many producers, actors, writers and directors.

Of the three, Ethel emerges as the most admirable, as the one who held the family together. Lionel's personal life was less disturbed than the others' but there is pathos in the way he sacrificed his career as an etcher. John, who was the villain of the family — trading fame for notoriety when he became a rake a boozer — at least was a devoted craftsman in his earlier days.

As a biographer, Alpert utilizes the calm approach, even when he is dealing with the more flamboyant aspects of John's personality. So his book is not as juicy as Gene Gowler's bio-

Sixty-two Americans will be ordained as Roman Catholic priests in a ceremony at St. Peter's Basilica Wednesday, officials of the Pontifical North American College said Saturday.

By Jealous Son

NAKED EYE. By Charles Nider. Horizon. $3.95.

A man's psychological battle to get out from under the shadow cast by his famous father is the central theme of Neider's novel, but it also is a story of emotional turmoil.

The narrator is Hal Tucker, a fashion photographer, son of a widely known and admired nature photographer, Ezra Jewett Tucker.

When it becomes known that Ezra is doomed by cancer, the son's longtime hatred of his father boils up. He wants his father to die. It is a hatred based on envy. But there also is jealousy, growing out of a suspicion that Ezra once had carried on an affair with Hal's wife Marian, a fashion model.

Yet the son goes along with the mother and sister's old man grows weaker, Hal's hatred is lessened by pity until he finds himself in an ambivalent position.

All during his wait for death, the son's own life is reaching a critical point. His marriage to Marian has turned into a mockery, and he is conducting an affair with Sarah, a young art student, while Marian begins to suffer from her unrequited love for another man.

We see all the characters from Hal's viewpoint — and that includes Hal himself, as he works his way through a maze of inner changes.

Brush and Palette

by Jan Bank

Two additional names, Andre Robinson and Jack Bailles have been added to the list of artists displaying a number of works in the "Art for Christmas" exhibition currently at The Masur Museum of Art, 1400 South Grand in Monroe. All the paintings in the various galleries are moderately priced for Christmas buying but more important they make an attractive show of the various techniques practiced by our area artists that makes interesting viewing for any museum visitor. To some degree the observer sees his own reflections in a painting and therefore no two people encounter the same emotional experience viewing an art work. But from a technical standpoint there are certain standard qualities a good painting must possess. Carolyn Adair has on display a fine painting called "Bridges" that three professional opinions agreed upon. Before its current exhibition the painting had won an award in a competitive show. Impressive in size it is definitely an asset to any collection. Mary Anita Lennon, Bess James, and Ed Shutz, all members of the Art Center Inc. feel the qualities of the painting show a refined sense of color and good design, it is an abstract with imagery still important, done in a textural effect in wide range of neutral tints combined with bright intensity. From a non professional point of view, I personally enjoyed the painting very much and I hope when you visit the present exhibit you'll enjoy it too. Of course this is only one painting chosen at random from the many of every size, shape, and color imaginable hung in the museum.

AUXILIARY MEMOS

Auxiliary members receive schedules in the mail designating the various hostesses on duty for a three month period. As an additional reminder the ladies have been called prior to their afternoon duty. The calls will be discontinued as hostesses for each week will be listed in this column. Dollie Petrus has done a marvelous job as chairman of the auxiliary which numbers approximately 100 members who thoroughly enjoy the afternoons they spend at the museum during the viewing hours of two until five p.m. Hostesses this week will be Sunday, Dec. 13, Mrs. C. Petrus, Tuesday Dec. 15, Mrs. D. Masur and Mrs. F. Bonner, Wednesday, Dec. 16, Mrs. M. Blumenthal and Mrs. P. Lawrence. Thursday, Dec. 17, Mrs. M. Bank, Mrs. A. Grant and Mrs. J. Masur, Friday, Dec. 18, Mrs. J. Geisler, Mrs. E. Grasserand and Mrs. R. Schwartz, Saturday, Dec. 19, Mrs. L. Dunkelman.

ART NEWS HERE AND THERE

Professor of art at the Newcomb Art School, James L. Steg, is quite used to being in the artistic limelight having won many awards. But even for such a sophisticated talent the events of the past few weeks have been exhilerating. There is a one man Steg exibition at the Orleans Gallery on Royal St. in New Orleans, another at the University of South Florida in Tampa, there are several Steg prints in the "Collectors Show" at the Arkansas Art Center in Little Rock, Ark., Wesleyan College in Macon, Ga. has awarded the artist a purchase prize in a current "National Exihibtion of Prints and Drawings" and Steg has received word that the United States Ifnformation Agency has added seven of his prints to its overseas traveling exhibition.

Pop art is much abused but one fact is significant, it has proved to be the most copied U. S. art movement abroad since abstract-expressionism, so its development may lie in directions not quite obvious to all of us here and now. And it is fun, It's amusing to read about, fun and interesting to look at, and it must be enjoyable for the artist to create. To compare the work of a realist such as Andrew Wyeth and pop artist Jasper Johns seems to almost border on the ridiculous but tho their methods and results differ as like chocolate sauce and spaghetti, their motives are much the same, that of transforming everyday objects into images of uncommon beauty. Johns is "concerned with a thing not being what it was, with it becoming something else, with any moment in which one identifies a thing precisely, and with the slipping away of that moment." Wyeth remembers vividly that his artist-teacher-father, would make him paint still life and say "When you're doing that form and shadow, remember it is not just a shadow. It is something that will never happen again just like that. Try to get that quality, that fleeting character of the thing."

Johns most known work is his 1960 Painted Bronze, that at first glance is simply two beer cans on a pedestal, actually they are cast bronze facsimiles of ale cans, one slightly smaller than the other. One is punched open and empty, the other is closed and solid bronze. Their labels are hand painted, and when lifted off their base, they provide a hefty gravitational surprise. Although pop followers read all sorts of messages in the creation, the subject was chosen because of an off hand remark made by a fellow artist. Referring to Johns fast selling works the artist remarked "Give that guy two beer cans and he could sell them." and he did Jasper Johns sold the beer cans inspired work for $1,000.

TO OPEN EXHIBIT

BONN (UPI) — Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, mother of the late President, arrived Saturday from Copenhagen in connection with the opening Tuesday of an exhibition of her son's private papers and some of his White House furniture.

Survey Cited

JONESVILLE (Special) — A survey is now underway for the blacktopping of the Parhams road in lower Catahoula parish, it was announced by Sen. J. C. Gilbert and Rep. David I. Patten.

The project will include the blacktopping of that portion of state route 600 in the Parhams community and including the extension of the parish road.

Patten said that the survey should be completed shortly, and the blacktop job completed by mid-1965.

More Southerners

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The troops of Confederate Gen. John B. Hood were hopelessly outnumbered in the Battle of Nashville 100 years ago.

Not so Saturday, at a centennial re-enactment of the Civil War engagement. Most of the 1,200 troops on hand wore Confederate gray.

Background Given On The Revolutions By Students

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Ludwig Fountain bubbles near Sather Gate on the University of California's Berkeley campus. It is named officially by the Board of Regents for a dog.

Ludwig, a brown Labrador, strolls sleepily each morning out of the modernistic, many-windowed Student Union Building and basks in the sun. He is lazily unmindful of noisy student arguments there. Ludwig stirs only if he has to chase off other dogs.

THE MALE

Across the red brick mall near Sproul Hall, the administration building, a fat, gray rat sneaks out of a box hedge hourly, nibbles cautiously under an oak tree, then darts back into hiding.

Ludwig and the rat are about the only constant symbols of contentment near Sather Gate, for many years a breeding spot of unrest on the campus.

The brick mall is frequented by placard-bearers for such causes as civil rights; distributors of printed matter on the Congo, Cuba and Viet Nam; and loud haranguers, each with his cluster of curious, book-laden listeners.

Today a revolt rocks the 1,200-acre campus on the wooded hills lining the east shore of San Francisco Bay.

Pushed by an aggressive minority and led by Mario Savio, a student who spent last summer in civil rights work at McComb, Miss., it has affected each of the 27,412 students—from all 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and 103 foreign countries.

The rebels say the university has no right to discipline anyone if something he advocates on campus—such as recruitment of students for civil rights work in the South—leads to conviction and jail off campus.

PROCESS

The revolt, still in the process of being resolved, has focused attention on a 96-year-old university that has taken the United States by master strides into the atomic age.

On campus in the early 1930s, Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence invented the cyclotron, smashing atoms by acceleration. The age of nuclear energy was on the way. Dr. Lawrence, who died in 1958, was the first of 10 Berkeley campus faculty men to win the Nobel Prize.

Dr. Glenn Seaborg, who shared a Nobel with Edwin McMillan, current director of the university's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, helped to develop the cyclotron prior to its involvement in the Manhattan District Project and the atomic bomb of World War II. Today Seaborg heads the Atomic Energy Commission.

"The New Frontier may well owe more to Berkeley than to Harvard," the late President John F. Kennedy said in a campus address March 23, 1962.

GRADUATES

Secretary of State Dean Rusk did some of his studying at Berkeley.

Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, which has been delivering history-making decisions in such controversial fields as civil rights, is Earl Warren, class of '12.

But it is the torment, not the glory, of the University of California that now has a world watching.

The torment is not new. During Earl Warren's unprecedented 10 years as governor of California, 1943-1953, the university was rocked by a faculty revolt against a special loyalty oath.

Warren, as president of the Board of Regents, sided with those who called the oath discriminating. But the regents voted it in and 52 professors quit before the State Supreme Court threw the oath out.

An area near Sather Gate was the focal point last spring for organizing the sit-ins at hotels, auto show rooms and a grocery chain in San Francisco in support of more Negro hiring. Hundreds, including students, were arrested and convicted of trespassing on private property. The current freedom-of-advocacy revolt is by far the most frenzied.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown calls it "the most unnecessary quarrel I've ever seen in my life."

Already it has split many faculty members from the administration.

On Nov. 20, impelled by demonstrations, the Board of Regents voted in a new rule: Permit campus advocacy but allow administration controlled discipline if on-campus action leads to off-campus conviction.

That touched off a protest sit-in at Sproul Hall. Police broke it up by arresting Savio and 813 others, including at least 130 outsiders.

Savio called the university a "human factory" and said it must be brought "to a grinding halt." Then the 1,300-member Faculty Academic Senate met quickly and voted 8-1 for no restrictions on campus advocacy and to switch disciplinary control to the faculty.

The regents, meeting next week in Los Angeles, would have to approve the faculty plan. Already one, Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, not only has said he will vote against it but also voiced belief that dissatisfied professors should get out.

Who is behind the ferment?

Savio insists the motivating power is a newly formed organization called the Free Speech Movement made up of some 20 off-campus organizations.

Interviewed this week by Associated Press staffer Hollie West, Savio said firmly there was no Communist influence in the movement.

"We resent all the credit for our success going to the Communist party," he said.

"There are some Communists in the ranks but they are the meek and mild type and have no effect on policy"

"The student radical of the 1960s doesn't want any part of doctrinaire positions," chimed in a Savio coworker, Steve Weissman, English graduate student. "The movement is more existential, more of a search for personal values in a world that destroys individual identity."

MANY MEMBERS

(Many FSM members wear punch cards pinned to their clothing to signify scorn for automated existence.)

"I have no reliable information that any Communists are involved," Gov. Brown told a news conference this week.

Clark Kerr, university president, said after an Oct. 1 demonstration that experienced observers estimated up to 40 per cent of the demonstrators were off-campus elements, including "persons identified as being sympathetic with the Communist party and Communist causes."

Commenting another time on the same demonstration, Kerr said:

"I am sorry to say that some elements active in the demonstrations have been impressed with the tactics of Fidel Castro and Mao Tse-tung. There are very few of these, but there are some."

Organizations listed by FSM in the movement include the W.E.B. DuBois Club. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said on Oct. 1, the clubs were spawned by the Communist party as a new national Marxist youth organization to attract young Americans.

Another FSM listing is SLATE, an off-campus organization that has espoused leftist causes. SLATE this week scored its biggest triumph, getting seven members elected to the university's Student Senate on a platform that included having the university medical clinic distribute birth control information.

INCLUDE

Other FSM groups include the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee which sent Savio to Mississippi and the campus chapter — operating off campus — of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). Shortly after the Sproul sit-in, CORE's national president, James Farmer, said the work of the campus chapter was vital and he was willing to come to Berkeley in support of the rebelling students.

Your Chances Of Entering College Of Your Choice

EDITOR'S NOTE — Rich or poor, bright or dull, it may be easy to get into college — if you live in the right state. In other states it is harder, and in some almost impossible for poorer students. Regardless of money or brains, it's getting harder all the time, in any state.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — What chance does a high school graduate have for college if his grades are only average and he doesn't have much money?

Excellent — if he lives in California, Kansas or South Dakota.

Fair — if he lives in Maryland, Iowa or Ohio.

Virtually nonexistent — if he lives in New Jersey or Pennsylvania.

Around the rest of the country, the situation varies from state to state. Public institutions have long fought to keep higher education available to all. For some it's a losing battle.

The opportunity for low-cost higher education has become very much a matter of geography. This is particularly true for high school graduates with only average or below average grades.

SHRINKING

Although some public colleges and universities still admit all applicants from within the state, regardless of their scholastic records, the number is shrinking steadily.

As a matter of record few students with really poor high school grades even try to go to college. And, if they are admitted, they must hold their own with students much better prepared. Almost half the entering freshmen in state universities graduated in the upper one-quarter of their high school class.

However, those institutions maintaining an open-door policy believe the opportunity for higher education should be available to all.

A survey of member institutions of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges showed this definite trend:

Of the 86 institutions responding, 59 originally admitted all comers from within the state, but only 22 still do — and 6 of those 22 have reservations. Twenty of the original 59 have adopted some degree of selectivity in the past five years.

The two extremes are found on opposite ends of the continent:

California offers free or low-cost higher education to any graduate of a California high school. The state colleges and the state university system are highly selective, but anyone failing to gain admission there can start at one of the state's 73 tuition-free junior colleges and work toward eventual transfer to a public four-year institution. Tuition and fees in the university system range from $173 to $224 a year.

New Jersey's public colleges, on the other hand, turn away thousands of qualified applicants each year, including some honor students. Rutgers, the state's only public university, is as selective as most private prestige institutions. Tuition and fees are $506 a year, second only in state universities to Pennsylvania State's $525 a year.

These figures tell the story: In 1963, there were 71,117 students from New Jersey attending college in other states. California, with a total population 2.5 times that of New Jersey, "exported" only 33,022 college students.

INSTITUTIONS FOR

The 22 institutions which said they still admit all graduates of high schools within the state are the Universities of Arkansas, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, Wyoming and South Dakota, plus Arkansas AM&N, Kansas State, Kent State (Ohio), Louisiana State, Miami (Ohio), Ohio University, Ohio State University, Montana State College, Montana State University, New Mexico State, North Dakota State, South Dakota State, Tennessee A&I, and Texas Tech College.

There are other public institutions in this category which either do not belong to the association, or did not respond to the survey.

The University of Nebraska said that although it maintains an open door policy, it tries to dissuade the obvious poor risks. Ohio University, Ohio State, Mi- the same, and ask the risky student to enter in spring or summer instead of fall. Minnesota noted that its take 'em all policy applies only to its general college; other colleges on the campus are quite selective.

Institutions which said they have started to raise the admission barriers since 1959 are the Universities of Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Idaho, Maryland, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Wisconsin, plus Arizona State, Auburn, Clemson, Colorado State, Florida State, Fort Valley (Ga.) State College, Iowa State, Oklahoma State and Alcorn A&M in Mississippi.

BARRIERS

In some instances, these barriers still are so low as to be almost inconsequential. Arizona State, the University of Arizona, University of Mississippi and Oklahoma State, for instance, require only that the applicant be in the upper 75 per cent of his high school graduating class. Only a handful below that level are apt to seek a higher education.

On the other hand, Florida State admits only those in the upper 40 per cent of statewide tests and the University of Maryland requires a "C" average in college prep courses for the final two years of high school. However, those below this level may still get into Maryland by doing successful work in a pre-college summer course.

Aside from those institutions which accept all high school graduates, the college door is gradually but firmly closing against the "D" student.

The University of Nevada will permit him to register for a reduced-class schedule while he demonstrates his ability. New Mexico State University may accept him if there is evidence of maturity and a desire to study. West Virginia University may take him if he does well on an entrance examination. Oregon State University and the University of Iowa ask him to prove himself first at a special summer session.

As of now, the "C" student is generally admissible at most state universites and land grant colleges, the "D" student is generally not.

Unless the institutions can expand to meet growing demands, the admission standards seem certain to rise.

Despite the college crush, and despite the ever-rising costs, public institutions have managed to keep annual tuition and fees low for students from their own state. Students from out of state, on the other hand, must pay at least twice as much, and often more.

Typical examples of in-state and out-of-state charges:

University of Arizona $207 and $807, University of Colorado $230 and $904, Purdue University $300 and $850, University of Iowa $290 and $620, Louisiana State University $170 and $470, Ohio State University $375 and $870, University of Kansas $244 and $574, and University of Wisconsin $300 and $1,000.

By comparison, tuition and fees at 100 of the nation's best-known private colleges and universities range from $1,410 at Stanford to $2,450 at Bennington. The Ivy League average is about $1,800.

All the institutions responding to the questionnaire said their entrance requirements are much higher for out-of-state students.

The University of California at Los Angeles accepts only those out-of-state students who rank in the upper one-sixteenth of their graduating class. The University of Connecticut takes only 200 of 4,000 annual applicants, the University of New Hampshire takes only those of "special academic achievement," and the University of Michigan takes only the top 15 per cent from out of state.

Generally, the land grant colleges and state universities expect their enrollments to grow by 10 to 15 per cent or more next fall.

A few, such as Rutgers, Delaware State College and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, said they will be forced to hold to this year's enrollment because of lack of facilities.

Coal-Based Fuel Increases Range

PARIS (AP) — A new coal-based fuel which increases the range of jet airplanes by 9 to 15 per cent was announced Saturday by the laboratories of the French nationalized coal mining industry.

The colorless "carbojet" is denser than kerosene and contains more energy for the weight, the announcement said. It is made by adding hydrogen atoms to coal tar.

THE REALM OF COIN

Coins Make Good 'Yule' Present

By JOHN BLUCK

That coin collector on your Christmas shopping list might tell you he wants that new red sports car, but don't believe him. What he really wants is something for his collection!

One of the nice things about shopping for a collector's gift is that you have an almost unlimited price range from which to select. Individual paper coin holders cost only a cent or two and no collector ever has enough of the right size on hand. If you are accustomed to giving nothing but the finest, you may wish to gift wrap a 1915 Panama-Pacific $50 gold commemorative. Price tag: more than $5,000 in BU condition!

Between these two extremes there are hundreds of ideal gifts for the collector. If you have access to his collection, check the missing coins and then visit your nearest coin dealer. He probably will have most of the coins in a variety of grades and prices, at least one of which will be within the range you wish to pay.

If you have absolutely no knowledge of coins, but still would like to impress your collector, ask your coin dealer for a suggestion. Chances are the dealer has a pretty good idea of the coins your collector may need and he can suggest several possible choices. Some coin dealers will let you put your purchase on layaway if you are a little short of cash.

Coin accessories are always welcome gifts. Does he collect proof sets? There are inexpensive albums in which he can display his sets, or you may select individual plastic holders in which to encase a single year proof set.

If he has a favorite or valuable coin he would appreciate an individual plastic holder in which to display the piece. These are available for all types and sizes of coins, so a selection should not be difficult.

Albums are available in a price range from 35 cents to several dollars in which date series of coins can be stored. Type set albums are particularly suitable gifts.

You can impress your collector with your knowledge and sophistication by giving him a coin with which he may not be familiar. Few American collectors are familiar with foreign coins, and a handful of inexpensive uncirculated coins from distant lands is bound to prove of interest. Such a gift might even push him into starting a collection of foreigns.

Foreign crowns are especially appropriate gifts. Crowns are the size of our silver dollars, but they usually have designs of greater beauty than our dollars. For a dollar or two you can select a Mexican five-peso or ten-peso crown which is not only beautiful but also of great historic interest.

Proof sets are always welcome gifts. Many non-collectors have through the years made a practice of giving a proof set to special people on their gift list. These coins are the finest examples of the coiner's art. They receive special care at the mint and are processed so that the finished coins have a mirror finish. Proof sets can be purchased for as little as $5 or $6 or for hundreds of dollars, depending upon date.

No coin collector worthy of the name ever has enough books on his specialty. Here your choice is extremely wide. If he is a beginner he will appreciate the well-known Bible of the collecting fraternity, R. S. Yeoman's "Red Book". It is available at book stores, coin dealers, variety stores and hobby shops.

There are specialized works on all United States coins, ranging from cents to dollars, and including colonial coins, mint errors, tokens and almost any other field of interest. If your collector of United States coins does not have one, (and he should) a grading guide by Brown and Dunn would be an ideal gift. And don't forget a magnifying glass — it can be used for checking mint marks and errors and for reading the fine print in reference books.

Who wouldn't appreciate receiving a gold coin for Christmas? Before gold was withdrawn from general circulation in the early 1930's it was the traditional Christmas gift for many lucky individuals, collectors and non-collectors alike. Although you never see them in circulation, gold coins are still available from coin dealers. A $20 gold piece is usually available in the $50-$60 price range in uncirculated condition. For about $20 you can obtain a $5 gold piece.

Few collectors have a complete set of commemorative half-dollars, and almost without exception any collector would be happy to find one in his Christmas stocking. Commemoratives cover a wide price range. The more common varieties are available for two or three dollars or less, while at the other end of the scale you would expect to pay several hundred dollars for the scarce issues. There is a wide choice of commemoratives for $10 to $15 and many of the coins available in this price bracket are missing from the average collection.

This listing only begins to touch on the wide variety of gifts the collector would appreciate. You could add to these pattern coins, territorial coins, Confederate bills, United States and foreign paper money, broken bank notes commemorative gold, etc. But no matter what your choice may be, the coin collector probably would rather have something for his collection than anything else — even spending money!

Chiang Kai-Shek Still Feeling Fit

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — President Chiang Kai-shek said in a memoir published Saturday he feels as mentally and physically fit as when he was 50. He is 77.

"For this reason I have no pessimism whatever about our future, despite the difficulties and dangers that beset us," he said.

Chiang, who often has expressed confidence in regaining mainland China, made his remarks in a eulogy to his mother, who died in 1921.

Teen-Age Dance Turns Into Riot; Tear Gas Used

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — A teen-age dance exploded into a two-hour riot Friday night. Six policemen were injured and 10 police cars damaged. Police had to use tear gas to disperse the crowd of 400.

George L. Simms, 19, was arrested by police who said they found him swinging a two-by-four at a man. As Simms was being taken to a patrol car, another in the crowd knocked Officer Ron Ledford to the ground with a two-by-four. Simms was charged with resisting an officer and disturbing the peace.

Simms is a Negro as were most of the 400.

The dance, held at the Peres Elementary School in a Negro area, was sponsored by the Richmond Recreation Department.

The riot started after a school janitor called police, saying some of the dancers were wrecking the auditorium.

Six policemen were treated at a hospital, Ledford for a bruised back and kidney, the others for cuts and bruises.

Official Presidential Vote Released

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON (Special) — A total of 70,640,289 Americans voted for President in the Nov. 3 election, giving President Johnson the largest percentage of the total popular vote of any candidate in U. S. history, according to final, official vote returns assembled by Congressional Quarterly and released Saturday.

The returns, based on certified final reports by the 50 state governments and District of Columbia, showed the following breakdown:

Johnson - Humphrey (Dem.) 43,121,085 or 61.6 per cent.

Goldwater - Miller (Rep.) 27,145,161 or 38.4 per cent.

Minor Parties, scattered, 374,043 or 0.6 per cent.

Not since 1832, when national popular vote tallies were first compiled, had any Presidential candidate won as much as 61.0 percent of the total vote. The previous high mark was set by Franklin D. Roosevelt, who received 60.8 percent of the total vote in defeating Alfred M. Landon in 1936.

Johnson's popular vote plurality — 15,975,924 votes — also set a record, easily outdistancing the 11,078,204 - vote margin by which Roosevelt defeated Landon. Only in terms of percentage of the two - party popular vote (as opposed to the total popular vote) did Johnson trail Roosevelt. Roosevelt had received 62.2 percent, Johnson received 61.4 percent. The reason was the larger number of the third-party voters in 1936.

The 1964 results were in sharp contrast to those of 1960, when the late John F. Kennedy, with Johnson as his running mate, ran only 112,803 votes ahead of the Republican ticket headed by Richard M. Nixon. Johnson actually polled 8,899,736 more votes in 1964 than Kennedy had in 1960.

Johnson set another record by carrying six states each by more than a million votes: New York by 2,669,597 more votes than Goldwater, Pennsylvania by 1,457,336, California by 1,292,769, Massachusetts by 1,236,695, Michigan by 1,076,463, Ohio by 1,027,466.

In eight states and the District of Columbia, Johnson received more than twice as many votes as Goldwater. He carried the District with 85.5 percent of the vote, Rhode Island with 80.9 percent, Hawaii with 78.8 percent, Massachusetts with 76.2 percent, Maine with 68.8 percent, New York with 68.6 percent, West Virginia with 67.9 percent, Connecticut with 67.8 percent and Michigan with 66.8 percent.

Johnson's narrowest margin was in Idaho, where he won by 5,363 votes (50.9 percent). In all, Johnson was victorious in 44 states and the District of Columbia, winning 486 of the 538 electoral votes.

Goldwater, on the other hand, won only six states with 52 electoral votes. His total popular vote, 27,145,161, was 6,963,385 less than the vote of 34,108,546 which Richard Nixon received in his losing 1960 race.

Boldwater's biggest victory was in Mississippi, where he won an amazing 87.1 percent of the vote — the highest percentage of any Presidential candidate in a single state in 1964. And Mississippi had never gone Republican since 1872.

Goldwater's biggest victory was in his native Arizona, the only state he won outside the deep South, where he edged Johnson by 3,101 votes (50.3 percent).

The total Presidential vote of 70,640,289 was the greatest ever cast in U. S. history. It broke the previous record of 68,839,000 votes cast in 1960. The percentage of eligible (voting age) Americans voting in 1964 was less than 1960, however. In 1960, 63.8 percent of the eligible voters voted for President, in 1964 only 62.0 percent.

The state casting the largest vote was New York, with 7,166,015 Presidential votes tallied. California was second with 3,050,985. The smallest vote cast was in Alaska — 67,259.

SCENES of YESTERYEAR
. . . in the Twin Cities

Electoral Group Meets On Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Across the nation Monday 538 men and women will gather in state capitals to perform a quadrennial rite — election of a president.

They are the electors — known collectively as the Electoral College — who were chosen by more than 70 million American voters Nov. 3.

Although the Constitution does not require it, 486 of the electors will cast their votes for President Johnson and 52 will vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. Election requires a majority, in this case 270.

The 486 Johnson votes will come from the 44 states and District of Columbia which he carried i nthe Nov. 3 popular election. Goldwater got a plurality of popular votes in six states with 52 electors.

VOTES

After casting their votes, the electors will send copies to the president of the Senate, the secretary of state, the General Services Administration and the federal district judge of area where they meet.

Next Jan. 6, at a joint meeting of the House and Senate, the electors' votes will be tabulated and Johnson will be pronounced president. If neither candidate received a majority, the president would be chosen by the House, with each state delegation having one vote.

Electors are, for the most part, active Democratic or Republican party workers. Most of them were nominated by their state conventions or central committees earlier this year. Only a handful are still nominated by primary election.

For most, it's merely an honor. Only 10 states provide any money for electors and even those are token payments, such as the $10 feet plus $3 per 20 miles travel allowance in Oregon.

But the costs are light, too. Electors don't have to do any campaigning. In 32 states their names aren't even on the ballot.

"It bears the honor of election with none of the burdens," said Patricia Harris of Washington, who will cast one of the District of Columbia's three votes — the first under the 23rd Amendment to the Constitution.

PRIDE

As a woman, a Negro, and the first D.C. presidential elector, Mrs. Harris expresses pride.

But as a professor of constitutional law at Howard University, she expresses doubts about the Electoral College.

She's not alone. A favorite topic among political scientists is whether — and how — to amend or abolish the Electoral College. Each Congress is faced with proposed changes in the system. Even the U.S. Supreme Court may become a battleground next year due to a suit attacking certain features of the electoral system which is being prepared by Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson of Delaware.

But most attempts to alter what the authors of the Constitution considered one of their finest achievements have failed. For every fault with the present system, someone finds fault with proposed changes.

Mrs. Harris, among others, favors abolishing the college and electing presidents by direct popular nationwide vote.

Others, objecting to the winner-take-all feature which has evolved over the years, propose awarding a state's electoral votes by district or in proportion to a candidate's popular vote. As it stands now, the popular vote winner, no matter how small his margin, gets all of a state's electoral votes.

Occasionally, electors stray and vote for someone other than their party's nominee. While some states "pledge" their electors, there is nothing to prevent them from voting as they please.

It happened four years ago when a Republican elector from Oklahoma voted, not for Richard M. Nixon, the GOP nominee, but for Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va. The vote counted, but it didn't affect the outcome. No such attempt is expected this year.

It took a good deal of thought and debate by the architects of the Constitution to decide how a president should be chosen.

Fearing pure democracy, they didn't want the people to do it.

Neither did they want Congress to do the job, fearing that this would put a presidential candidate at the mercy of another branch of government.

After considerable horsetrading, they hit upon an electoral college in which each state would have as many electors as it had senators and representatives.

The job of picking electors was left to each state legislature, and the Founding Fathers felt sure the legislators would do it themselves. This, they thought, would provide a deliberative body of elder statesmen, able to choose a president free from mob rule, partisan passions or congressional politicking.

Poverty Offices To Cost $587,500 In Annual Rent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity said Saturday it will be paying $587,500 annual rent when it moves the administration's anti-poverty headquarters into a new building probably later this month.

A spokesman said the agency will occupy five floors of an eight-story structure at an annual rate of $4.70 per square foot for 125,000 square feet.

The agency has a five year contract, the spokesman added, with annual renewal options to extend its lease year by year up to 10 years if desired.

In The Gloaming

"In the gloaming, O, my darling
When the lights are dim and low."

When Anna Fortesque Harrison wrote these words more than one hundred years ago — with Marion, La. as the setting — little did she know that they would become part of one of America's most cherished love songs.

"In the Gloaming" is frequently referred to today as the Louisiana Love Song. Although it has passed the lips of millions, who are captivated by its haunting melody and words, few people know the tragic love story upon which it was based.

STORY RELATED

Mrs. Aline Banister, curator of the Ouachita Valley Museum, related the story to this reporter. While going back through the years to retrace the romance, she displayed an account of the origination of the song and a yellow, age-old "Dixie Song Book," published at Chattanooga, Tenn., containing the famous words.

Elias George, a wealthy planter of Alabama, and his family settled at Marion, northeast of Farmerville, toward the middle of the nineteenth century.

In 1854, Mrs. George died and left her husband with children to raise, a task which he didn't have time to accomplish while managing a plantation. He decided to seek the services of someone to help raise the children and serve as their private instructor.

He selected a Mrs. Harrison of New Orleans and she and her daughter, Anna Fortesque, were quickly accepted into the peaceful life of Marion.

Mrs. Harrison tutored the George children and Ann Porter, as she called her daughter, taught them music.

FELL IN LOVE

Everything went well — until Miles Goldsby, a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families of the community, returned from a trip up north. He was handsome and dashing; Anna was young and pretty. They fell in love almost immediately, oblivious to the possiblity that theirs might be an ill-fated romance.

The mother disliked Miles and the fact that she had heard reports concerning his amorous adventures of the past only added mistrust. She could sense the growing affection between the two and disapproved of any pending match. She discouraged her daughter and almost succeeded in turning her against Miles.

According to the customs of the day, Mrs. Harrison refused to allow the two outside after dark with no chaperone. Therefore, Miles began calling in the late afternoon, when mama was busy with her duties.

IN THE GLOAMING

Then, "in the gloaming" — in the soft shadows of gathering twilight — the lovers strolled hand in hand through the George gardens.

"And the quiet shadows falling,
Softly come and softly go."

But, all too soon the gloaming turned to darkness and the unwelcomed voice of her mother called Ann inside.

It was during these short, precious hours between daylight and dark that Miles truly learned to love Anna.

"When the winds are sobbing faintly
With a gentle unknown woe,
Will you think of me and love me
As you did once long ago?"

The mother disliked the signs even more now. She waited, not so patiently, for the time to come for her to do something to end the romance. Then, Miles left on a trip up north. Hastily, Mrs. Harrison prepared for the trip back to New Orleans. She and Anna Fortesque, resigned now to losing her loved one, left Marion and Miles forever.

"In the gloaming, O, my darling
Think not bitterly of me,
Though I passed away in silence
Left you lonely, set you free."

HEARTBROKEN

A few weeks later, Miles returned to Marion and learned of his sweetheart's departure. Heartbroken, but helpless to find her, he never saw her again.

Later, Anna wrote to one of the George daughters and told her she had written a love song, which was to be published soon. She said she wrote the music and collaborated with a friend, Meta Orred, on the words.

"In the Gloaming" was an immediate success. The Louisiana Love Song has endured through the years and will live forever — although the love upon which it was based was destined to die al! too soon.

"For my heart was filled with longing
What had been could never be,
It was best to leave you thus, dear,
Best for you and best for me."

Nations Hasten To Store Up Water Around The World

The sound of bulldozers and concrete mixers rings around the globe as men work on projects to harness rivers, store up water for the production of food and power for rising millions of people. The need to build cuts across old hates and old boundaries.

By SID MOODY
Associated Press Writer

It is the essence of life, be it in a tiny cup or stretching over the land as far as the eye can see.

Without it nations wither and die With it, they flourish. It is a precious treasure yet wasted, neglected, despoiled.

It is water.

It is water that moistens the fields from which must come the foods to feed the crowding billions of the world's population. It is water that provides much of the energy to power the industrialization that is the hope of earth's poor. And so as never before in his time, it is water man is trying to harness to serve a globe he threatens to overrun by sheer numbers.

Among his weapons: The dam.

IN MANY PLACES

All over the world dams are being built or planned: Dams to irrigate, dams for hydroelectric power, dams to control floods.

Water projects threaten war in the Middle East where the Israelis and Jordan stand at gunpoint over division of the Jordan River which flows between the two nations.

And if it divides, water, too, can bind.

In Southeast Asia nations which have no diplomatic relation are uniting to control the Mekong River. India and Pakistan, at odds over the possession of Kashmir, are cooperating in a gigantic effort to regulate the waters of the Indus River.

Dams have become political levers in the East-West battle to win friends. in the uncommitted bloc. The Soviet Union is well along on its Aswan Dam on the Nile in Egypt. The United States is a major backer of the $386 million dam and aluminum smelter project on Ghana's Volga River.

The U. N., the World Bank, the major governments of both the free and Communist blocs are supplying the money that is changing the face of the globe.

VAST PROJECTS

Vast projects are underway or have been recently completed on the Niger River in Nigeria, on the Dez River in Iran, on the Danube between Yugoslavia and Rumania, on the Yellow River in Red China, in Mexico, New Zealand, Zambia, Soviet Union, Mexico. The special fund of the United Nations has financed searches for dam sites in 20 countries.

A nation-by-nation survey made with the aid of Associated Press bureaus over the world shows this flood of water projects:

Nigeria — The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development has completed a survey for a $190 million multi-purpose dam that would have a larger power capacity than any dam in Western Europe or more than all the hydroelectric power capacity available in all of Africa 10 years ago.

Mekong River — Despite the hostility that envelops the area, the four neighboring countries of Thailand, Cambodia, South Viet Nam and Laos are participating in a project to build a series of dams along this 2,600 mile river, one of Asia's greatest. As projected the plan would take decades to complete and cost $2 billion at a minimum. The dams would irrigate an area the size of New Jersey and Rhode Island combined and produce 12.1 billion kilowatts of power annually. The dams would also improve navigation and fishing. Since the beginning of planning in 1957, 20 nations, 11 United Nations agencies, three foundations and a number of private companies have participated in the work and pledged a total of $44 million. It is hoped $722 million can be raised by 1968 to begin three major projects on the main stream of the Mekong.

Thailand — Last May Thailand opened the Bhumibol Dam, named after its king, said to be the seventh largest concrete dam in the world. It will irrigate an area the size of Delaware. A similar dam, named after Queen Sirikit, is also planned.

Iran — The spectacular 647 foot high dam on the Dez River, built with oil revenues and a $42 million loan from the World Bank, is part of an ambitious program to revitalize an impoverished, arid area that was the granary of the Persian Empire 2,500 years ago when it was intensively irrigated. About 120,000 persons will be directly affected by controlling the flood drought cycles that yearly afflict the area. David Lilienthal, once a major figure in the Tennessee Valley Authority, was a consultant on the project.

IRON GATE GORGE

Yugoslavia — Romania — These two Communist countries recently inaugurated a joint construction in the Iron Gate Gorge of the Danube River that divides their nations. To be completed in 1971, the project will tame the wild rapids of the river that have defied navigation and bridges for 2,000 years. A hydroelectric dam will increase the power production of both nations by a third. The estimated cost is $400 million.

Peru — Two hydroelectric and irrigation dams, one to cost $187 million, are planned in the Andean foothills. The larger, a dam in the Mantaro River, includes a 12-mile tunnel cut through the mountains to send the waters in a 2,400 foot straight drop to the turbines in a valley.

Argentina — Argentina is considering a $408 million hydroelectric dam in conjunction with Uruguay which would be the world's 15th largest. It would transmit power over a 730 mile line. Argentina is also contemplating a $307 million project of two dams on the Neuquen and Limay Rivers over 700 miles from Buen Aires.

SERIES OF DAMS

New Zealand — Work is ready to begin on a series of dams to produce electricity from the snow-fed rivers that rise among the high volcanic cones of New Zealand's North Island. The government has denied a dam on the Tongariro River would ruin its world-known trout fishing.

Venezuela—The $550 million Guri Dam in the Caroni River canyons is expected to double Venezuela's hydroelectric output when the first phase is completed in 1967. Its potential of 6 million kilowatts is the greatest of any like project in the world. Near Lake Maracaibo the government is also working on a six-dam reservoir to irrigate enough farm land to support 90,000 persons.

Red China — Little has been released on the mammoth Yellow River project that would have controlled the disastrous floods that have swept China since recorded history. The lack of figures very likely means that the ending of Soviet aid may have hurt the project.

India-Pakistan — the Indus River, rising in the Himalayas from five main tributaries, is one of the great river systems of the world. It's annual flow, doubling the Nile, is enough to put all of Texas under a foot of water. The Indus project, the largest earthmoving task ever undertaken, began in 1960 after long and delicate negotiations that several times threatened to break out into war. The partition of the two countries in 1947 cut through the river and its tributaries. The total cost of the eight dams, 400 miles of canals and 2,500 wells and drainage facilities is estimated at $1.5 billion with the U. S. contributing $515 million and Britain, West Germany, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the World Bank $210 million.

Mexico — During the last six years the administration of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos spent $637 million on irrigation projects including 38 major dams. This added an area larger than Maine to the tillable land of one of the world's fastest growing populations.

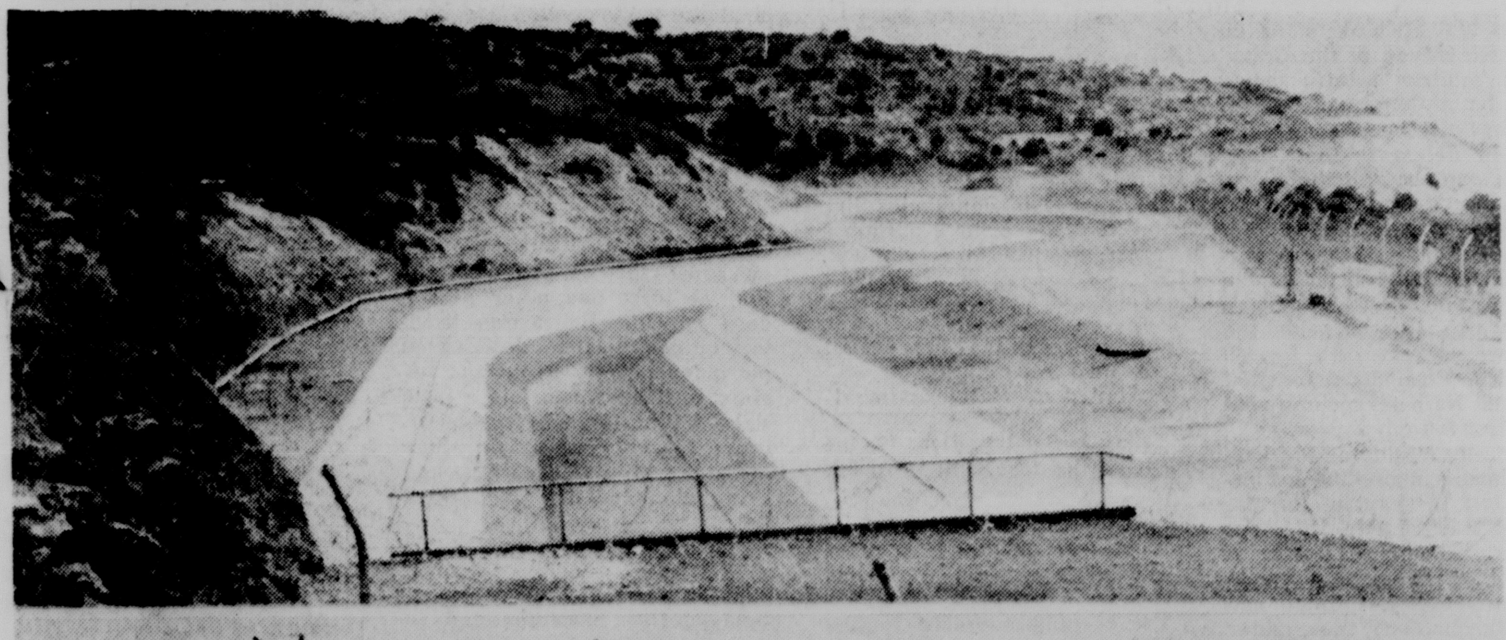
ASWAN DAM

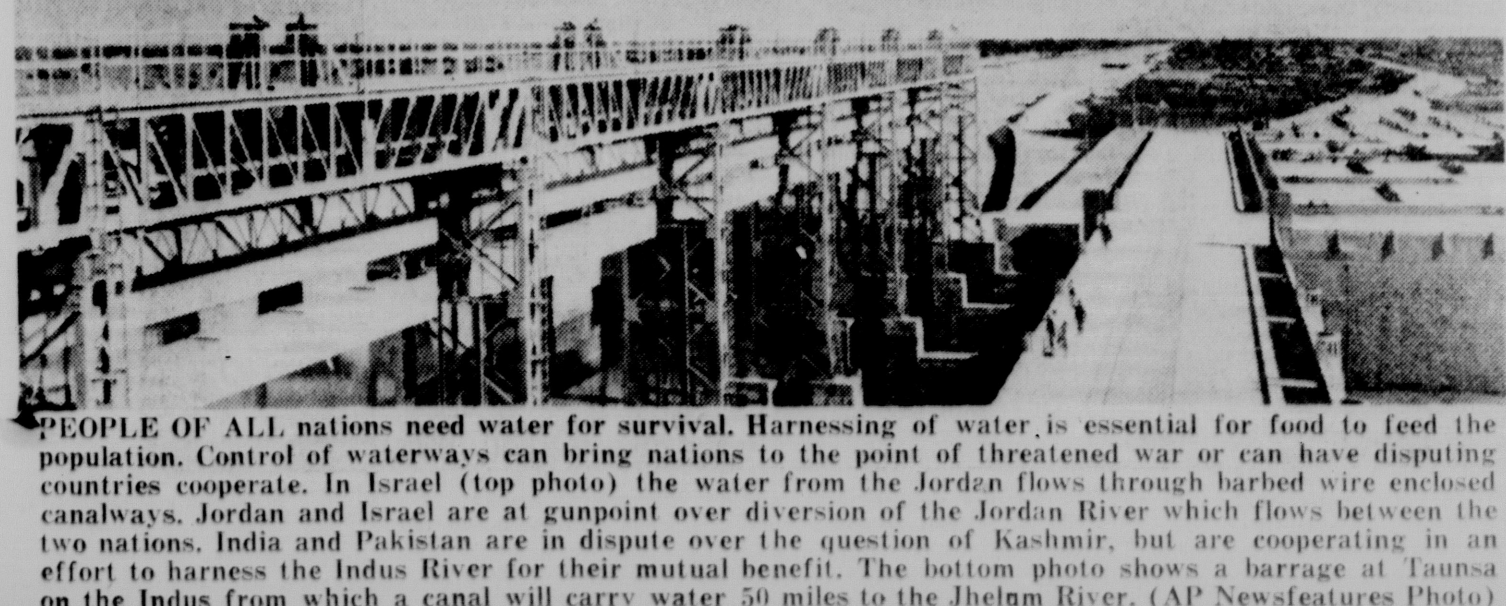
United Arab Republic — The huge Aswan Dam on the Nile, being built and financed with Soviet help, is well toward completion. It will control the age-old flooding of the Lower Nile that has been both Egypt's blessing and its curse.

South Africa — Long a scheme in the minds of engineers and politicians, the Orange River project is taking shape in the arid heart of South Africa. It will cost $630 million and when completed in 30 years will water and supply power to a backward area the size of West Germany.

The Soviet Union, the United States and Canada as well as the nations of Western Europe have built massive hydroelectric and irrigation systems in the past and construction continues apace.

As long as water continues to flow downhill, the dam will continue to be one of man's principal tools in producing his food and his industry.





PEOPLE OF ALL nations need water for survival. Harnessing of water is essential for food to feed the population. Control of waterways can bring nations to the point of threatened war or can have disputing countries cooperate. In Israel (top photo) the water from the Jordan flows through barbed wire enclosed canalways. Jordan and Israel are at gunpoint over diversion of the Jordan River which flows between the two nations. India and Pakistan are in dispute over the question of Kashmir, but are cooperating in an effort to harness the Indus River for their mutual benefit. The bottom photo shows a barrage at Taunsa on the Indus from which a canal will carry water 50 miles to the Jhelum River. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

HUGE JETS of water slam into the channel of the Dez River in Iran from the bottom of the spectacular 647-foot high dam built with oil revenues and a World Bank loan. It is part of an ambitious program to revitalize the impoverished, arid area that was once the granary of the ancient Persian Empire. The dam controls the flood-drought cycles of the Dez River and directly benefits approximately 120,000 Iranians with better irrigation facilities. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Goals Of Education

If there is anything the people in the United States talk about more than the weather it probably is education. And, scant wonder, for education is the nation's number one task. Without it, we would lose most of our informed intelligence, our culture, our science and even most of our knowledge of the Supreme Being.

Education is gained through learning and one of the most important elements of learning is memory. Indeed, without it, there is no learning and no education. For this reason, a good many wonder why courses in memory are not included in grade school work, possibly in the fourth, fifth or sixth grades.

Anyone gifted with an extraordinarily retentive memory has a tremendous advantage over those with only average memories and his advantage over those with so-called bad memories is immeasurable. One Louisiana newspaper editorial writer has a remarkably accurate memory that has stood him in good stead thousands of times. In their period of most intensive study, students in school might easily acquire three or four times as much actual knowledge with good memories as with average ones and 10 times as much as the student with a so-called bad memory.

It will be noted that we have said a "so-called bad memory." Memory experts say there is no such thing as a "bad" memory among people with normal, unimpaired brains. So-called "bad" memories, they say, are only untrained memories. If so, why not train them in the schools.

Memory experts have several favorite methods of displaying their extraordinary powers. Among them are the ability to remember people's names and faces and the ability to remember playing cards. At least one expert living today is said to be able to remember a full deck of playing cards in order after it has been called out to him, then to be able to shuffle the deck of cards a number of times and then be able to tell exactly where each card is in the deck. Some memory experts can meet as many as 600 strangers in one evening in a big dining room and later call each one by name and remember facts concerning him. Some people with "poor" memories might not be able to name and describe that many persons after a full lifetime. In fact, some people are said to know personally as few as 200 or 300 people.

Worthy, although not new, comment on educational goals was made by the California Voice in Oakland, Calif., when it said:

"One of the basic goals of education is to teach students to be independent thinkers. Our whole education system is—or should be—basically dedicated to teaching people to think for themselves, to weigh objectively, to read critically. Only in this way can the future citizens now in our schools learn the moral integrity they need if our freedom is to be preserved."

If memory is an art that can be learned as easily as music or painting or if it is a subject that can be taught as readily as reading, writing and arithmetic, and if memory doubles, triples or quadruples one's ability to learn and retain knowledge, what school subject could be more important?

We need memory even to remind us what made this country ability to learn and retain knowledge, what school subject could be that kingdoms and dictatorships have crumbled. We need memory to know that man's greatest happiness has always been found through freedom of the individual—freedom to worship according to the dictates of one's own conscience, freedom to assemble and speak, freedom of the press, freedom to work and to own businesses and to prosper. Without these things we are slaves.

If the basic goals mentioned above were taught in schools and if our memories could be sharpened so that we could profit by history, there would be no thought of turning to socialism, even of the type proposed by President Johnson for his so-called "great society."

'Cautious Haste' Needed

If anyone were to make the statement that, "Lack of haste could cause as many deaths in the United States as speeding in an automobile," he would be almost certain to draw both widespread and sharp criticism, yet he might be telling the truth.

A medical magazine said recently in an editorial: "The fact that a person dies because a new drug is not given is not as spectacular as a serious side effect produced by a drug that has helped hundreds of thousands of people. New, powerful drugs should be released with 'cautious haste.' To delay is to sentence some people, by inaction, to death and suffering."

The London Evening News in England, commenting on a headline, "Prince Charles in Hospital with Pneumonia," stated: "Years ago the news would have caused a shudder in every home. There were few homes which had not known pneumonia—and it was a killer. Today people know the 15-year-old prince will be well on the road to recovery within a few days. Such is the nature of our medical revolution."

In medicine, as in all things, caution is needed, but in medicine, as in all things, some haste is needed. The speeder on the highway is dangerous but so is the driver who travels too slowly. Some states have enacted minimum, as well as maximum, speed laws.

One of the main things that is slowing down medical advancement in the United States today is a comparatively new federal law which puts determination of a medicine's value in the hands of the Food and Drug Administration, instead of in the hands of physicians and pharmacists, where it rightfully belongs. The law should be repealed and must be if we are to have the kind of "cautious haste" that will save vastly more lives than it takes.

Football Game Idea

On a bus in Philadelphia a teacher allegedly struck a woman passenger on the head with her own transistor broadcasting apparatus after she turned the gadget up when he asked her to turn it down.

There will be considerable sympathy on both sides. Spectators at football games especially will take note, since many who go to the games for the sole purpose of seeing that particular game are distracted by portable noise-makers that talk constantly about other games. The provoking part about the owners of the noise-makers is that they appear to think they are doing you a favor by not letting you watch a game in peace.

No one ever seems to have been able to determine whether a person's right to make a noise supersedes the right of those who want silence but the noise-makers thus far have had their way because there is no adequate law against the portable type. A person who turns the noise up too high in a home can be charged with disturbing the peace. Maybe such a law should apply to those on buses, at ball games and other public places.

The female sea horse plays but a brief part in producing the young. She deposits her eggs in the male's brood pouch, then swims away. After about 10 days, the fry are hatched and ejected.

The tallest bird ever to live on earth was the giant moa, now extinct. The average giant moa stood about 12 feet high, with enormous elephantine leg bones.

Sales Tax

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

With the 2 per cent tax on wholesale sales, Mr. McKeithen and his legislature have saddled you and I with a 4 per cent sales tax instead of a 2 per cent (or even 3 per cent) sales tax.

Oh, of course, I know it isn't supposed to work out that way, but we'll be paying 4 per cent tax on everything we buy, 2 per cent of which is nicely hidden in back of the retail merchant's cost.

Teacher Salaries

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Your editorial of Thursday, November 19, condemned the United School Committee salary schedule because it was developed by professional school organizations: the State School Board Association, the Louisiana Teachers Association, the Department of Classroom Teachers Association. The editorial implied that the motivation for the raise was selfishly inspired by vested interest.

These professional organizations which represent education at various levels have spent years studying the needs of the schools, trying to solve the multiple and complex problems with which modern society has burdened education. Everyone agrees that the very basis of the democratic process is a literate educated people. This concept is the foundation upon which American government rests. Yet modern governments neglect the intellectual needs of its citizens to promote their material and social welfare. Which fundamentally is most important?

Who, moreover, is better qualified to assess the needs and to recommend solutions, than those persons who have dedicated their lives and services to the cause of education? Both the American Medical Association and the American Bar Association recommend the fees received by their members. Are the needs of the body and the rights of the individual more important than the intellectual life which ultimately governs both health and justice?

The crux of the present problem is teacher salaries. Is the teacher to be crucified by the needs of industry, highways, business, social welfare, etcetera? Recognizing the needs of education, every aspirant for political office approved and endorsed the present salary schedule. The salary schedule became a part of every platform. Were the office seekers acting in good faith or from political expendiency? Have the officials whom the people elected changed? To change now is obviously a denial of the wishes of the people who elected them to office.

The irony of the situation is that though most officials agree to the fundamental principle of the necessity of quality education, they do not feel bound to make this intangible tangible. They sop their consciences with half measures. Recognizing that attracting intelligent young people into the profession is vital (for those with the best minds, though often wishing to become teachers, have been forced into other fields by economic necessity), they hold out the promise of good pay to beginners. The irony compounds itself. A cruel hoax has been perpetrated upon these young people who learn that they have been lured into a profession with no financial future. Will they stay? No, they will leave, and they will take with them the years of experience and training obtained at state expense. If they remain in the profession, they face the disillusionment and discontent of years of training and service with little reward.

To further the irony of the changes the politicians have suggested, those very teachers with years of experience, with advanced training, with dedicated service, are penalized for their virtues. How illogical, unfair, materialistic can the politician be?

But the irony, the fallacy, the injustice does not end here. The politician proposes to solve the teacher shortage (shortage due chiefly to inadequate pay for professionally trained persons) by increasing the salary of nonprofessional workers, those whom educators have been forced to hire because no certified teacher was available for the children whom society expected them to educate. In effect, the politician is saying, "Makeshift will do for your children. Let's get by. Throw the teachers a crust. Appease 'em. Who really wants to promote quality in education?" And the supreme irony for materialistic, pragmatic politicians and people? What they really want, they don't mind paying for.

Opposes Ad Program

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

About 4 months ago, I read an article stating that Xerox Corporation was planning on spending four million of their advertising money to sell the United Nations to the American people. This is suppose to happen some time in January, 1965.

I object to this sort of advertising for the following four reasons:

(1) Trygve Lie, one time Secretary General of the United Nations admitted he had a secret agreement between Alger Hiss and Molotov to the effect that the head of the United Nations military staff should always be a Communist. (This policy has not been changed.)

(2) Our defeat in the Cuban invasion can be attributed to the United Nations. The United Nations treaty prohibits us from engaging in any military operations without the consent of the United Nations Security Council in which Russia holds the veto power.

(3) Alger Hiss, the founder of the United Nations, recommended the first 500 employees.

(4) The leadership of the United Nations is under the leadership of Mr. U Thant of Burma, a devout Marxist. Mr. U. Thant picked as his under secretaries Georgy P. Arkadov, a Communist from the Soviet Union and Ralph Bunche, one time editor of the Communist Magazine Science and Society. He was also a high official in the Institute of Pacific Relations a Communist organization.

I definitely feel that a great Republic like the United States of America should get out of this atheistic, bankrupt organization.

Slobs And Such

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I had planned on no more letters to the Editor, but events of the last few days have altered that decision. It seems that "Law and Order" as specified, have gone out the window, to be replaced by riot rule, mass demonstrations, laziness, (being unable to stand on one's feet to face the situation) stomping on the U. S. Flag, ruling for utter disregard of all decency and on and on until there is no let-up.

What has happened in California recently is only a continuance of what was done a short time back, when the students, led by Harry Bridges and several other Commies made so much disturbance that it was impossible to carry on a HUAC investigation, making it necessary to bring in the police. Having a slob from Brooklyn in the gang to further the demonstration was only adding fuel to the fire. I had some experience with jerks from that same area overseas in World War II. One had 6 Captain's Masts in two months. They were not worth the uniforms they wore.

This extreme court, and it's ruling on the situation in Florida is typical of the type of decisions we have had, and will continue to have, as long as they are in office.

This is the type of thing which makes John Q. Public wonder what is wrong in so many places, and WHY something isn't done about it. The Mugwumps in the North, Northeast and the West disclaimed an honest, upright man, placing in office a shallow egotist, whose only interest is self-gratification, so what can be done now.

When the Warren court makes such decisions, when a puppet regime such as that in Indonesia allows slobs to insult this nation as it has done, when such as Bayard Rustin tells of what is going to be done in Washington when a State, such as California allows Students to tell the managers of ANY school what they must do or, I am in complete ignorance of why some AP and other newswriters call the Ku Klux Klan an "Anti-Negro Terrorist Organization."

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Dec. 13, the 348th day of 1964 with 18 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1642, New Zealand was discovered by Dutch navigator Abel Tasman.

In 1918, American soldiers attached to the 3rd Army crossed the Rhine River at Coblenz, Germany.

In 1937, Japanese soldiers captured Nanking, China, and began systematically to loot the city.

A thought for the day—British novelist A. Conan Doyle said: "Whenever you have eliminated the impossible whatever remains, however improbable, must be the truth."

HENRY J. TAYLOR

U.N. Freeloaders Seated In Saddle

TAKING A WHOLE new look at the United Nations, White House insiders report that President Johnson is as mad as a polar bear in Miami. He has his own kind of old cavalryman's patience but this anger does him credit. Augmenting Soviet obstructions, the U. N. freeloaders are in the saddle — largely voting against us.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk recently revealed that in the General Assembly a decisive two - thirds majority can be formed by "nations" with only 10 per cent of the world's population, and who contribute altogether about five per cent of the assessed budget.

What President Johnson faces as the 19th session opens has old roots, stark and lurid:

Promptly after World War I, 31 nations affecting nearly 75 per cent of the world's population, staged violent political upheavals. We wanted the world to be "safe for democracy". But these eruptions were so complete that the number of people under democratic forms of government were actually fewer than before World War I.

THEN THE GERMAN aggressor struck again. But even with the defeat of the hideous Nazis, World War II spelled the end of freedom for additional millions. Like the Fascists before them, the Red hangmen never run out of rope. In China alone, Mao Tse-tung himself has admitted he executed 800,000 anti-Communist Chinese.

Sino - Soviet foreign policy likewise cashes in on the prestige of violence. Well-organized gangs have a very real power.

Meanwhile, tragically we cooperated in helping to fracture much of the rest of the world into defenseless little pieces, chiefly in Southeast Asia, Africa and the Middle East. In this we courted "world opinion," which is never defined. As one result, before World War II Communist parties existed in 43 countries and totaled 4.2 million members. Communist parties now number 90 and the total members exceeds 42 million.

U. N. membership ballooned from 57 to 115. Yet of the 115 only 26 are what the organization itself calls "developed" nations.

In this tumbling avalanche as many as 13 new "nations" have been taken aboard in a single day.

Although most are merely primitive communities, all are referred to as "underdeveloped nations," implying that each would be more or less an advanced nation if only it had the money and the chance.

Thus tiny Gabon, for example, with only half the population of the Bronx in New York and a constitution glued together by witch doctors, has a vote in the U. N. that counts as heavily as that of the United States.

We helped create a potential balance of power in the General Assembly by delegates whose home population for the most part know as little about democracy, freedom, justice, etc., in Western terms as they know about the Dow - Jones averages or Casey Stengel and the Mets.

Our taxpayers pay nearly one-third of the organization's regular budget. Additional assessments are under dispute. But, even beyond these, the ramifications are hardly known to our public.

Some time ago Russia sold trucks and jeeps to Castro. The Kremlin cleverly labeled the deal "for malaria eradication purposes" and put the transaction through the Pan American Health Organization and the World Health Organization of the U. N. in Geneva. We pay 66 per cent of PAHO's budget. We also pay over 90 per cent of WHO's malaria account.

Moreover, the doings behind the scenes do not stop there. At the December 1 opening of the 19th General Assembly, 77 "under - developed" countries pushed for trade concessions, commercial advantages and new spending programs within the U. N. for which we'd be chief payers and they would be the chief beneficiaries.

The long record shows that we are fully aware of our responsibilities to the "underdeveloped" countries. But President Johnson is certainly right in asking whether they are aware of their responsibilities to us.

The United Nations Charter was flown back to Washington from San Francisco in a fireproof box with a parachute attached in case the plane fell. And perhaps it's in the nature of history to declare itself through small events. The man in charge who held it in his lap, was Alger Hiss.

Senior Citizens Stirred To Anger

ANGRY HORNETS? They are harmless when compared to stirred-up senior citizens in danger of losing their favorite designation. Many weeks have passed and I still receive pro and con letters from readers on the subject of youngsters, midsters and oldsters (pardon, senior citizens).

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: Shame on you! I am 68, the mother of two sons and a daughter. I have 11 wonderful grandchildren. I am a widow of many years and support myself by working.

At present, I am president of the Ladies Senior Citizen Club here and enjoy every minute of it. I don't agree with your pet hate. I despise the words: age, aging and oldster. We are only as young as we feel. We are entitled to some prestige and dignity. How do you expect the young people to respect their grandmas and grandpas when you degrade us by calling us oldsters? Believe me, I have cut out your column on the subject, and propose to read it at the next meeting and have a show of hands on how these delightful "old ladies" feel about it.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I want to thank you for letting me know (through your column) that at least one other person does not like the words "senior citizen" as a designation for older people. From the beginning, it has made me a little sick at the stomach to read it. I am 75, still acting as office secretary at a fair salary, and living along on a walkup third floor.

I'm a relative stranger in this town and a Senior Citizen's Club meets on Saturday and Sunday. I've been tempted to attend, but that name holds me back. I presume you've had many angry letters from senior citizens. You deserve at least one from an "oldster" who agrees with you. — Mrs. S.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I heartily agree with your thoughts on the term senior citizens. It gives me the shakes every time I read it. I was 81 on my birthday last month, and in good health, I am proud to be an oldster, in contrast to my four grandsons who are youngsters.

Mrs. J.

Mrs. B.: It is true that a person who has Reiter's disease doesn't necessarily have venereal disease because he has a discharge. Inflammation of the mucous membrane of the eyes, of the urethra and inflammation of joints are the common "triad" in Reiter's disease.

DEAR DR STEINCROHN: All women with children do not automatically deserve the name "mother." Mothers often fail their children from the time they are born by not giving them love and affection. And the fathers of such families are usually spineless.

I speak from experience, I have a grandson like that. I pray he finds happiness in time. Children suffer for the sins of their parents. — Mrs. K.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I am 81 and have been running a small grocery store for 42 years. I have been having some pain in a knee joint. Doctors are so busy with younger sick people they don't give us much time. Is an occasional aspirin all right? — Mrs. W.

Comment: Don't see how it can harm you. But hear this: Please accept my best wishes for your spunk and fortitude in your work.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How to Get a Good Night's Sleep," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer readers' letters. Nevertheless, most questions are answered in later columns.

SUNDAY POEM

Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folks we met would say,
"I know something good about you"
And then treat us just that way?
Wouldn't it be fine and dandy,
If each handclasp, warm and true,
Carried with it this assurance,
"I know something good about you?"
Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
That folks bothered to recall?
Wouldn't life be lots more happy
If we praised the good we see?
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me.
Wouldn't it be nice to practice
The fine way of thinking, too;
You know something good about me;
I know something good about you?

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

We offer herewith, without comment, two statements that seem to contribute to the continuing dialogue about the role of television in today's world:

Says NBS chairman Robert Sarnoff, "We feel that television is good for a nation, and we feel that's good for the world in general, particularly as a way of helping educate the so-called backward nations."

Says British TV commentator John Brown, "underdeveloped societies know nothing as barbaric as the world postulated by television commercials."

MISERABLE

Want to know how to be miserable — just in case you're not? Then try this formula on for size:

Think about yourself.
Talk only about yourself.
Use "I" as often as possible.
Mirror yourself continually in the opinion of others.
Listen greedily to what people say about you.
Expect to be appreciated.
Be suspicious.
Be jealous and envious.
Be sensitive to slights.
Never forgive a criticism.
Trust no one but yourself.
Insist on consideration and respect.
Demand agreement with your own views on everything.
Never forget a service you may have rendered.
Do as little as possible for others.
Love yourself supremely.
Be selfish.
This recipe is guaranteed to be infallible.

ISZAT SO?

One thing about our benevolent government, it is always trying to make us feel more comfortable, even if we aren't. And often our government takes a roundabout way of arriving at certain conclusions to make us feel better.

Take Mary Jane Ellis, who works with the Consumer and Food Economics Research Division of the Agriculture Department, who has just been telling the department's agricultural outlook conference that when you get by age 44 your family expenses begin to go down.

The way she explains it, that generally is so because the "interaction of biological, economic, legal, religious and social factors propels most Americans along a course in which common events occur within fairly narrow age spans."

You understand it? What it seems to mean: The kids grow up and you don't have so many mouths to feed. Or bodies to clothes. Maybe so, although we hadn't noticed. Costs seem to keep right on going higher, somehow. And the Internal Revenue Service doesn't give any credit for grandchildren.

FROM A READER

Mrs. J. D. Johns of Sondheimer sends along a letter in which she says, "I have been reading your column and enjoying it very much. Every once in a while I feel a need to express the beauty of our lovely Delta country in someway, needless to say I do not express myself very well, but it does give me a better feeling to try. Keep up the good work that you have been doing."

She also sends along a little poem which we are reprinting.

THE GHOST TREE

High in the sky,
With limbs serene
The Ghost Tree spies
Over the Delta stream.
Ages ago it stood here, too,
Many's the change been made,
Waving it's white arms in the blue,
Sheltering friends 'neath it's shade.
Times change, days go on.
Sycamore watches all the while.
Standing on the banks all alone,
Barges on the river single file

COULD BE SO

Overheard recently:

Editor: "You wish a position as a proofreader?"

Applicant: "Yes, sir."

Editor: "Do you understand the requirements of that responsible position?"

Applicant: "Perfectly. Whenever you make any mistakes in the paper, just blame 'em on me, and I'll never say a word."

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR

Is a slippery thing and sly
You can hunt till you are dizzy,
But it somehow will get by.
Till the forms are off the presses,
It is strange how still it keeps
It shrinks down into a corner
And it never stirs or peeps,
The typographical error,
Too small for human eyes!
Till the ink is on the paper
When it grows to mountain size,
The boss, he stares with horror,
Then he grabs his hair and groans.
The copy reader drops his head
Upon his hands and moans—
The remainder of the issues
May be clean as clean can be,
But that typographical error
Is the only thing you see.

DID YOU KNOW

On the grounds of the Georgia Tucker school in Monroe is buried an Alaskan husky dog? The dog went to the South Pole with Admiral Byrd in 1929, and was brought to Monroe by a man who was showing pictures of the Byrd trip and making educational talks. While here the dog died and by popular demand of the children, was buried on the school ground. This information comes to us from Miss Myrtle Rodgers, who retired in 1952 after more than 30 years as principal of Georgia Tucker.

HOW LIBERTY PASSES

A few years ago, a historian made a study to determine how nations lose their liberty and their identity. His inquiry took into consideration eight great so-called democracies or empires of the past: Athens, Rome, Venice, Florence, The First and Third French Republics, the Weimar Republic in Germany, and Italy.

Interesting to note is that the study revealed that in five of those eight democracies, liberty was voted away by the people themselves. Only two of the nations lost their liberty through violence, and in one country, Athens, a dictatorship was set up through conspiracy and bribery of legislators. Not one of these democratic governments fell under invasion by foreign power.

This study bore out the conclusion reached two centuries ago by Edmund Burke, the English statesman and author, that "people never give up their liberty except under some delusion."

From where we sit, many Americans during the last quarter - century, have succumbed to the delusion that all our problems can be solved by an all - powerful central government. And already these citizens have surrendered part of our liberty, in exchange for the false security offered by government programs. In all such programs, there must be government control.

As control of the people increases, liberty declines. What would you say is happening in the U. S. today?

OVERHEARD

Overheard on a downtown street the other day:

As a woman stepped off a penny scale and turned to her husband, he eyed her appraisingly and asked, "Well, what's the verdict? A little overweight, eh?"

"Oh, no," said his wife, "I wouldn't say that, but according to the height table, printed on the front, I should be about six inches taller."

TWO BLACK EYES

His mother said to him: "Fighting again. Didn't I tell you that when you are angry you should count a hundred before you do anything?"

"Yes, I know," replied the anxious youngster, "but the other boy's mother told him to count only fifty."

A BONA FIDE old-timer is a person who can remember when the school and college football season ended at Thanksgiving . . .

SUCCESSFUL TEACHER

Are you a successful teacher? Here is a little test by which you may judge yourself:

A successful Teacher needs,
The education of a college president
The executive ability of a financier
The humility of a deacon
The adaptation of a chameleon
The hope of an optimist
The courage of a hero
The wisdom of a serpent
The gentleness of a dove
The patience of Job, and
The Grace of God.

THE CLOCK OF LIFE

The clock of life is wound but once
And no man has the power
To tell just when the hand will stop —
At late or early hour.
Now is the only time you own.
Live, love, toil with will;
Place not faith in tomorrow for
The clock may then be still.

TWIN CITIES WEEK IN REVIEW

Splendor Noted In Local News

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

News, like love, is a many-splendored thing—given a good week, that is. Last week was. In fact — in keeping with our policy of using a big word where a small one would do — there were manifold developments.

Take West Monroe. The controversial, though almost certain, sale of its riverfronting Commerce Street property took a giant step toward fulfillment Thursday as a legally-mandatory public hearing went by the boards. For added spice, there was broad indication the matter might find final fulfillment in court.

TYLER

Still in West Monroe, the Chamber of Commerce made new ripples in an old pond when it announced plans for a "comprehensive" study of "overlapping" operations and taxing "inequities" occasioned by dual (city and parish) school systems.

The educational environ was itself newsworthy, with the Ouachita Parish School Board gaining seven new members (six, actually, and a repeater) and losing a football coach.

But a large part of the week's news can be summed up perhaps in two words — fire protection. It was a burning issue; color it red. (It's also a vitally serious subject — we just couldn't resist the pun.)

Those who could hark back to times when preparedness was a horse and a bucket must have breathed weary sighs, for by week's end the figurative conflagration had spread to every arm of local government.

It topped in the official chambers of, chronologically, Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita Parish, before halting Wednesday, temporarily at least, when the police jury lighted a back fire.

They voted, in a 12-7 split, to create a parish-wide (non-municipal) fire district, to be maintained apparently from the proceeds of a tax election. It was one more step toward providing protection after Monroe discontinues rural firefighting Dec. 31.

The announcement was made that district commissioners will be named after Jan. 1 (replacing police jurors who technically are commissioners now), to see to details, among them presumably financial details. Firm statements on the form of protection and when it may be expected still are to come. Also, hopefully, something on plans to cope with post-Dec. 31 blazes.

One idea went up in smoke as West Monroe and the jury, in effect, took opposite ends of the hose. Aldermen Tuesday night endorsed creation of a West Ouachita fire district to be served by augmented city crews and further stipulated that if the jury went along it could expect protection west of the river after Dec. 31. However, it was no sale, the decibel rating being higher Wednesday for a parish-wide district.

The developments came in the aftermath of a Monroe City Council reaffirmation Tuesday morning of the year-end deadline. Mayor W. L. Howard's expressed willingness to assume parish-wide rural responsibility still stands, though he said Wednesday the suggested east-west split protection might not be financially sound for the city. Most rural assessment, we think we're correct, is west of the Ouachita.

West Monroe Mayor J. Allan Norris spoke for the record Friday, labelling the parish-wide plan with Monroe handling the whole package "impractical." He said, because of traffic and other factors, the use of both fire departments should be most favored.

Back in West Monroe as we are, a closer look at the property sale is in order. We called the sale earlier "almost certain." Actually it seems to be just about what one of the aldermen, Mrs. Joyce Smith, called it during the week — cut and dried. In the minds made up category, we're listing, in addition to Mrs. Smith, Charles Anding, George Wylie and A. L. DeLoach Jr., leaving only Earl Duncan as loyal opposition, though the mayor is spiritually with him.

The aldermen meet this Tuesday to take formal action in a session that's predicted to be "short and sweet." Duncan plans to ask for a public referendum on the question (this was one of the main points at the public hearing), but as he says himself, "I may not get a second."

Now, it's not our business to take sides, but let's allow that some good points were made at the hearing. Mrs. Smith's contention that the land, used as the site of city garages, is a mite small seems valid, as does her assertion that a spur track nearby makes for inconvenience. And, as Anding said, $72,000 looks like a tidy enough sum for less than an acre of land. On the other side of the fence, a reasonable doubt was raised as to the contemplated use of the land. Being downtown as it is, some of those heard felt that other than an industrial development might be apropos.

As for other objections—cost of relocating, need for the land as access to the river or for future docking facilities — they seemed well met and logically answered. For that matter, most of the statements made seemed reasoned and sensible — on both sides.

Moving just a block or so from city hall to the Chamber of Commerce, reason and sense will be needed in massive doses as that organization reopens its investigations of the dual school systems.

If memory serves, it was something like a year ago that the Chamber wound up another study of the situation with a call for study and recommendations by the state education department. What became of the request when it reached Foggy Bottoms is a puzzler, but the likely result of the new inquiries will be a similar request.

Anyhow, Chamber President Bert Hatten will appoint his committee, as authorized by the organization's directors, for another chorus. The two school board presidents, B. A. Tarver for the parish and J. H. Scogin Jr. of Monroe, pledged cooperation, but, let's face it — who wants a change?

We're inclined to think it's not the city and it's probably not the parish either, considering the nearly precise voting balance between members east and west of the river. That last - mentioned nettle, incidentally, was one of Hatten's criticisms in a statement Wednesday — there are four members living in Monroe on the parish school board. No Tory he, he called it "representation without taxation."

Two of the members, by the way, were among the seven sworn to new six-year terms Tuesday. Representing ward 10 will be Mrs. George M. Snellings Jr. and Milton W. Ford, who took office along with Thomas Golson, James Lee, Bill Norris, William Ray and C. E. Buckley (the ward three repeater).

As intimated at the outset, though, it wasn't all plus last week in the parish system. The minus was Frank Mobley, head football coach and athletic director at Ouachita Parish High School.

Amid rumors of other pending changes in the athletic establishment, the Lion mentor's resignation, effective at the end of the semester, was something of a surprise, even to those in the business. Mobley, who came here from Winnfield, was only in his second year, hardly enough time for rebuilding, if the team's record, as some were assuming, was the reason for leaving.

Without calling any names—there wouldn't be room to list them all — it seems there's a tremendous and often undue emphasis on athletics these days, particularly on the won-lost aspect. Many times, the future of human beings hinge on the winning of what, after all, are only games. That's a general observation and just a single opinion, but one time we'd love to witness an overflow crowd for a Brains Bowl, even if it turned out to be a financial flop.

Monroe's Christmas parade, held Saturday, and, we feel sure, the biggest ever staged, another in the perennial credits due the sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce. These lines being reeled off late Friday, we're sorry we can't list the winning floats, but, by now, you probably know which they were anyway. If you don't, look elsewhere in today's World.

The World In Focus
Days Of Saltier Scribes
By John Cale

Perspective

REMEMBER THE days when some of the saltier scribes, voicing loyal opposition in the manner of Westbrook Pegler, used to criticize the material our government placed in U.S. overseas libraries? You would have thought these writers had kicked over the Lincoln Memorial or toppled the Washington Monument, judging from the reactions of outraged officials in several Washington bureaus.

Now, it seems to be the fashion in certain circles abroad to register a protest against the United States by sacking the nearest Information Agency library and burning the books.

THE MARAUDERS are not nearly so selective nor constructive as were the American critics. Pegler, for example, never questioned the fact that the libraries should be there. He simply did not like the idea of attributing all U.S. growth and greatness to the "new deal" and associated movements — an observation he himself made while scanning the books on several overseas library shelves.

To the rioters, the libraries afford a target. And that target is the flag of the United States. The books in the library are secondary, although all of them seem to make a good fire. Over the past two weeks, mobs have hit United States Information Agency libraries in Java, Jakarta and Egypt.

Nothing Sacred

WASHINGTON'S position in the matter causes one to wonder just what our officials hold dear. In East Java, the mob hauled down the U.S. flag — and we feel sure such a group took few pains to detach and fold Old Glory properly — then hoisted the Indonesian flag.

In Cairo, Egyptian mobs protested the U.S. airlift of Belgian paratroopers to the Congo by wrecking the John F. Kennedy Memorial library there.

The trend has thus far brought only routine protests from the administration officials most concerned. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in a statement that did not name the countries involved, said:

"The United States has noticed the tendency of these violent acts to recur in certain countries, and it is especially concerned about violent acts which appear to be connived at or acquiesced in by authorities of the host state, or in which the authorities are slow in taking action to control mobs of rioters."

U.S. Information Agency Director Carl T. Rowan said in a speech in Cleveland:

"I HAVE been beset by anger, and then pity, as I have read of the senseless mobs in the United Arab Republic, in Indonesia and other places smashing library buildings and destroying books."

SINCE 1947, there have been 75 or more violent incidents involving U.S. overseas libraries. This year brought a new high — 16 incidents in 10 different countries.

Brazilian students disapproved of an increase in bus fares. So they smashed the windows of the USIA library.

Bolivia tops the list with five library-wrecking demonstrations this year. Indonesia came next with three. Other countries where overseas libraries have been hit were Panama, Cambodia, Colombia, Pakistan, Ceylon and the Sudan.

IT WOULD seem the official U.S. reaction is to shout down constructive criticism of the libraries from interested and concerned citizens in no uncertain terms while looking upon the mobs' desecration of the flag and the name of a late President as a "pity."

This is straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel, certainly in the incident which occurred in Cairo. Indeed, these people still know first hand the difference between gnats and camels, and the simile has been known to them and neighboring tribes for thousands of years.

Gold Star

BACK IN the days of World War I, so far as we can gather, the custom began where gold stars placed in a home's window meant a son had given his life for his country.

This being the case, the family of E. L. Stoneburner ,Columbus, Ohio, has earned no fewer than three gold stars. The last son in the family, Major John Stoneburner, 34, was killed in action in Viet-nam last week. The family lost its two other sons in World War II.

Maj. Stoneburner

The deaths of Major Stoneburner and three other servicemen in the Vietnamese "brush fire" war brought the U.S. toll to the 230-mark. While these figures seem small by comparison to the daily casualty lists the country became accustomed to during the two World Wars and the Korean War, there is still the burning question: what other major power — including the Soviet Union — has suffered such a toll of military fatalities since 1945?

Touch And Go

AS FOR the fighting in Vietnam, the "touch-and-go" situation continued last week very much the same as it has since the United States entered the picture. South Vietnamese troops assisted by U.S. advisers and airmen caught a fairly large number of Viet Cong rebel guerrillas in an open rice paddy area near Ca Mau last Saturday.

Rebel losses were 115. But 14 U.S. helicopters were shot up and government casualties after the nine-hour fight were 86.

During counter action from this attack by about 50 rebels on Tuesday, three Americans were killed at an outpost near the southern tip of South Vietnam.

A U.S. military spokesman Wednesday said government troops attempting to dislodge the Viet Cong were "heavily engaged" with the enemy at midday.

Casualties were heavy. Dead bodies were scattered around the An Lao district headquarters and across the valley. It was believed the Communists were trying to wipe out all government installations in the valley.

A U.S. spokesman said the Viet Cong was jamming ground and air radio communications equipment, making it extremely difficult to determine the situation in the area.

Flying in the area is hazardous for helicopters and bombers because of low clouds and constant groundfire. Mountains in the area rise to 8,000 feet. The Communists blew up a bridge on the only road into the region.

Diplomatic Front

IN SAIGON, U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor was joined by Gen. Harold K. Johnson, U.S. Army chief of staff, for the third day of secret talks with Vietnamese military and civilian government leaders.

IN WASHINGTON, Viet Nam's new ambassador, Tran Thien Khiem, predicted the situation in his strife torn country "certainly will improve."

The envoy called on Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He told reporters afterward the new government in Viet Nam "is going to do a better job" and will achieve unity of all elements of the country in its fight on the North Viet Nam guerrilla forces.

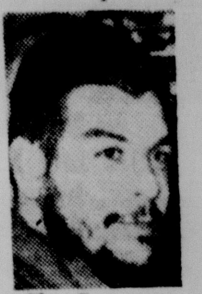
IN AN unverified report, Communist North Viet Nam charged that three U.S. and South Vietnamese warships shelled a North Vietnamese village today for 15 minutes.

Peking's New China News Agency, in a broadcast monitored here, said a protest was filed with A.M. Rahman, Indian chairman of the three national control commission in Hanoi by Colonel Ha Van Lau, chief of the liaison mission of the North Vietnamese army high command.

Nothing

WHILE MOST United Nations delegates, even those from the newly independent nations, go about in business suits, Ernesto Che Guevara, bearded member of the Castro Cuban government, continues to wear a green military fatigue uniform.

When reporters asked Guevara, who holds the position of Minister of Industry under Castro, if the U. N. could do anything to improve Cuban-U. S. relations, he replied, "Nothing."



Che Guevara

As an aftermath to this rather hopeless statement, Guevara addressed the U. N. General Assembly Friday. He could have taken his speech from any number of Castro diatribes which customarily blast away at the United States government for "colonialist, imperialist and warmongering" views and actions.

LITTLE WONDER that he told newsmen that the U. N. could do nothing to improve the U. S.-Cuban relationship. During his utterances, an explosion, supposedly from a small bomb or grenade in the East River, rattled windows in the 38-story United Nations building. There were no injuries or damages, although anti-Castro Cuban groups staged several demonstrations in the vicinity.

Farther South

CHEDDI JAGAN, Marxist Premier of the Latin American country of British Guiana, is a member of a political movement that shouts loudly about "democracy," but refuses to adhere to its most basic principles.

Jagan's party was defeated at the polls last week. But he refused to quit.

"I will not resign," Jagan told a news conference. "The British government will have to force me out."

However, some experts on the South American colony's constitution said there were ambiguities that create a doubt whether Jagan's tenure would end automatically or whether his resignation is required.

Traditionally, premiers resign when defeated in elections. But Jagan charged fraud in the vote Monday which cost him his majority in the assembly. His decision not to resign was backed by a vote of the executive committee of his People's Progressive Party.

BRITISH GOVERNOR, Sir Richard Luyt, held separate meetings with Jagan and two opposition leaders, Forbes Burnham of the People's National Congress and Peter D'Aguiar of the United Force.

BURNHAM, who is expected to succeed Jagan,announced Thursday that he and D'Aguiar had agreed to form a coalition government. Jagan's party won the most seats — 24 — in Monday's election. But the National Congress with 22 and United Force with 7 would have a five vote majority as a coalition.

Jagan was believed attempting to use his forced removal from office to discredit the incoming regime and possibly provoke a fresh outburst of racial violence. Meanwhile, he and his wife, the former Janet Rosenberg of Chicago, moved out of the premier's residence.

JAGAN, an East Indian, draws his support from that element of the population, while Burnham is a Negro and the leader of his race in the British colony. East Indians outnumber Negroes 3-2. Clashes between the two races took 167 lives during the past year.

High Styles

WE DON'T know what sort of pot we might be stirring in the field of high fashion. But the fellow who once criticized the informal attire of former First Lady Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy has been commissioned to make the inaugural ball gown for Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

John Moore

For better or for worse, the young designer, John Moore, is from Texas.

An additional style note from Washington says President Johnson plans to take the oath of office in a black business suit and four-in-hand tie. This represents a contrast from the formal dress—white bow tie and tails—worn by the late President Kennedy at his inauguration in January, 1960.

Humphries Role

PRESIDENT JOHNSON says he will make Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey responsible for coordinating and pressing government programs that are dedicated to the goal of equal opportunity.

This announcement Thursday to the Urban League was accompanied by a Johnson pledge to make the emancipation of Negroes "a fact" and a promise that he will be content with "nothing less than the full assimilation of more than 20 million Negroes into American life."

IN BOTH instances Johnson drew sustained applause.

Urban League Executive Director Whitney Young told the President that Negroes trust him, believe in him and 95 per cent of them voted for him.

The six government groups whose activities Johnson said Humphrey has agreed to coordinate were listed by the President as the Justice Department's civil rights division, the Civil Rights Commission, the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Housing, the Community Relations Service, the soon-to-be created Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Employment.

WHEN JOHNSON was vice president he headed the employment opportunity group. Whether Humphrey will become its chairman is up in the air — as is the status of the committee at a time of transition to operations under the new civil rights law.

British Relations

THE DUKE of Windsor, formerly King Edward VIII of England, who gave up his throne for the American woman he loved, plans to check into a Houston, Texas, hospital during the coming week for corrective arterial surgery.

Edward VIII

The duke's wife, the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, Maryland, will accompany him. The surgery was scheduled to be performed by Dr. Michael De Bakey, professor of surgery, Baylor University College of Medicine.

MORE IN the category of official business were two days of talks last week between President Johnson and Britain's new Labor prime minister, Harold Wilson.

THE UPSHOT of the talks was that what had been a narrow subject — a U.S. proposal for a 25-ship Allied nuclear fleet — now becomes, with American approval, a much broader subject for Allied discussion, going far beyond the original scheme.

In effect, Johnson agreed, for a limited time, not to press the U.S. plan, while Britain tries to sell its enlarged plan to other members of the Western Alliance.

The U.S. proposal, known as the Multilateral Nuclear Force, or MLF, was for a fleet of surface ships armed with Polaris missiles capable of hitting Russia, all financed, controlled and manned jointly by Allied nations.

Repertoire Includes Hirt

Fiedler--From Bach To Beatles

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — If you have talent, it's never too late to break in a night club act.

Arthur Fiedler, white-haired, elegantly tailored conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra and turning 70 on Dec. 17, did just that at jazz trumpeter's Al Hirt's night club in New Orleans.

As he raised his baton to give Hirt and his combo the downbeat, he asked, "Where are the other 90 men?"

Hirt's reply was to blow the first bright note of "Java" and a Fiedler evening before the public had begun.

Fiedler made a night of it, going on down Bourbon Street to hear some old-time jazz and later to see a strip show.

The Boston Herald, pretending to be perturbed by the jollity and fearful of the allure of New Orleans jazz, ran an editorial which began "Won't you come home, Art Fiedler, won't you come home?"

The newspaper had nothing to worry about. Within a week, Fiedler was back in Boston, the city of his birth, having stopped off to conduct the New York Philharmonic on the way.

Fiedler, who enjoys the best of all kinds of music, has no patience with those who take pride in confining their appreciation to one special form.

"There is such damn snobbism in music, you know," he says, pronouncing the words with rapid relish in a melodic Boston accent. "Some people go on forever listening to baroque music. I don't see how they can, as great as some of it is. There isn't very much variety in rhythm or tonality.

"And jazz snobs can be just as bad—listening only to jazz.

"I happen to agree with Rossini, a very smart man, that all music is good except the boring kind."

The Boston Pops Orchestra, 97 summertime musicians who spend their winters playing in the Boston Symphony, has been conducted by Fiedler and guided by the Fiedler-Rossini philosophy for 35 years.

"At a Pops concert, in Symphony Hall," Fiedler says, "you sit around tables where you can smoke and partake of wine, beers and purple lemonade that they call Pops Punch. We have two intermissions. For the first third of the program, we give out pretty solid musical fare. In the middle we have a soloist and some important orchestral number. The last part is music from Broadway musicals Strauss, LeRoy Anderson and so on.

"It's like a meal. You get the soup and meat courses and then you lighten up with dessert. Some people come for the heavy and some for the light and sit through the other kind and say about it, 'This isn't so bad.' A Pops concert is a good melting pot.

"He said would I come and conduct his combo in New Orleans and I said, 'Well, yes, for a price.'"

So, on Oct. 21, Fiedler made his nightclub debut, in the Al Hirt Club.

The maestro has only praise for his new friend, the trumpeter. "Al does a fine 'Haydn Concerto in D Major' and 'Lost Chord' on this record, as well as 'Java' and 'Bugler's Holiday,'" Fiedler says.

"We had difficulty, though, finding a name for the album. Somebody suggested 'Holiday for Brass' which sounds like Sousa marches. Somebody else came up with 'Fiedler Gets Hirt' which I didn't think was very good. Then I thought of 'Pops Goes the Trumpet' — and that was it.

"Now I want to make one called 'Holiday for Conductors.' Just silence."

"I like it all. I was born lucky, I think. I have great variety of musical taste and I would be bored to do the same kind of thing all the time.

"This is one reason I've been tempted to stay so long in Boston. It is a tradition that Boston Symphony conductors can do exactly what they please. If you want to go out on a limb and hang yourself, hang yourself, that's all."

HE'S SEVERAL times the age of most Beatle fans, but Arthur Fiedler helped promote the cult of the British rock and rollers in the United States. Here Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra for 35 of his 70 years (come Dec. 17,) adjusts a Beatle wig before leading the orchestra in his arrangement of their song, "I Want To Hold Your Hand," last Jan. 6 at Symphony Hall in Boston. He had heard the quartet in Liverpool, England, during a guest conducting tour. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Early this year, before Beatlemania bit America, Fiedler went out on a limb with the Beatles. He made an orchestral arrangement of their song, "I Want to Hold Your Hand," and conducted it wearing a Beatle wig. He didn't hang himself; he was a smash hit.

"I've been getting calls all over the country to come and conduct it," Fiedler says. "The Pops recorded it and they tell me that it's the first time a 45 r.p.m. record by an orchestra has reached the 100 best sellers in this country."

Fiedler first heard the song in England last winter, while on an all-classical, guest-conducting excursion which also included Turkey, South Africa and Belgium.

"I was in Liverpool conducting the Royal Philharmonic," he says, "and when I'm not busy I like to imbibe, visit the night spots of the place where I am. I went to this Beatle joint, you know. And I thought it might be a wonderful idea to arrange this tune for orchestra.

"I put a 'shave and a haircut, six bits' ending on it because the Beatles need a haircut, you know. Many people don't get it."

Arthur Fiedler was born into a musical—but hardly rock 'n' roll—family. His father, born in Austria, was first violinist in the Boston Symphony. Two uncles also were Boston Symphony violinists.

After graduating from Berlin's Royal Academy, where he studied violin, viola, celesta, piano, organ, percussion and conducting, a fourth Fiedler, age 19, joined the violin section. That was 50 years ago.

In 1924, Fiedler organized the Boston Sinfonietta, a chamber ensemble of symphony musicians. In 1929, he instigated and conducted two weeks of free, outdoor concerts by the Boston Symphony on the Charles River esplanade.

FIFTY YEARS AFTER Arthur Fiedler made his debut as a classical musician, he makes his nightclub debut last Oct. 22 in New Orleans, La. Fiedler (left) conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra, leads trumpeter Al Hirt (right) and his six-piece jazz band. Hirt had invited Fiedler after making a record album with Fiedler's 90-piece Pops orchestra last summer in Boston's Symphony Hall. That's where Fiedler 50 years ago became the fourth violinist from his family in the Boston Symphony. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

---The Return Of Jean Harlow---

Bombshell Explodes Again

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jean Harlow, the blonde bombshell of the movies' golden era, is exploding all over Hollywood — and soon the world.

Four movies based on her life are in the works. The new spring fashion lines already are showing the "Harlow Look," featuring satiny, clinging fabrics with slinky full sleeves and low cut bodices. Beauty shops are promoting Harlow platinum blonde hairdos.

All of which is most unusual for a star who has been dead nearly 30 years.

Joseph Levine's production of "Harlow" is scheduled to hit the screen first. It will star Carroll Baker, Hollywood's newest sex symbol, who bears a striking resemblance to Jean.

Irving Shulman, an English professor at California State College at Los Angeles, reopened the Harlow era with a best-selling biography of the star, based in great part on reminiscences of Jean's first agent, Arthur Landau.

To the younger generation, it might oversimplify things to say Jean was the Marilyn Monroe of her time. But the movie careers of Monroe and Harlow were strikingly similar. Each was the sex symbol of her generation and each suffered from the pressures of such status. Both were well-liked by people who worked with them. And each had the same costar in her last movie — Clark Gable.

Jean was 26 when she died and starred only seven years on the screen. She once said: "Sex is fine on the screen—but a nuisance off it."

Her first marriage at 16, an elopement from a swank girl's school, lasted technically three years but was ended long before that.

Her marriage to Bern — like Monroe's marriage to playwright Arthur Miller — was an experience in education. Bern, an intellectual, introduced her to fine books and art.

But he committed suicide, leaving a note which has puzzled Hollywood to this day.

It read: "Dearest dear: unfortunately, this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. I love you. P.S. You understand that last night was only a comedy."

The following year she eloped to Yuma, Ariz., with Hal Rosson, a cameraman. She divorced him on March 11, 1934 with this comment: "He was cruel— and he read in bed."

Like Monroe, Jean was quick on the quips with Hollywood reporters. Yet, also like Monroe, she was basically shy.

One a reporter asked Jean if she thought sex activity outside of marriage was increasing among women.

"It would be sort of difficult for it to increase among women alone — wouldn't it?" answered Jean.

Critics often panned her acting ability. She answered that with a statement that is quoted in Hollywood to this day: "If audiences like you, you don't have to be an actress."

Jean got in the movies on a dare from a friend. She did bits in comedies with Laurel and Hardy and other top comics of the silent era.

About the same time, Howard Hughes started filming "Hell's Angels," still one of the great aviation films of all time. The perfectionist millionaire spent three years making a silent movie — and then came the sound revolution.

Hughes scrapped the whole picture at a cost of a then-record $1 million. Ben Lyon and James Hall, the male stars, could talk but Greta Nissen, a sexy Norwegian, had too much accent for the talkies.

Landau was Jean's agent — and also Miss Nissen's. So Kansas City-born Jean got the part.

It was not a big part, but the audience saw plenty of Harlow and the picture made her an international celebrity. By 1930, this once unknown was 17th on a list of the 100 best-known persons in the world.

And she was only 19.

In the depths of the Depression, she really exploded on the screen. She was the extrovert, fun-loving sex bomb who made her greatest hits opposite the screen's all-time star, Clark Gable.

She starred, too, with other Hollywood greats — the Barrymores, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Wallace Berry, Lee Tracy, Franchot Tone, James Stewart, William Powell and a dozen more.

A BRIDGE between Jean Harlow and Marilyn Monroe, Hollywood sex symbols years apart, was Clark Gable. He was co-star in the last movies of both the blonde actresses, whose tragic careers showed many parallels. Here Jean appears with Gable in "Hold Your Man," at the height of her short film career in the early 1930s. She always was cast as the good bad girl. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

THE LAST MAN in Jean Harlow's life was William Powell, still a Hollywood star and a staunch defender of the blonde actress. They are seen together here in "Libeled Lady," a 1936 film. The two were to be married in the summer of 1937. But on June 7 Jean died in Powell's arms in a Hollywood hospital. She was 26. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

First Fidelity Mortgage Co. Moves Into Our New Home

Tower Drive at North Eighteenth - Monroe

A Message From Our Founders

TO OUR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS:

The officers of First Fidelity Mortgage Company proudly announce the opening of our new offices in Monroe, designed to serve you more efficiently and more effectively in the years to come. At the same time, we gratefully acknowledge that without your past support and confidence, for which we are deeply appreciative, we could not be taking this major step in our growth.

In its short eight years of operation, First Fidelity has experienced an impressive growth from $6,000,000 in residential loans in 1956 to more than $56,000,000 in residential as well as commercial loans today. This dynamic expansion could not have been possible without the wide acceptance by an ever increasing number of you – our customers and friends. It is evidence, also, of our faith in the future of the area we serve.

We are proud to be operating in Louisiana, and parts of Arkansas and Mississippi – an area of the Southland and of the country so rich in natural resources that growth in the future is inevitable. In fact, a dynamic growth is in prospect for this part of the country in the next several decades.

In spite of many problems which the South has faced in recent years, many industries and commercial firms are now recognizing the tremendous opportunities there are for locating here. The outstanding market potential, coupled with a great abundance of natural resources, makes this area one of the richest for future growth for an investor as well as industrial or commercial business.

We are humble, but proud, to be a part of this great unfolding drama. We are grateful, too, for your continued support and faith in our company. As our customers and friends, you have helped build a fine and important company. You may be certain that in the years to come, our primary aim will be to maintain your confidence.

First Fidelity Mortgage Company Moves Into New, Modern Home

First Fidelity Mortgage Company just eight years young, now celebrating their eighth anniversary, has moved into their beautiful new offices located at Tower Drive and North Eighteenth Street in Monroe. The ultra - modern new building was designed by the local firm of Rivers and Heuer to take care of First Fidelity's present organization and anticipated future growth.

In keeping pace with the rapid growth of this young, but financially strong company, First Fidelity has had four previous locations for its home office. Each time, the company was required to move to larger quarters as the need for additional personnel and equipment arose.

Designed for convenience and efficiency, the new building was planned with the customer in mind. Customers will find the office easy to reach and plenty of parking space available. The new building is located in a rapidly growing section of Monroe and is easily accessible to main arteries for out-of-town customers.

"We are proud of our new home office", stated Jamar Adcock, First Fidelity Chairman of the Board. "Not only because it provides us with much needed additional space, from which we will be better able to serve our customers; but also because it represents an expression of confidence by the public in our company. First Fidelity has grown and expanded each year to stay ahead of the demands of new loans. We are grateful for all our customers. Because of the increased business each year, we have been able to expand even more to provide additional services."

In Fall Of 1956

Firm Established In Monroe 8-Years Ago Now–

First Fidelity Mortgage Company, established eight years ago, was co-founded by William R. Boles and Jamar W. Adcock to serve a growing market for home loans in North Louisiana.

Since the fall of 1956, when First Fidelity was chartered, it has expanded rapidly until now it serves the entire state of Louisiana, Southern Arkansas, the border counties of Mississippi and the Gulf Coast of Mississippi.

Boles was a practicing attorney and was devoting a great portion of his time to real estate law, working with Adcock in his building business, as well as closing loans for him through a mortgage company in Monroe. The two began making plans in the spring of 1956 to organize a new mortgage company here. Adcock was the senior partner in one of the largest building firms in North Louisiana, and had been for a number of years arranging his own financing through eastern savings banks, which was handled by a local mortgage company.

After the charter was approved, the company was approved by FHA as a mortgagee for FHA loans. The company opened its doors in the Boles Building in Rayville, with only three people on the staff.

The following March, the company moved its offices to North 5th Street, Monroe, and added two persons to the staff. And by the summer of 1957, the company saw the need for additional space to take care of the demand for loans. This time, they moved to new offices on Royal Street.

In July, 1958, seeing the need for additional space once again, First Fidelity moved to 520 Riverside, Monroe, its location until the recent move to its brand new quarters.

This time also occasioned the opening of the company's first branch office in Lake Charles, as the demands for loans increased greatly in that area. A short time later, a branch was opened in Baton Rouge, and a good volume of business began coming in from these two offices. The company employed 12 people at that time.

In the spring of 1959, a third branch was opened in Hot Springs, Ark., and in 1962 business began to increase in South Louisiana to the point that an office was opened in New Orleans. New industry, as well as the missile plant and testing site being established in the New Orleans area, led to a good volume of business being obtained from that office.

First Fidelity began in 1956 when the housing market was moving at a fast pace in North Louisiana. And, as this same demand for home loans reached a peak throughout the state, branch offices were opened to serve the expanding areas. As business increased, the company was forced to move into larger quarters. Two years ago, the company expanded into the conventional and commercial loan, opening up outlets to handle all types of loans throughout the state.

Now, once again, the Company has moved into larger facilities, this time into a new, modern office building on Tower Drive and North 18th Street, Monroe.

As First Fidelity Mortgage Company begins its ninth year, the firm looks forward to continued progress in the state of Louisiana, Southern Arkansas, the border counties and the Gulf Coast of Mississippi.

First Fidelity Mortgage Co.

Founders Had Vision And Faith In North-east Louisiana Area When Firm Established

In 1956 the housing market was moving at a very fast pace in North Louisiana and with the demand for home loans at a peak it was decided that a new mortgage company was needed to supply the needs of the builders and realtors for this area. Mr. William R. Boles and Mr. Jamar W. Adcock began plans in the spring of 1956 to organize a new mortgage company in Monroe, Louisiana. Mr. Boles was a practicing attorney and was devoting a great portion of his time to real estate law working with Mr. Adcock in his building business, as well as closing loans for Mr. Adcock through a mortgage company in Monroe. Mr. Adcock was the senior partner in one of the largest building firms in North Louisiana and had been for a number of years arranging his own financing through Eastern Savings Banks, which was handled by a local mortgage company.

In the fall of 1956 First Fidelity Mortgage Company was chartered with a capital of $25,000. In November of this year the company was approved by the FHA as a FHA approved mortgagee. At this time the company opened its doors for business in the Boles Building in Rayville, Louisiana, with one private investor, The Schenectady Savings Bank, and Federal National Mortgage Association. March 1957 the company moved its offices to North 5th Street, Monroe, Louisiana, and added two additional people to its staff to make a total of five. By the summer of 1957 new offices were established on Royal Street in Monroe, with additional space to take care of the demand for loans. At the close of the first full year's business in 1957 the company had in excess of $6,000,000 in loans in its portfolio and had a net profit for the year of $5,254.27.

In early 1958 the company added its second investor Buffalo Savings Bank and secured a new $5,000,000 commitment for the delivery of FHA and VA loans. In July of 1958 the company moved to 520 Riverside, Monroe, a two story, brick building with approximately 9,000 square feet of floor space and only three blocks from the heart of town. At this time the company's first branch office was opened in Lake Charles, Louisiana, in the Pioneer Building. A short time later a branch was also opened on Convention Street in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and a good volume of business began coming in from these two offices. The Company now employed 12 people and with the market remaining good, a volume in excess of nine million dollars was closed for the year. The year ended with $13,500,000 in servicing and the company had a net profit of $18,506.99 for the year 1958.

In the spring of 1959 a third branch office was opened in Hot Springs, Arkansas, with the office located on Central Avenue. Our third private investor was also obtained in early 1959, being the Dry Dock Savings Bank of New York City, who purchased $2,000,000 immediately in FHA and VA loans. In 1959 the company closed in excess of $12,000,000 in new business and almost doubled its total servicing volume, ending the year with a total in servicing of $23,400,000.

In the spring of 1960 business began to show a decline, especially in Lake Charles, Louisiana, where the Air Force removed one of its Wings from the base there; and shortly after this some of the major industries in Baton Rouge began laying off employees. Even so, a good volume of business was done in North Louisiana and the year ended with the adding of eight million to our servicing portfolio. An additional investor was added in the latter months of 1960, The Manhattan Savings Bank of New York City. The year closed with a servicing volume of $30,500,000 and a net profit of $18,519.75.

1961 was another slow year for sales and the economy in the state was such that a tremendous effort was necessary to keep the volume up. The money market was fluctuating rapidly and the price of money was such that a great volume of loans was being sold to Federal National Mortgage Association. At the end of 1961 the total servicing was $36,200,000 with a net profit for the year of $19,547.80.

In the beginning of 1962 business began to increase and with the opening of a new office in New Orleans it looked as if a better year was ahead than the two previous years. New Industry, as well as the missile plant and testing site being established in the New Orleans area, led to a good volume being obtained from this new office. In the early spring the first life insurance company was added as an investor which enabled the company to expand for the first time into the conventional and commercial field. There has been a steady increase in the volume of conventional home loans and loans for commercial projects, such as a post office building, shopping center, and office buildings, were in process. Shortly after adding The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, the First National City Bank of New York which is one of the largest commercial banks, was added as an investor. With the addition of these two new investors First Fidelity now had sufficient outlets to handle all the various types of loans for business throughout the state. $10,500,000 in new business was closed during the year and despite the loss of $7,000,000 from the sale of Federal National Mortgage Association servicing the company still showed a gain of $6,000,000 in servicing over the year 1961, closing the year with a total servicing portfolio of $42,000,000. The company profit for 1962 was a net of $12,896.09.

1963 was not a big volume year primarily due to the competitiveness throughout our area of operation. There were more long term funds available than there were mortgages to fill the need, which made it difficult to compete with some companies desirous of keeping the money working. We began processing commercial loans during this year and closed our first large commercial loan prior to the end of 1963. We closed just under $8,000,000 in loans during the year and ended the year with a servicing volume of $48,000,000. We had a net profit of $25,000 for the year.

1964 thus far has been an exciting, changing year for our company. Our entrance into the large commercial lending field has proven to be most successful and at this time we have in excess of $8,000,000 of commercial loans in various stages of processing. We have been fortunate in establishing additional life companies for large commercial loans such as shopping centers, etc. We have established as a new correspondent during the year the Pan American Life Insurance Company of New Orleans for conventional home loans and commercial loans and are now working with Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company and the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company on commitments for some of the larger commercial loans.

We have just recently moved into our new offices on Tower Drive at North 18th Street in Monroe, with modern facilities to better serve our customers. First Fidelity Mortgage Company now has a total personnel of 22 in the home office and has four branch offices. In addition to serving the entire state of Louisiana we also operate in Southern Arkansas, the border counties of Mississippi and the Golf Coast area of Mississippi. The present officers of the company are Jamar W. Adcock, Chairman of the Board, William R. Boles, President, James W. Beaver, Executive Vice President, Huey P. Morris, Vice President and Treasurer, and Fannie Lou Haile, Secretary; Larry L. Winter, Ass't Vice President and Branch Manager of New Orleans office, Locke A. First Fidelity Mortgage Has IMPRESSIVE GROWTH IN MORTGAGE LOANS

In 1956, with only one employee besides its two co-founders, First Fidelity Mortgage Company got off to a modest beginning in the mortgage loan business. By the end of its first full year of operation, the firm had in excess of $6,000,000 in loans in its portfolio.

Since that time, First Fidelity has developed into a wide-spread service organization, specializing in conventional and FHA and VA home loans, as well as commercial loans. The company now serves the entire state of Louisiana, Southern Arkansas, the border counties and the Gulf Coast of Mississippi.

Currently, First Fidelity is servicing nearly $60,000,000 in residential and commercial loans for such institutional investors as The Schenectady Savings Bank, The Dry Dock Savings Bank of New York City, The Manhattan Savings Bank of New York City, The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, The First National City Bank of New York, The Buffalo Savings Bank, Pan American Life Insurance Co., and the Federal National Mortgage Association.

Following its ambitious first year, First Fidelity ended 1958 with $13,500,000 in loans. In 1959 the company, with three branch offices, almost doubled its total servicing volume, ending the year with a total of $23,400,000 in loans.

The year 1960 was another good year for the company, as they ended with a volume of $30,500,000 in servicing. The next year was a slow one and the economy in the state was such that a tremendous effort was necessary to keep the volume up. At the end of 1961, the total servicing was up to $36,200,000.

The firm closed 1962 with another increase in loans, this time bringing the total up to $42,000,000. 1963 was not a big volume year, but the company increased its servicing again and ended the year with a volume of $48,000,000.

The current year thus far has been an exciting one for the firm and presently the company is processing $8,000,000 in commercial loans. Thus, by the end of 1964, the company will be servicing in excess of $56,000,000 in loans.

In its eight years of operation, First Fidelity has experienced eight years of increasing its servicing portfolio, a steady growth of more than 10 per cent each year.

Firm Alert To Needs Of Expanding Southland!

As one of the state's fastest growing mortgage loan firms, First Fidelity Mortgage Company is rapidly achieving a prominence based on service to its customers. Because of the company's integrity, character and ability, First Fidelity has already developed a willing audience among some of the nation's largest investment institutions who are interested in sound opportunities to put funds to work in the South, particularly Louisiana.

As a result of First Fidelity's efforts, many millions of dollars have flowed in Louisiana, Southern Arkansas and Mississippi — the service area of First Fidelity. Many millions are expected to be attracted to this area, according to President William Boles.

"In spite of many problems the South has faced in recent years," Boles said, "many industries and commercial firms are now recognizing the tremendous opportunities of locating in the South. The influx into the South is expected to increase even more rapidly in the next few years because of the many advantages we have to offer. This is particularly true of Louisiana."

At present, First Fidelity has eight private investors, including The Schenectady Savings Bank, Buffalo Savings Bank, the Dry Dock Savings Bank of New York City, the Manhattan Savings Bank of New York City, The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, and the First National City Bank of New York, one of the largest commercial banks. The company has also established a new correspondent during 1964, the Pan American Life Insurance Company of New Orleans for conventional home loans and commercial loans, and is now working with Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company and the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company on committments for some of the larger commercial loans.

First Fidelity Offers Area Wide Mortgage Service

First Fidelity Mortgage Company maintains five offices strategically located to provide prompt mortgage loan service anywhere in Louisiana, Southern Arkansas, Eastern and Southern Mississippi.

The company's New Orleans branch, headed by Assistant Vice President and Branch Manager Larry L. Winter, is in the midst of the rapidly developing South Louisiana area. The Lake Charles branch, under the direction of Assistant Vice President and Branch Manager Locke A. Plouche, is centrally located in Southeast Louisiana within easy reach of towns throughout that area.

The Hot Springs, Ark. branch, headed by Assistant Vice President and Branch Manager Ferd Hand, serves the growing area of Southern Arkansas. The South Mississippi office, located at Picayune, Miss., and directed by Assistant Vice President and Branch Manager Don Foust, is in the midst of the rapidly developing Gulf Coast area.

All operations of the company are directed and controlled from the main office in Monroe, which is fully staffed with 22 experienced personnel and which uses modern office equipment for maximum efficiency.

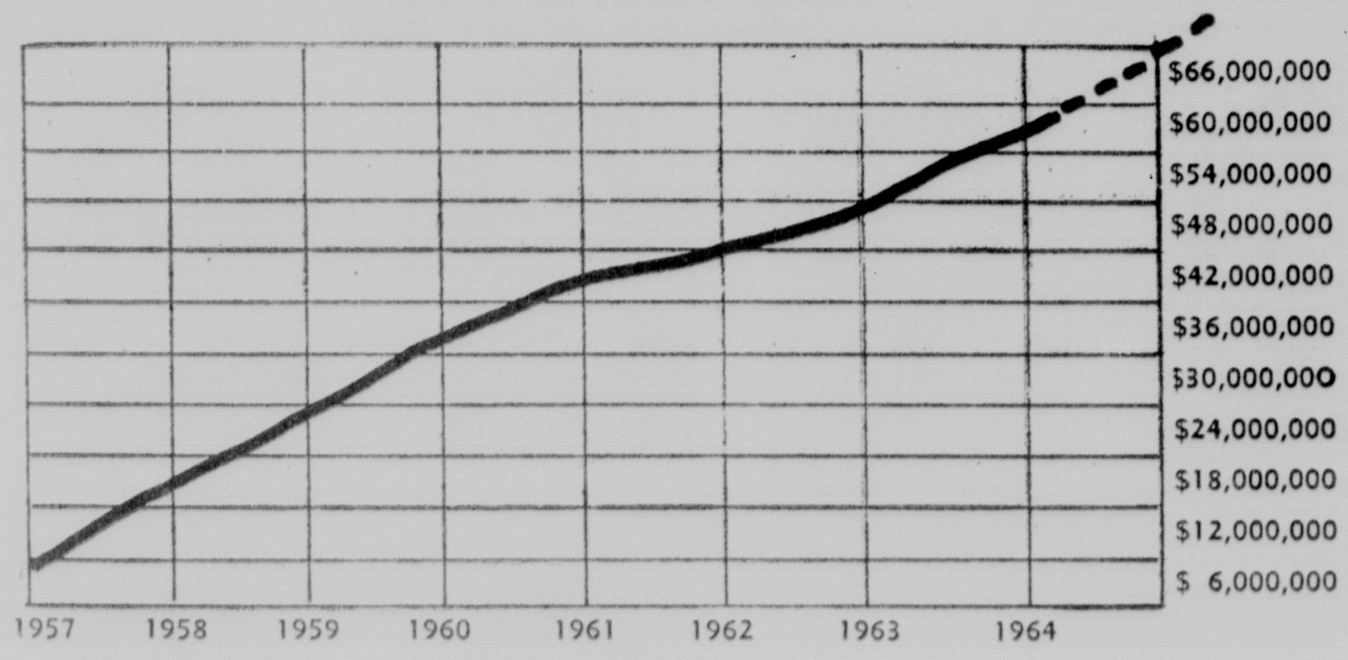
$60,000,000 IN HOME LOANS AND COMMERCIAL LOANS...
— and still GROWING!



GROWTH IN FIRST FIDELITY'S mortgage loan volume is graphically illustrated by this chart, showing increases during the eight years since First Fidelity was organized. Currently, we are servicing nearly $60,000,000 in home loans and commercial loans.

Cleveland Takes Eastern Title With 52-20 Win From Giants

Neville Beats Lions In Overtime, 56-54

By BOB CARROLL
and STUART HILL
World Sports Writers

Neville High, playing catchup much of the night, went ahead in the closing minutes of regular play but was forced into an overtime period to beat Ouachita, 56-54, and capture its third championship trophy in the fourth annual News-Star—World Tournament at the Neville Gym Saturday night.

Ruston, which beat West Monroe, 51 - 49, took third place, while Bastrop, 69 - 49 winner over Simsboro, won the consolation trophy.

Coach Benny Hollis' Tigers roared back from a six point deficit and went in front for the first time since midway of the second quarter at 52 - 50 with 43 seconds of playing time left. Four straight baskets — two by J. Dodd Brooks (voted the tournament's most valuable player) with field goals by Jay Eppinette and Johnny Clay sandwiched in between gave the Tigers their lead.

Ouachita then took the ball down court and tried to work in for the tying shot. Elmer Smith broke through, but was fouled as he went up by Neville's David Baker. With a screaming full - house crowd at his back, the Ouachita youngster calmly stepped to the line and sank his two charity shots with seven seconds left to send the game into overtime.

Ouachita got the tip from the center circle to start the extra period and worked the ball around for 45 seconds. Brooks dove in to steal the ball with 2:15 to go and went in to try a layup. He missed and Bryant grabbed the rebound for Ouachita. Bryant then got a free shot when he was fouled by Brooks.

The Lion acre missed the mark and Neville came down with the rebound. Neville got the first two points of the bonus period seconds later when Eppinette was fouled with 1:25 left. He sank both charity shots to push the Tigers ahead, 54 - 52, and Brooks added the cincher with 20 seconds left on an easy layup after getting the ball on a bad pass.

The game was tied on seven occassions — five times in the first half. Ouachita led 1 - 0 at the end of the first quarter, 15 - 14, and again at halftime, 28 - 24. Two straight shots by Brooks and Eppinette tied the game at 28 - 28 just seconds deep in the third period, but this was as close as Neville could get for the next 12 minutes.

The Lions held a 41 - 38 edge by the end of the third period, and stretched the lead to six points at 46 - 40 with five minutes left before Neville began to come around.

Neville knotted the score at 50 - 50 on the third of four straight baskets (this one by Clay) and Brooks gave the Tigers the lead on a short shot after Neville worked the ball around for 25 seconds looking for a sure shot.

Smith then knotted the game on two charity markers to force the overtime.

Brooks was the team's leading scorer with 27 points, including 11 field goals. Eppinette was in double figures for the Tigers with 14 points, collecting six of his 14 from the free throw line. Eppinette was selected as a member of the All-Tournament team.

Bryant, another All - Tourney selection, led the fastly improving Lions with 25 points, and Wally Rugg added 12.

Other All - Tournament team members included Buddy Camors of Ruston, Tom Holmer of Bastrop and Sam Brewster of West Monroe, who broke a tournament scoring record with his 75 points.

He netted 43 markers in the opening day of the tournament against Southside, hit 17 against Ouachita Friday and finished out with 15 points against Ruston.

Among other records set in the championship game Saturday night was the distinction of being the first title match to go into overtime. The game was also the highest combined score — 110 points for a championship tilt.

RUSTON THIRD

Ruston pulled ahead of West Monroe with only 16 seconds remaining and went on for its 51-49 victory in a game which was second only to the championship tilt for excitement. West Monroe's Sammy Brewster pumped in 15 points for a tournament total of 75, to break the record of 74 set by George Stone, formerly of Ruston.

West Monroe trailed the Bearcats until about midway in the final period when Ray Alexander put one in from directly underneath the goal to put the Rebs ahead, 43-42 with 4:19 left to play. Ruston came back to tie the score at 44-44 when Keith Squires sank the same type of shot with 3:00 left to go.

After Alexander dunked a driving lay up Ruston's James Brooks drew a foul shot but failed to sink the first of a one and one situation. Buddy Camors put one in to tie the score at 46-46 exactly one minute after Alexander had put the Rebels in the lead.

Camors' shot came with 1:42 left to play and West Monroe's Floyd Reeves quickly scored to put the Rebs back in front, 48-46. Brooks returned to pump in a short jump shot which knotted the score at 48-48 and West Monroe was called down offensivly for taking the ball back across the mid court stripe and Ruston was given a technical shot in the process. Camors sank the shot to give the Bearcats a 49-48 edge with only 16 seconds remaining.

Ruston's Scott Rogers then drew and made two free throws and Reeves sank one for the Rebels just before the end of the game.

Alexander paced the Rebels with 18 points and Reeves added 10 to go along with Brewster's 15. Barham led the Bearcats with 14 points followed by Camors with 13. Keith Squires added nine markers for the Ruston five and Preston Hardage chipped in seven.

CONSOLATION GAME

Bastrop never trailed Simsboro, but had a few anxious moments in the first half before pulling ahead to stay and take the consolation trophy with its 68-49 victory.

The Rams took a 18-11 lead at the end of the first frame, but the Tigers came on strong in the second to move within five points of the Rams on three different occasions and cutting the lead to three points once. Bastrop held a five point lead at intermission and pulled away from the scrappy Tigers in the third and built up a 19 point lead with about two minutes left to play in the period.

Bastrop pulled away in the third period mainly on the shooting efforts of Tom Holmer, who hit 17 for the game to pace all Rams scorers, and Robert Tatum, who struck for 12 points in the tilt. Marlin Raines, second to Holmer in scoring with 15 markers, came through with most of his points in the final frame which saw the Rams build to a maximum of 22 points ahead.

Eleven Bastrop players got into the scoring act, while only six Tigers managed to score. Tommy Summers led all scorers for the game with 21 points and Mickey Harrison aided the Tiger effort with 14 points.

Bastrop was able to shuffle in entire teams, which appeared to be defensive specialists, to give the scoring leaders a rest. The maneuver worked steadily to tire out the Tigers, who played a total of eight players while Bastrop used 14.

Simsboro seemed to match the Bastrop squad rebound for rebound in the first half of play, and especially in the second quarter, but the Rams, with a larger team took virtual control in the final half and won with little trouble.

OUACHITA'S RICHARD Hill fights to retain possession of the ball for the Lions in the closing seconds of regular play in the heated game that Neville won 56-54 in an overtime period. This picture was taken as Ouachita was trying to work the ball around under its net for a last shot to tie up the game. The Lions did not get their basket, but got something just as good when Elmer Smith sank two free throws that he earned as he was fouled attempting a shot with seven seconds remaining to play. Neville went on to win the game with two free throws by Epinette and a field goal by Brooks in the extra period. Others in the picture are Wally Rugg of Ouachita (14), and Neville's Epinnette (25) and Bill Dunn (13). (Staff photo by Richard Greene)

Enloe, Saulters Pace Tribe To Victory Over Delta State

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

Northeast State followed the one-two punch of guards Tommy Enloe and Glynn Saulters to victory number six at Brown Gym Saturday night as the Indians disposed of a tall Delta State club, 87-71, before a near full house.

Enloe and Saulters, possibly the state's top pair of outside men, were again unstoppable Saturday night against the Statesmen. Enloe, the Saline junior who was second team all-GSC last season, used a deadly jump shot from every angle to rack up 24 points and Saulters, everybody's choice for all - star honors while prepping at Lisbon two years ago, continued to be at the right spot at the right time and fired in 23 points to help carry the load with Enloe.

The Indians were somewhat cold at the beginning of the game but battled on even terms with the big visitors for about six minutes — then picked up the tempo and went in front for good.

The score was tied three times in the first five minutes before Dick Williams hit a long jumper from the top of the circle, giving the Indians a 11-9 advantage and they were never behind again.

Enloe got loose for a driving layup at 13:00 then Saulters hit two jump shots and a fast break layup, set up by a pass from Enloe, and the Indians went in front 19-12.

With eight minutes left in the half Saulters' drive pushed the Tribe lead to eight points, 27-19, and after Larry Butler's tip with six minutes to play the Indians led by nine, 31-22. But Delta suddenly cut it to three points on field goals by Wayne Hanes, 6-7 Jim Chancellor plus two free shots by Chancellor.

However, Northeast hit eight straight points in the last three minutes and went out front 41-34 by intermission.

Enloe hit twice from the outside early in the second half and Butler added a set from the corner to push Northeast back into a comfortable 11 point lead which grew as time ticked away.

By midway in the last half Northeast was in front by 18 points, 66-48, after Butler had fed Enloe on a fast break and with seven minutes left the Indians were in front 22 points on an Enloe jumper.

Mike Vining canned a jump shot from the side for a 79-56 lead at 5:31 then Butler gave Northeast its biggest lead of the night, 25 points, when he popped in a long set at 4:50.

Fant began substituting fully at this point and Delta State whittled away at the lead behind the shooting of Kay Hughes and Hanes.

However a couple of Tribe freshmen, Johnny Peel and Walter Hays, combined for three points in the last minute to push the lead back to 16 points, 87-71.

Paul Thompson, who shot only four times during the game but hit two of them, was Northeast's top rebounder with 11 while Butler and Williams had seven each. Butler netted 14 points and Williams 10 to keep their averages in double figures.

Hughes led the Statesmen with 25 points, Hanes got 15 and guard Ken Hunt netted 10. Jim Miles, a 6-3 senior, led all rebounders with 13 grabs while Hughes had came down with 11.

Johnson Paces Southeastern To 12-7 Grid Win

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Ellis Johnson scored twice and rushed for 129 yards to lead Southeastern Louisiana to a 12-7 Gulf States Conference football victory over Southwestern Louisiana Saturday night.

The win gave SLC sole possession of second place in the GSC with a 4-1 conference record and 6-3 over-all. USL finished in second place in GSC with 5-4 and 2-3 in GSC play.

Louisiana Tech Loses To State

State, now 3-1, had led 41-31 at the half. Tech's record dropped to 1-3 for the campaign.

The Maroons had five players in double figures — Don Posey with 18, Gary Washington, 12, Buddy Walden and Bill Chumbler with 11 each, and Paul Smith, 10. Charlie Crews with eight points, was the top rebounder with 11.

The Maroons held a 49-29 rebound margin.

Tech had four in double figures with Jim Pruett taking game honors with 19. Jerry Hood and Leon Barmore had 18 each, and Ray Penny had 14.

Tech led in the early going but the Mississippians took the lead at 8-7 on a fielder by John Saben and moved to a 41-31 margin at halftime.

State built the margin to 15 points at 55-40 with 13 minutes left to play. Hood, Barmore, Pruett and Penny's accurate shooting chopped the margin but the Techmen could get no closer than four points.

Ouachita Boys, West Monroe Girls Top Riser

Ouachita boys and West Monroe girls took titles in the Riser Junior High School basketball tourney Saturday night with Janelle Lewis pacing the winning girls with 27 points and Billy Kepm leading Ouachita's boys with 19 points.

Lee topped Riser 38-4 for boys consolation honors and Ouachita girls took the consolation title with a 27-15 victory over Pinecrest. Pickering had 10 for the Lee Boys and Hackworth three for Lee. Massingill scored 15 for the Ouachita girls and Calvert paced Pinecrest with 13 markers.

Start Captures Boys Crown At Mangham Meet

Cherie Griffin paced the Winnsboro girls to their win by chipping in 32 points. Judy Boughton netted 27 for the losing Mangham sextet.

Jerry Smith fired in 25 points to lead Start to its victory. Charlie Gallagher and Wilby Campbell had 20 each for Fort Necessity.

All-tourney selections were: girls: Cherie Griffin, Winnsboro; Judy Boughton, Mangham; Ginger Traxler, Start; Judy Boles, Fort; Sandra Coln, Winnsboro; Beverly Miller, Winnsboro; Phyllis Jones, Mangham; Vickie Bayles, Mangham; Jane Thomason, Mangham; Peggy Winters, Fort; and Jean Ellington, Rayville.

Frank Ryan Tosses Five TD Passes

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland won its first Eastern Conference title in the National Football League since 1957 Saturday in a 52-20 rout of the New York Giants with Frank Ryan throwing five touchdown passes.

Ryan, an unsung hero of the Browns, also scored once on a 12-yard run up the middle and completed 12 of 13 passes for 202 yards.

Jim Brown churned out 99 yards on 20 carries and scored his 105th touchdown, tying the all-time NFL record held by Hall of Famer Don Hutson.

But the Giants, fighting back grimly in what undoubtedly was Y.A. Tittle's farewell performance, drove to a score. Tittle's seven-yard pass to Dick James put the Giants out front 7-3 after 4:10 of the second period.

That was all for the Giants. The next six times the Browns got the ball they scored an proceeded to roll it up in the final period with Jim Ninowski leading a second string backfield.

NEW YORK (AP) — Statistics of the Cleveland—New York NFL game:

	Browns	Giants
First downs	22	19
Rushing yardage	153	76
Passing yardage	254	263
Passes	16-19	22-37
Passes intercepted by	2	0
Punts	1-47	3-39
Fumbles lost	0	2
Yards penalized	54	25

Groza, the Browns' 40-year-old field goal artist, took over the league scoring lead at 115 points by adding 10 points on a field goal and seven conversions.

The Browns, who had been 10-point favorites, thus nailed down a title date with the Baltimore Colts at Cleveland, Dec. 27.

It also left the St. Louis Cardinals, watching the game on television in St. Louis, with no place to go but the Playoff Bowl in Miami Jan. 3. No matter what happens Sunday in the Cardinal-Philadelphia game, St. Louis will finish in second place.

The Cardinals' opponent in the game between division runners-up will be decided Sunday, with Green Bay, Minnesota and Detroit all in contention for second place in the West.

The Packers, 8-5, are at Los Angeles; the Vikings, 7-5-1, visit Chicago, and the Lions, 6-5-2, entertain San Francisco. Washington is at Baltimore and Pittsburgh at Dallas in the other finales.

Ryan's 12-yard run midway in the second period put the Browns out front to stay. He fumbled as he hit the goal line and a Giant recovered in the end zone. But referee Art McNally ruled a touchdown, drawing down a storm of boos from the 63,007 fans at Yankee Stadium.

That seemed to take all the starch out of the Giants, who lost their 10th game.

Although it rained all night and during early afternoon, the playing field was in good shape. In the final minutes, the fans engaged in their 1964 pasttime, chanting "Good bye, Allie" through the overhanging fog.

Ryan, who had thrown 20 TD passes in the first 13 games but ranked 10th among the league's quarterbacks, had one of his finest days. His pack of receivers, including Paul Warfield, Gary Collins and Ernie Green, beat the Giant defenders time and again by wide margins.

Ryan's first scoring pass was an 11-yard toss to Collins, following Bernie Parrish's interception of a Tittle pass. Another interception by Vince Costello gave the Browns another shot just before the half.

Ryan hit Warfield, the brilliant rookie from Ohio State, with a 47-yard gainer to the one. Then he connected with Ernie Green in the end zone.

Ryan's TD production in the third period included 25-yard passes to Green, a seven-yard toss to Warfield and an eight-yard pitch to Brown. Cleveland scored the first six times it got the ball after the Tittle TD pass.

Arkansas Given Probation Period

DALLAS (AP) — Arkansas, the Southwest Conference football champion, was handed an indefinite probation for recruiting violations Saturday as the conference moved to clean up charges brought last spring when Texas, Southern Methodist, Baylor and Texas Tech felt the lash.

The probation was without sanctions and Arkansas will be able to play in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 against Nebraska.

The conference also voted a limit of 50 athletic scholarships in football and set a limit of two years on the length of such scholarships. There had been a limit of 100 in football and 20 in basketball under a resolution passed several years ago.

Arkansas was thumped on the knuckles for two many campus visits by prospective athletes, too many visits to the homes of athletes, lavish entertainment and contacting athletes at a high school basketball game.

The probation will hang over Arkansas until it has revised its recruiting practices to meet the rules and can't be lifted until December, 1965.

Arkansas followed in the footsteps of Southern Methodist and Texas, who were handed probations at Lubbock last spring.

Southern Methodist was given a two-year term with sanctions while Texas, then the national football champion, was given an indefinite probation that can't be erased until May, 1965.

Baylor and Texas Tech drew reprimands only.

There were two Arkansas and one Texas schoolboy football player involved in the Arkansas penalty, which included a public reprimand.

It was revealed by conference President Dr. Chris Groneman of Texas A&M that the charges carried over at Lubbock, where it was explained that they had not been filed 20 days before the meeting and could not be considered, were both against Arkansas. It had been speculated that two schools were involved.

Athletic scholarships will have a maximum limit of two years, with renewal rights, and each school will be limited to 50 freshmen on athletic scholarships, both of these changes becoming effective Sept. 1, 1965.

The Big Eight has a one-year limit and also is considering a limit of 35 on the number. The Southeastern Conference already has adopted a 40-player limit and the Big Ten has 30. Dr. Groneman said it appeared to have become a national trend.

The purpose of the limit on length of scholarship is to be able to get rid of athletes who don't make the proper effort or don't have sufficient ability. At this time there is no limit and when a college sums up a boy it has to continue him on his scholarship through college even though he may not be participating.

The agreement with the Big Eight was not renewed but it was explained that both conferences would hold meetings at the NCAA convention in Chicago and at that time would make a decision on renewal.

The rule to limit scholarships was passed unanimously, Dr. Groneman said, and that showed that Texas, which was reportedly violently opposed to a limit—and might withdraw from the conference if a rule like that was passed—was not opposed to it after all.

BEHIND JERRY RHOME

Tulsa Captures Four Grid Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Tulsa University, led by the spectacular passing of quarterback Jerry Rhome, walked off with three major college football titles in 1964, capturing passing, total offense and scoring championships.

Final figures released by the NCAA statistical bureau Saturday showed that Syracuse won the rushing title, Auburn the total defense crown and Washington the rushing defense championship. Arkansas was stingiest in giving up points, and Kent State had the best pass defense.

Tulsa's three crowns are the most gained by one team since 1959 when Syracuse grabbed five titles. This year's haul enabled the Hurricanes to sweep past Oklahoma and Army for all-time offense-defense leaderships won.

Since such statistics began to be recorded 28 years ago, Tulsa has been the passing champion five times, total offense leaders four times, top scoring outfit twice and leader in rushing offense and scoring defense once each. That's a total of 13 departmental ribbons. Oklahoma is second with 12 and Army third with 11.

This also marks the third straight year that Tulsa won the passing championship. This year's Rhome-led aerial circus completed 244 of 377 passes, producing 3,179 yards and 34 touchdowns.

These are all-time college season records along with the Hurricane's 384 points. Their 4,618 total offensive yards are the most since Tulsa piled up 4,817 in 1956.

Bailey, Poteet Sign Aid Pacts With Bengals

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State signed one of the state's outstanding football players—Glenn Smith of New Orleans' Holy Cross—as recruiting of high school gridsters got underway throughout the Southeastern Conference.

Smith, a 5-foot-11, 185-pound fullback, led Holy Cross to an undefeated season and the state triple-A title as a junior. He returned this season to spark his rebuilding squad to a playoff spot.

Smith had been courted by Tulane as well as other major colleges, including Notre Dame.

"We are real pleased with our recruiting results today," he said.

"We think all of these boys have the potential to become top-flight SEC players."

Tulane, meanwhile, also signed eight players. Six signed at a luncheon on the Tulane campus given by head football coach Tommy O'Boyle.

With eight teams still involved in prep playoff action some of the players declined to sign immediately.

More than eight high schoolers were known to have signed with LSU but McClendon apparently decided to await results of their college board tests before announcing their names.

Under SEC rules all potential football players must take the American College Tests before being granted a scholarship. In some states, the act tests are routinely given in all high schools, but Louisiana does not belong to that program.

LSU grants in aid announced by McClendon included:

Smith; Milton Poteet, 6-2, 205, back, Vidalia; Barton Frye, 5-11, 175, back, University, Baton Rouge; John Bailey, 5-11, back, Bastrop; Carlos Rabb, 5-11, 231, lineman, Ferriday; Billy Schaidnagle, 6-4, 220, lineman, Natchez, Miss.; Tommy Youngblood, 6-3, 195, lineman, Fair Park, Shreveport; Johnny Domingue, 6-1, 225, lineman, Redemptorist, Baton Rourge.

Tulane signees included:

Frank McCoy, 6-2, 215, lineman, Jesuit, New Orleans; Jimmy Trahan, 5-11, 175, back, Terrebonne, Houma; Dwight Howell, 6-2, 200, lineman, Terrebonne; Warren Bankston, 6-4, 220, back, Hammond; John Anderson, 5-11, 190, back, Homer; Terry Theriault, 6-3, 190, back, Catholic, Memphis, Tenn.; Nick Pizzalotta, 6-0, 190, back, Jennings; Ernie Parker, 6-1, 210, back, Hackberry.

Arkansas Didn't Break Rules By Intent-Broyles

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas football Coach Frank Broyles said Saturday that "we have not knowingly violated any of the many rules, technical or otherwise, governing recruiting."

The statement came after the Southwest Conference put the league champion Razorbacks, second-ranked in the nation, on probation.

Broyles' statement said:

"I can assure everyone that our every intention is to comply with the rules. This has been our intention in the past, and it will be in the future.

"The specific items in the action taken today are not available to me now. I can only guess. They will become available to me in my meeting next week with our faculty representative. Even then, however, the particulars will not be released or commented on. We are prohibited by instructions from the conference from doing so."

University of Arkansas President David W. Mullins said:

"We regret that the Southwest Conference found it necessary to take this action. However, the university accepts the findings and assures supporters that all necessary measures will be taken to comply with conference regulations."

Richwood Nets Third Straight State AA Title

Richwood High School won its thrid consecutive State Class AA football championship by defeating T. A. Levy, 12-0, on a rain - soaked field at Rosedale Friday night.

The Rams scored in the first and fourth periods with Simon Profit going in from eight yards out for the initial score and William Henderson scoring from the four yard line for the second.

Levy threatened to tally in the first period, driving to the Richwood 25 before being held. The second period was a defensive standoff with the Rams giving up 26 yards and the Tigers yielding 92.

The Tigers came back strong again in the third period, taking the ball down to Richwood's nine. After holding here, the Rams took over and pushed down to the Tiger 12 yard line only to be stopped with 35 yards in penalties.

NOTRE DAME FUTURE

Parseghian Looking To 1965 Grid Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — What will football Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame do for an encore next season without an experienced quarterback in sight?

Parseghian's thunderous Fighting Irish debut was accompanied by the offensive lightning flashed by the aerial wizardy of quarterback John Huarte and end Jack Snow. They broke Irish records like they were clay pipes.

Huarte, Snow and nine other senior stalwarts—five of them offensive specialists — graduate from the Irish club which rocketed to a near national title from the ashes of a 2-7 record in 1963.

From this year's freshman quarterback crop, Parseghian apparently must try to capture football lightning in a bottle as he did in the person of Huarte, a two-season bench rider.

Parseghian, eight season Big Ten coach at Northwestern, neither looked back nor ahead as the Notre Dame football miracle grew Saturday by Saturday until the bell of defeat tolled abruptly in the finale with Southern California.

The only respite the magical Huarte got in 10 games at quarterback came in brief stints by another senior, Alex Bonvechio.

So Parseghian must start from scratch next spring in a search for a quarterback he wants to have daring, a strong and accurate arm and good speed. And what coach doesn't?

"This year, we were forced to go entirely with a senior, Huarte," Parseghian commented. "I always preferred to pick a quarterback for long time range. Now, I'm hoping our new quarterback will come from the freshman ranks. Obviously, this position will be our biggest concern for 1965."

The Irish had four listed quarterbacks this season, but mainly they were defensive reserves. They included soph Tom O'Malley, Dan McGuinn and Bill Zloch, both juniors, and Huarte.

Huarte's replacement seems destined to come from a current freshman trio including Bill O'Brien of Virginia Beach, Ga.; Tom Schoen of Cleveland and Dan Koenings of Racine, Wis

Parseghian disdains discussing prospects of an individual candidate, but did offer these evaluations of the threesome:

"Koenings has a strong, accurate arm. Schoen is a scrambler, strong and fast. O'Brien has a good arm but must develop quickness.

In the offensive line, Snow, tackle Jim Snowden, guard John Atamian and center Norm Nicola must be replaced. But the ball- carrying department, beyond Huarte, loses only the fullback pair of Joe Farrell and Joe Kantor.

Nick Eddy, leading Irish ground gainer, and Bill Wolski return, as fine a halfback pair as the nation may produce next season. Bob Merkle is back, seasoned both at halfback and fullback.

Snow's successor at split end may be Captain-elect Phil Sheridan, a slick tight end this season.

Although superb linebacker Jim Carroll graduates, the Irish will bristle on defense again next season. Other bulwarks who helped muscle Notre Dame second nationally against rushing will return.

They include 262-pound Kevin Hardy, 245-pound Tom Regner and 235-pound Alan Page, all up-front sophomore monsters this year. Also back will be defensive tackle-linebacker John Meyer; defensive star backs Tony Carey, Tom Longo and Nick Rassas and several solid players benched by injury this season.

Schultz Leads State College To Pecan Bowl Win

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Little All-America Randy Schultz paced State College of Iowa to a 19-17 victory over Lamar Tech in the first Pecan Bowl football game Saturday.

Schultz ran for 160 yards and scored two touchdowns in guiding the Iowans to the NCAA Midwest Regional championship.

Yards penalized	29	75

The Iowans then drove 76 yards for a go-ahead tally. The climax came on a 30-yard aerial from Rick Oliphant to Del Hammond. Sid Sickles kicked the extra point.

Following a pass interception late in the second period, State College of Iowa drove 43 yards, with Schultz going over from the three.

Lamar Tech got back into the scoring on the first play of the second half when Phillip Primm and Frazer dealy teamed up for an 80-yard touchdown pass. Allman's kick made it 13-10.

Rebels Capture Neville's First Cross Country

West Monroe's cross country runners captured the first Neville Invitational Cross Country Meet here Saturday afternoon over a 1.9 mile course in Forsythe Park.

The Rebel runners came home with 49 points in the 25 places given to take the team trophy. Plans are being made to make the affair an annual event.

Minden finished second in team standings with 56 points, Bolton of Alexandria third with 75, Ruston fourth with 78 and host Neville fifth with 79.

Bolton's David Courvillion took the individual honor by crossing the finish line in 9:32. Bill Langly of Minden and Larry Beebe of West Monroe finished in that order behind Courvillion with only one second separating all three finishers.

Gold medals were given the first five finishers, silver medals the second five and bronze medals the third five to finish.

SENIOR BOWL GAME

South's 27-Man Squad Selected

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Six All-America selections and the first two Negro players ever invited were named Saturday to a 27-man south squad for the 16th annual Senior Bowl game Jan. 9.

The roster is loaded with future pro players. Twenty-five of the 27 selected have been drafted by National and American Football League teams and at least nine have signed so far.

Senior Bowl sponsors said the North squad will be named in a few days.

Olympic great Bob Hayes, the Florida A&M back billed as the world's fastest human, and his teammate, back Bob Felts, are the first Negroes invited to the all-star game.

First-team All-Americas on the squad are ends Fred Biletnikoff of Florida State and Allen Brown of Mississippi; tackles Dan Kearley of national champion Alabama and Jim Wilson of Georgia; guard Steve DeLong of Tennessee; and halfback Tucker Frederickson of Auburn.

Alabama will have four representatives, quarterback Joe Namath, back Ray Ogden, tackle Frank McLendon and Kearley.

Florida State's 6-5 Steve Tensi will join Namath and Schweikert in the quarterbacking corps.

Namath, Frederickson, DeLong and 275-pound tackle Harry Schuh of Memphis State were first-round draft choices in the pro drafts.

Schuh has signed with the Oakland Raiders of the AFL and DeLong with the San Diego Chargers, also of the AFL. Frederickson signed with the NFL's New York Giants.

Namath will decide between the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Jets after Alabama's meeting with Texas in the Orange Bowl. Both picked him in the first round.

Other squadsmen whose signings have been announced are linebackers Dave Simmons and Bill Curry of Georgia Tech; backs Jimmy Sidle and Mickey Sutton of Auburn; and Hayes and Felts of Florida A&M.

Curry signed with Green Bay; Simmons with St. Louis, Sidle and Hayes with the Dallas Cowboys, Sutton with the Kansas City Chiefs and Felts with the Baltimore Colts.

Fourteen of the squadsmen are from the Southeastern Conference, three from the Southern Conference, two each from the Southwest Conference and the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and six from independent clubs.

The South won a thriller over the North 28-21 last January and leads the series 10-5.

The South squad:

Ends — Allen Brown, Mississippi, 6-4, 230; Fred Brown, Miami, Fla., 6-5, 230; Fred Biletnikoff, Florida State, 6-1, 187; and John Hilton, Richmond, 6-5, 225.

Tackles — Dan Kearley, Alabama, 6-2, 231; Frank McLendon, Alabama, 6-3, 232; Dennis Murphy, Florida, 6-2, 252; and Harry Schuh, Memphis State, 6-4, 275.

Guards — Justin Canale, Mississippi State, 6-3, 240; Steve DeLong, Tennessee, 6-3, 243; Remi Prudhomme, Louisiana State, 6-3, 245; and Jim Wilson, Georgia, 6-3, 245.

Centers and linebackers — Bill Curry, Georgia Tech, 6-2, 234; Dave Simmons, Georgia Tech, 6-1, 186; and Russell Wayt, Rice, 6-4, 224.

Quarterbacks — Joe Namath, Alabama, 6-2, 194; Bob Schweikert, Virginia Tech, 6-1, 196; Steve Tensi, Florida State, 6-5, 215.

Halfbacks — Jim Fauver, Texas Christian, 5-10, 190; Bob Felts, Florida A&M, 6-1, 205; Tucker Frederickson, Auburn, 6-2, 215; Bob Hayes, Florida A&M, 6-0, 192; Ray Ogden, Alabama, 6-4, 220; Jimmy Sidle, Auburn, 6-3, 210; Mickey Sutton, Auburn, 6-1, 190.

Montana State Thumps Hornets In Camellia Tilt

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The Montana State College Bobcats mixed quarterback Foy McClung's passing with a powerful running game Saturday for a 28-7 Camellia Bowl football victory over the Sacramento State Hornets.

The Bobcats, Big Sky Conference champions, came out of the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoff game at Hughes Stadium in Sacramento as the top football team in the 10 Western states in the NCAA college division.

A total of 9,097 watched as McClung, named outstanding back of the game by newsmen, passed 16 yards to Jim Tuss for one touchdown and ran for another.

Tensas River Under Study

With Sam Hanna

Levee Board Decision

Three major interests are involved in the proposed Tensas River drainage project being considered by the U.S. Corps of Engineers in the Delta of Northeast Louisiana.

They are agriculture, timber and wildlife.

If the Fifth District Levee Board decides to request the Army engineers to proceed with the project, the Tensas River will be cleared and dredged like Boeuf River, Bayou Macon and Big Creek.

According to representatives of the Army engineers at a hearing Tuesday at St. Joseph, bends in the river would be eliminated to enlarge the river channel to move water out of the Tensas faster.

This would eliminate 41 miles in the length of the Tensas, which starts at Lake Providence and runs through Madison, Tensas and along the borders of Franklin and Concordia before it empties into the Ouachita River in Catahoula Parish.

The Army engineers also have planned the construction of weirs in the river to maintain the water level as well as the construction of lakes at the cut-off bends Undergrowth in the river would be removed and so would timber in some acres of the Tensas—all designed to speed up the flow of water that comes down the Tensas.

This, basically, is the plan.

It is designed to improve drainage in the Delta. Army engineers testifying at St. Joseph explained that out of 766,000 acres in the Tensas basin some 240,000 acres have been flooded since 1943.

Of course, the principal purpose of the project would be to improve agriculture conditions. In East Carroll Parish, where the Police Jury has gone on record for it, the project would help drain 141,590 acres, according to information obtained from C. A. Rhodes, the county agent.

He advised us that because of poor outlets in the Tensas, drainage is slow in East Carroll. This has resulted, he said, in crop losses.

Because the project proposes to improve agriculture, it has support in East Carroll.

Agriculture, however, is the basic industry in Madison and Tensas, but the police juries of those parishes are against it. Tensas public officials, involved in agricultural enterprises of their own, testified that they have never know of a crop loss due to flooding conditions in Tensas.

Not the first farmer stepped forth at the St. Joseph hearing to favor the project. In fact, numerous persons connected with agriculture, contending that the Tensas does not overflow as often as the Army engineers contend, testified against it.

So did representatives of Chicago Mill & Lumber Co., which owns about 150,000 acres along the Tensas. They spoke against it on grounds that it would lower the Delta's water table and thus cripple the growth of timber and the future of a company that employs about 400 persons at Tallulah, plus an additional 100 persons working for contractors connected with the timber industry.

Chicago Mill representatives also testified against the project, because it would involve the clearing of over 3,000 acres, including about 1,000 acres owned by the company.

According to the company's spokesmen, Chicago Mill fears the project would jeopardize its plan to construct a new pulpwood plant near Tallulah at a cost of between $20 million and $30 million. The plant site already has been purchased.

Army engineers, however, disagree that the project would harm the timber industry. But Chicago Mill says it will and so did a forester employed by the Louisiana Forestry Commission testifying at the hearing.

And because the project is feared to be harmful to the Delta's timber stand, the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission is opposed to it on grounds that it would destroy eventually the biggest game management area in Louisiana, the 115,00-acre Chicago Mill Game Management Area.

The commission knows that if Chicago Mill losses, the sportsmen will lose. The commission also contends that the drainage would hurt wildlife by hurting timber. They go hand-in-hand.

Army engineers, however, disagree that their project would harm wildlife. The described one of their cut-off lakes on Bayou Macon near Winnsboro as a "beautiful lake." Actually, it's a mudholde. They referred to Lafourche Swamp where they said the construction of the drainage canal had "improved hunting." Actually, the Lafourche Canal retarded the wildlife resources of Lafourche Swamp, once a duck hunter's paradise but not anymore.

Wildlife, of course, takes a back-seat where agriculture and timber are concerned, but the importance of the outdoors should not be under-emphasized since more people in a growing population are turning to the outdoors for recreation. What our people will be doing in the future with their leisure time will be as important as what they will be doing on the job.

Chicago Mill owns the last frontier between the Ouachita River and the Mississippi River. Through it flows the Tensas River.

The East Carroll point of view in the Tensas project is clear. It is understandable and sensible that the parish would want to improve its basic industry.

But the points of view in Madison and Tensas also are valid and reasonable since the Tensas River, they believe, is worth more to them today than it would be dredged and cleared.

The Army engineers will not proceed with the project, estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $10 million, unless they have a sponsor, which in this case would be the Fifth District Levee Board.

Having talked to members of the levee board, we know they want to do the right thing. They're in a tough spot. But we think they'll do what the majority of people want them to do.

In this case, two police juries are asking the board not to go forward while one police jury is asking the board to proceed. The two police juries of Madison and Tensas represent more people than the Police Jury of East Carroll represents.

More of the Tensas flows through Madison and Tensas than in any other parish. Most of the drainage work would be done in Madison and Tensas where the people obviously do not want their government contradicting local desires.

But this is not just a Delta project. It's one that affects all the people.

The Army engineers say that back in 1943 when the project was first aired at a Monroe meeting "all state agencies" endorsed it. That was over 20 years ago before the government's drainage program got underway in the Fifth District.

This is 1964 and in that 20-year period the people have seen what the Army engineers can do with streams like Boeuf River, Bayou Macon and Big Creek. They were once good streams, but after being dredged and cleared—like the Tensas would be dredged and cleared — they have become muddy ditches.

As one Tensas juror so well stated the case, "A self-respecting gar wouldn't swim up Bayou Macon."

The attitude of the people toward drainage has changed since 1943. They've seen that progress also means the preservation of a river like the Tensas that has meant so much to so many people for so many years.

FEMALE HUNTERS are becoming plentiful, but this one is no newcomer to the scene. She is Miss Geraldine Vines, a school teacher at Holly Ridge High School, with a 12-point buck she killed on opening day in Franklin Parish between Bayou Macon and the Tensas River. She brought him down with one shot from her 30-06 rifle at 80 yards. Miss Vines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ebb Vines of Winnsboro, has killed deer before. (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Little Man's Corner

The little men were shooting ducks and bucks and making news afield.

But with the happy stories go the sad stories, like the one involving a 15-year-old Sterlington youth, Carl Addison Jr. Carl accompanied his dad to a deer camp in Union Parish and while big Carl was cooking a mulligan young Carl went out and shot his first buck a spike.

It wasn't far to a road, so Carl pulled the deer out of the woods to wait for his hunting partners. While waiting, a man came along in a car and stopped to admire the kid and his first buck.

As they stood talking, a pack of hounds began running in the woods nearby and the stranger told the boy to cut off the dogs and he's probably get another shot.

Boy-like young Carl dashed off into the woods and by now you know what happened. The stranger stole his deer. Loaded the buck in his car and sped away.

Wherever he is, he has to be a wretched man to deprive a kid of a prize.

Speaking of hunters getting their first bucks, after all these years Lloyd Voorhiees finally got him, a spike in South Louisiana. He and John Hunt of Monroe also got in some good duck shooting.

Duck hunting has been slow on Wham Brake and Black Bayou, but the brothers Cagle have had luck. Kenny calls them and Ira shoots them.

Hunting in Union Parish, Bernard Head of Monroe dropped a 6-pointer, but the biggest deer around here reported lately was shot by Guy Luno of Monroe. He was hunting in Lafourche Swamp near Russell Sage and was leaving the woods when a big 11-point came splashing down a stream. Guy dropped him and the buck field dressed at 200 pounds.

We saw a big buck the other night grazing along the edge of Lafourche. He had a great rack and we hope he keeps it.

Davis Island, as usual, has produced its share of the deer kills. Murphy Blackwell of West Monroe finally got his first one and we understand the judge, Jesse Heard, bagged two.

And the deer hunting has been good in the Concordia area. G. C. Templeton of Ferriday got a 6-pointer and so did Edgar Gibson of Ferriday.

Four Ferriday high school students got their bucks. Johnny Fudickar Jr., in fact, has killed two— a 9-pointer in Concordia and a 7-pointer on Davis Island.

Monroe's answer to deer hunting, Buddy Newman, says he's killed six—four in Texas and two in Louisiana.

Down Winnsboro way, Steve Thompson, who now has a new boat paddler, a 10-pound son, had a good quail hunt. He killed eight. Raymond McDuff of Bastrop is killing birds too.

CONTRACT DIFFERENCES

Wayne Hardin's Navy Status Undetermined After Session

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Wayne Hardin's status as head football coach at Navy remained undetermined Saturday after a 50-minute meeting between the 37-year-old coach and Naval Academy authorities.

Hardin agreed with statements by athletic officials that he has not been fired and has not resigned, and that his current five-year contract is still a matter for renegotiation.

But it was obvious at a news conference that differences over contract do exist.

Capt. William S. Busik, director of athletics, and Hardin expressed hope that these can be resolved.

"Wayne and I have never been too far apart," Busik said. "Both of us want to do a little horse trading. We'll talk it out."

"I entered into a very nice contract last year, and I hope it can be continued," said Hardin, who left most of the talking to Busik.

Neither Hardin nor Busik discussed what their differences were, but it was understood they involve Hardin's continued tenure in a collateral job in which he would eventually succeed Edgar E. (Rip) Miller as assistant director of athletics and civilian head of Navy's athletic recruiting program.

Hardin became assistant to Miller in the contract negotiated last year after Navy finished No. 2 nationally with a 9-1 record and played No. 1 ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl. Navy authorities were said to have decided since that his administrative abilities were unsatisfactory.

Salary is not believed to be an issue. Hardin reportedly makes around $18,000 a year. He has been head coach at Navy for six years and has just gone through his first losing season and his first loss to Army. His job was not regarded as being in jeopardy because of the 3-6-1 season, due at least in part to injuries to key personnel.

The coach is known to have told close friends and associates he had been notified he would not be back at Navy next year. Although his contract is for five years, it is subject to renegotiation each fall.

Reliable sources said Harden was told he would be succeeded by Doug Scovil, coach of Navy quarterbacks and former head coach at San Mateo, Calif. College.

Caldwell Takes Pines Tourney Championship

OLLA (Special) — Caldwell defeated Georgetown, 51-45, to take the honors in the Tournament of the Pines, sponsored by LaSalle High School here Saturday night.

Boone McCarty led the Caldwell attack in the winners game with 18 points while George Barrett and Danny Corley got 13 each for Georgetown. Caldwell ended with a 30 mark.

LaSalle beat Jena, 52-46 to take second place with Jena ending in third with a 1-2 slate. LaSalle had a 2-1 mark. Damon Bradford had 15 for LaSalle with Don Wilson getting 18 for the losers.

Jena's Sandra Aldrich had 30 points in the championship game with Docia Dalby getting 29 for Winnsboro.

In consolation game, Tioga defeated Caldwell's sextet, 59-52. Jane Henderson had 38 for Tioga, Celia Nelson 30 for Caldwell.

All tournament selections were: girls: Docia Dalby, Winnfield; Cecila Nelson, Caldwell; and Sandy Aldrich, Jena; forwards and Glenda Kendricks, Jena; Alice Coon, Winnfield; and Susan Hinton, Tioga; guards.

OPHS Booster Club Schedules Final Meeting

The final regular meeting of the year of the Ouachita Parish High School Booster Club will be held Monday at the school cafeteria.

Lions basketball Coach L. J. Fontenot will be guest speaker for the meeting which will begin at 7:30 p.m. and include the election of officers for the coming year.

Downsville Girls, Marion Boys Get Tourney Crowns

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Betty Williams of Downsville and Bennett Taylor of Marion each scored 22 points here Saturday night to lead their teams to championship victories in the annual Union Parish Basketball Tournament.

Marion stopped Farmerville, 73-56 for the boys title and Downsville passed Bernice, 59-47 for the girls crown.

All-tournament team member Diane Graves of Bernice had 25 points in the title game and Johnny Long and Billy Anderson each dropped in 18 points for the Farmerville five.

Farmerville stopped Spearsville, 72-58 and Marion topped Junction City, 84-72 in boys semifinal action Saturday night.

Boys on the all - tournament team are Mike Rhodes of Spearsville, J. W. Langston, Junction City, Long, Farmerville, Taylor, Marion, and Bobby Reagan, Marion.

Kilbourne Girls, Forest Boys Get Championships

FOREST (Special) — Forest defeated Epps' boys, 87-63, and Kilbourne topped the Forest sextet, 48-43, to win division titles in the Forest Invitation basketball tournament here Saturday night.

Tony Kelly got 25 for Forest and Larry Simms had 24 for Epps in the boys championship game.

Diane Edwards fired in 30 to lead Kilbourne's girls and Molly May had 16 for Forest.

The girls all-tournament team included Edwards and Joyce of Kilbourne, Clark of Mer Rouge, McCart and Van Meter from Forest and Hollingsworth of Oak Grove.

Forest had two members on the boys team — Butler and Dehnam — with Graham of Lake Providence, Simms from Epps and Bain of Pioneer completing the club.

FOR CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Buffalo Hopes For Cushion Against Denver Broncs Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Buffalo Bills play the Denver Broncos today and hope to get a little extra cushion for their Dec. 20 game with Boston that will decide the Eastern Division champion in the American Football League.

The game, headlining the AFL's three-game program, will have only an oblique bearing on the divisional title. It cannot affect the decisive game itself.

By winning the gane at Denver, the Bills can assure themselves of the Eastern championship even should they be held to a tie by Boston. The Bills lead the race with a 10-2-0 record. Boston is 10-2-1.

The Bills can lose to Denver and still win the divisional crown by beating the Patriots at Boston.

The San Diego Chargers, 8-3-1, with the Western Division crown already clinched, can afford to take it easy against the Kansas City Chiefs at San Diego. The other game pits the New York Jets, 5-6-1, and the Houston Oilers, 2-10-0, at Houston.

Oakland and Boston are idle.

The Bills, who beat the Broncos 30-13 in their last game, expect a fired-up performance by Denver under Coach Mac Speedie. Buffalo will start J a c k Kemp at quarterback and shift to Daryle Lamonica as the game progresses.

At San Diego, the Chargers will honor their retiring quarterback, Tobin Rote, who will be completing his professional career after 15 seasons.

Coach Sid Gillman has indicated he will divide duties between Rote and the younger John Hadl in an effort to match the strong offense posed by the Chiefs' passing leader, Len Dawson.

The Chiefs have announced that star runners Abner Haynes and Mack Hill will play despite minor injuries.

At Houston, Coach Sammy Baugh is expected to take a long look at rookie quarterback Don Trull, who has been spelling the veteran George Blanda. The Jets will counter with fullback Matt Snell, competing for the season's rushing honors, and first-year signal callers Mike Taliaferro and Pete Liske.

Mickey Mantle Not Ready For His Retirement

KILGORE, Tex. (AP) — Mickey Mantle to retire? Not yet, says the 33-year-old New York Yankee slugger, who has been plagued by injuries.

"I want to play three more years at least, maybe five," Mantle said in an appearance here Saturday at the opening of an automobile agency by a friend, Julian Murphy.

"This is the first winter in three or four years that I have had no operation on my knees," he said.

He has been suffering for several years from osteomyelitis, an inflammation of the bone marrow.

Mantle also said he thought Johnny Keane, New York Yankee manager, "will be a great manager" and predicted the Yankees will repeat as American League champions.

Beach City In 28-6 Win From Cameron Squad

The junior college rivals, playing before 45,576 in the Rose Bowl, went into the contest with perfect nine-game records.

Long Beach was leading 14-6 in the third quarter when Motley broke loose and the gap was widened to 21-6.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Statistics of the Cameron Aggies-Long Beach City College Junior Rose Bowl game:

	CAMERON	LB
First downs	14	18
Rushing yardage	318	183
Passing yardage	22	101
Passes	1-13	9-16
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	3-33	4-37
Fumbles	2	2
Yards penalized	140	30

Long Beach, now winner of its three Rose Bowl appearances, traveled 86 yards in the first quarter for its first touchdown, with Motley and Elwood Stewart gaining most yards in the ground invasion. Stewart scored from the two.

Midway in the third period Cameron crossed the 50-yard mark for the first time and finally scored after a series of fumbles. The Aggies' 90-yard parade ended on the three when Fred Cheek fumbled and Long Beach recovered. But Motley fumbled trying to get out of the end zone and Bill Hayes of Cameron recovered in the end zone.

The try for two points missed.

The last quarter was filled with bobbles and pass interceptions, as Cameron went to the air.

A throw by quarterback Tom Croft of Cameron was intercepted by Mike Westphal and two plays later Long Beach got its final touchdown on a 32-yard pass from Greg Barton to Ron Drake.

Drake In Easy 91-75 Cage Win

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Drake jumped to an early lead and, aided by some cold shooting on the part of Michigan State, went on to score a 91-75 basketball victory Saturday.

Drake, which held a 40-30 lead at halftime, allowed the Spartans to get no closer than seven points in the second half.

Michigan State hit on only nine of 32 shots for the field in the first half. But MSU clicked on 23 of 26 free throws to keep fairly close until midway in the second half.

FIRST IN HISTORY

Liberty Bowl Tilt To Be Under Roof

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The sun won't be shining on the Utah and West Virginia football teams during next Saturday's Liberty Bowl game, but it won't be raining or snowing either.

After five frigid years in Philadelphia, featured by top-grade football but hardly anyone in the stands to see it, the Liberty Bowl has shifted its scene of operations to Atlantic City's mammoth Convention Hall, making it the first indoor major bowl game in history.

Until Houston's domed stadium is completed, Convention Hall remains the only place in the world where football can be played indoors on a full-sized gridiron, composed of nearly 11,000 square yards of lush green sod.

Although the hall can hold more than 40,000 people for a convention, seating capacity for football is 12,000.

In Utah and West Virginia, the bowl committee has come up with two teams that came along fast in the latter half of the season. The Utes, co-champions of the Western Athletic Conference, won their last six games for an 8-2 record. West Virginia's Southern Conference champs finished at 7-3 and won their last four games, climaxed by a 28-27 upset of Sugar Bowl-bound Syracuse.

The Utes are big, fast and deep with an all-senior backfield that averaged 188.7 yards a game on the ground and a passing attack that accounted for 110.3 more.

More impressive, however, was the defense, which yielded only 62 points. The average of 6.2 points a game was third best in the country.

Key man in the backfield is fullback Allen Jacobs, who carried 163 times for 695 yards, both Utah records. Quarterback Richie Groth runs Coach Ray Nagel's split-T offense and has a handy target in split end Roy Jefferson, a second-round draft choice of both pro leagues.

West Virginia, on the other hand, is a team that has been outrushed and outscored by its opponents but flourished behind the record-setting passing of quarterback Allen McCune.

The 6-foot-2 junior, a straight drop-back passer who rarely runs with the ball, completed 60 of 99 attempts for 911 yards. He threw for 10 and sneaked over for two of West Virginia's 18 touchdowns.

McCune started the season as a safetyman but was switched to quarterback in the fifth game and led the Mountaineers to victories over Virginia Tech, Kentucky, George Washington, William & Mary and Syracuse.

Milt Clegg, the tight end, is the chief receiver with 24 for 345 yards and three touchdowns. He snared eight passes against Syracuse, a one-game record. Fullback Dick Leftridge, with 114 carries for 461 yards, is the big ground-gainer in Coach Gen Corum's wing-T attack.

Kickoff for the Liberty Bowl is 12:30 p.m. EST. The game will be televised nationally (ABC) as part of a doubleheader, to be followed by the Bluebonnet Bowl from Houston, Tex.

The World For WOMEN

It's Beginning To Look A Lot Like Christmas!

At left: Candles made by Mrs. J. W. Golson, 1309 N. Second, West Monroe, will find their way into homes throughout the Twin Cities to brighten the holiday season for many. Mrs. Golson is pictured with only a few of the many decorative candles she has made to be delivered to friends and residents in local homes for the aged during the holidays. Another seasonal hobby pursued by Mrs. Golson, an accredited flower show judge, is the creation of gay Christmas corsages. These include novel creations of cellophane-wrapped hard candies for young visitors to her home during the holidays.

At right: Magnolia boughs instead of holly are used by Mrs. John Hines in her arrangement to "deck the hall" of the YWCA on Jackson Street. Also a member of the Invitare flower arranging club at the Y, Mrs. Hines has used glossy green magnolia foliage as a background for her arrangement to offset the Christmas balls in various shades of pink, a popular color now used in holiday appointments.

ELIZABETH KATHLEEN NORRIS

Kathleen Norris Engaged To Robert Lewis Wroten

Dr. and Mrs. William Norris Jr., 701 Norris Lane, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kathleen Norris to Robert Lewis Wroten. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Wroten, 206 Egan.

The wedding is calendared for January 23 at 7 p.m. in Claiborne Methodist Church. Officiating will be Rev. Joe H. Robinson, pastor of Gordon Avenue Methodist Church.

Miss Ellen Norris has been chosen by her sister to serve as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Linda Bradley, Miss Donna Parker and Miss Sarah Johnston.

Serving as best man will be Jim Wroten and named as groomsmen are John Varner Jr., Robert Smith and William Norris III. Ushers will be Douglas Stedman and Frank Shaughnessy.

Miss Norris is the granddaughter of Mrs. Emma Beeson, West Monroe and the late Mr. and Mrs. William Norris Sr., of Monroe. She is at present a junior at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Grandparents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Griffin and Mrs. Alice Wroten, all of Monroe. He is also a junior student at Northeast.

Sew Gay Gifts For Christmas

An inexpensive way to add gay Christmas touches to the home is with yards of red or green machine-washable fabric printed with pine cones, big red bows, and other special holiday designs.

This sturdy piece goods can be used to make Christmas-time place mats, table runners, tree skirts, kitchen towels, aprons, cafe curtains, pinafores, and bibs — for home use or for valsed handmade gifts.

GAY EXTERIOR

If a lamp post lights the way to your front door, decorate it with greens and cones. And, don't overlook the mailbox. Dress it up with greens or hollies, suggests the Society of American Florists.

Wider Skirts Due For Spring

The one point of fashion agreement for spring — and the big news — is wider skirts. From Dior in Paris to Norell and others in New York, the trend is to lots more skirt.

It started a couple of years ago when pleats came back with a snap. Pleats are still very much in, with every designer seeking new ways of using them. But notable also in the spring collections are gathered skirts, bias-cut skirts and flared hemline skirts.

None of the wider skirts have that bunchy look. They stay smooth over the hip, then break out into new soft fullness. The elongated figure look is still there, but it's far prettier with that swingy skirt below. The silhouette also disguises hippiness better, since it doesn't cut in like straight skirts.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Sheila Kay Watson to Michael Stephen Walker, with the Air Force at Moody Air Force Base, Valdosta, Ga., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill W. Watson of West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Walker of Columbia. A December 30 wedding is planned in Ridge Avenue Baptist Church at 1 p.m. with Rev. H. L. Sampson officiating.

Festive Christmas Tea Given By Mrs. Roddey

Traditional red and green of Christmas were used in seasonal appointments throughout the home of Mrs. O. C. Roddey, 1705 N. Sixth Thursday afternoon, December 10, when she entertained at a festive Christmas tea. Approximately 180 guests called during the appointed hours of 3 until 5 p.m.

Twin red plush bells, sparkled with glitter and tied with a huge red bow and evergreen boughs, decorated the front door where Mrs. Lon S. Heuer, daughter of the hostess received the guests.

Focal point for the tea table in the dining room featured an arrangement of sprayed pine with red carnations in a silver bowl, flanked by white candles in silver candleholders. On the buffet two large bronze candleholders provided the base for a matching bowl filled with red cloves apples and clipped pine.

White and gold Christmas candles based with red and green berries were used in the den, where above the entrance were two white bells and sprigs of mistletoe.

Pouring at the tea table were Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. Fred Meyer, Mrs. Lee Hodges and Mrs. Shelby S. Meek. Others assisting with the courtesies during the afternoon were Mrs. Sam Wilder, Mrs. Ted Landhy, Mrs. E. B. Johnson and Mrs. Charles Hargon.

Women Abandon All-Purpose Shoe

Gone are the days of the all-purpose shoe for women. The "little black" shoe to go everywhere is quickly becoming extinct.

Now, the well-shod woman wears different shoes for various occasions, according to fashion consultants.

Dressy sandals for evening, stacked heels for day-time street wear, and low heels for sporting events are taking the place of the plain pump silhouette.

EXTENDING HOLIDAY courtesies in their new home at 104 Fern Street, West Monroe, are Mr. and Mrs. Alton Howard and family, who will entertain today at open house. Their many friends calling between the hours of 1:30 and 5 p.m. this afternoon will be afforded the opportunity of touring the new home. Decorations throughout the home will be in a Christmas theme with gold and white predominating. The Howard children pictured with their parents are from left to right, Mary Alane, Janice and John.

Calot Hat Replaces Pillbox Rage

At last a hat has come along to replace the pillbox, which up to this season has remained the one hat that could go anywhere to any occasion.

The calot isn't any newer than the pillbox, but at least it hasn't been seen for so long that it seems new again. For those too young to remember it, the calot is a small head-snugger with a side dip, side drape or some kind of side decoration. Like the pillbox, it can be made of any material, can be a day or dress-up hat. And like the pillbox it is undoubtedly a youthful hat, one that even teenagers have taken to with enthusiasm.

Calots for winter will be like little helmets, in white fur with a chin-strap in shiny black patent. They appear in satin of every hue to match satin dinner dresses or to contrast with knit or velvet evening dresses.

Some calots end in sweeps of ostrich feathers at the side, while others are made entirely of flat feathers with a burnished feather cockade at the side. Feathers are a leading fashion in dinner and evening hats this year.

Who should not wear the calot? Chiefly women with large features. These little hats fit too snugly around the face for strongly marked features. However, they have no age limitations, since they come in so many versions that calots can be found in suitable fabrics and trims for every age.

CHRISTMAS CART

For an eye-catching coffee table arrangement for the holiday season, decorate a miniature wooden cart with tiny orange roses and small Christmas balls, using small leaf greens as filler. Then insert two pixies, one in the front and the other in the rear of the cart, where the arrangement should be tallest.

Pleats Define Suit Skirts This Season

Suits this season have taken a notion to get into motion. The new array features lively skirts with pleats in every shape, form and type — in front, all around or on the sides.

Speedier travel and other modern activities have inspired a need for fashions on the move, and the new suits are young, clean-cut and mobile, according to Wilbur Daniels, executive secretary of the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry.

JACKETS NARROWED

Suit jackets are often narrowed and pared down to balance skirt motion. Collars are cut closer to the neck, and the collarless suit is generally conspicuous by its absence.

When there is jacket shaping, it is in front, and usually high placed. To indicate this shaping, subtle seaming and sometimes patch- or crescent-shaped slit pockets are used.

Multiple pockets are present this fall, but they are more flat, more gentle, in keeping with new suit shapes.

While double-breasted closings are frequently seen, the single-breasted styles continue important. Even when styles are "skinny," there is never a feeling of restriction, for clever designers have added ease to narrowed jackets with raglan shoulders, yoked or belted backs.

SHOW OFF BLOUSES

Belts, when they are seen up front, are generally the all-around, slotted types, or built into jackets, in the manner of the new-again Norfolk suit.

When a suit is coordinated with a blouse, the jacket neckline is cut to show off the blouse, which may be cowled, collared, bowed — or collared and bowed.

Fabrics fall into two categories, the very textured and the very flat. Tweeds, shetlands, mohairs are among the textured types. Flattened surfaces include twills, herringbones, checks and novelty worsteds.

HOLLY RED SHOES

Holly Red is one of the exciting colors in the fall line of casual shoes for women. It is a clear and vibrant red which can be worn with such striking color combinations as red and pink, red and yellow and red with gray. It is offered in an ankle-high boot and in medium-height stacked-heel dressy casuals.

Dixieland Daylily Society Holds Christmas Banquet

A large white flocked Christmas tree decorated with red satin apples was the focal point of interest when members of Dixieland Daylily Society met Tuesday night December 8 for their annual Christmas banquet at Olinkraft Cafeteria in West Monroe.

Garlands of red poinsettias and holly extended the length of the U-shaped table, at intervals along which were tall crystal epergnes of red camellias and red satin apples. Centering the speakers table was a glittered sled with a gay Santa Claus holding a pack of Christmas goodies and drawn by miniature reindeer.

Decorations for the event were in charge of Mrs. A. R. Robinson, who gave the invocation preceding dinner. Recorded Christmas carols provided background music throughout the evening.

A brief business session was conducted by Mrs. J. G. Haynes and during a social hour which followed secret pals were revealed with a gift exchange around the decorated tree.

Members present were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Eaker, B. B. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clay, Mrs. Effie Horton, Miss Mary Frances Horton, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kilpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Warren McGee, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Haynes Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Roach Sr., Mrs. A. R. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gates.

The next meeting will be January 12 in the Agriculture building in West Monroe when 1965 officers will be installed.

Miro Book Club Exchanges Gifts At Yule Party

Miss Mabel Lann was welcomed as a new member of the Miro Book Club at its December meeting and Christmas program held Monday in the home of Mrs. W. M. Greenwell on Whitney Drive.

Mrs. Greenwell conducted a short business session at which time a Christmas donation was made by all present for the Veteran's Hospital in Alexandria. The club will also furnish home made cookies for the hospital.

Mrs. J. W. Musselwhite, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Neal McHenry, who gave the review, "The Southern Christmas Book" by Harnett T. Kane.

A Christmas gift exchange highlighted the social hour during which the hostess served a dessert course to Miss Corrie Lann of Baton Rouge, a guest and members, Mrs. Armand V. Breard, Mrs. J. H. McCormick, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. W. Musselwhite, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. J .T. Pugh, Mrs. Louis Rolleigh, Mrs. French L. Smith, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, and Mrs. R. L. Wood.

TEEN BAGS

Teens and leather still go together. This is the season that teen bags swing back to leather from plastics. The newest bags are in scotch grain and mahogany-cordovan with totes popular, as always, and moderate-sized handled bags in style. The huge carry-alls of former seasons are long gone.

Mink Appears Now In Slim Silhouette

A big, full mink coat this year advertises itself as not being a new coat, so far has the fur silhouette gone toward slimness.

The blanket of mink look is Out, and the slim double-breasted silhouette is In. Even wrap coats get the slim look by using the dolman top, slim body below.

Of course, furs being furs, there is room still beneath for the winter wools and suits, but the body look is cleverly slimmed, with a little flare toward the hemline. It's all in the cut, and it makes furs look younger.

Collars are back, but they are small, in line with the slim silhouette. Those matronly shawl collars are as dead as are the blanket coats.

Record Billions Of Greetings In The Merry Cards For Yule

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — This year, Americans will send a record 3.5 billion Christmas cards.

Industry sources, making the estimate, say the total is expected to be from five to eight per cent higher than last year's.

The total is more than double the 1947 output, reports the American Artists Group, Inc., which produces cards from 300 artists and illustrators. The 1964 total breaks down to 15 cards for every man, woman and child in the United States, says the group.

Senders have some 50,000 designs from which to choose this year, including the devotional theme, international understanding and world peace motifs, says Steve Shannon, executive director of the Greeting Card Association, which represents the bulk of the industry.

Shannon preferred not to put a dollar value on the cards to be sent this season.

But he said that 50 per cent of the greeting card total sold annually are for Christmas. Other seasonal cards account for 15 per cent of the total. And the non-seasonal, such as birthday and convalescent, account for 35 per cent.

It was in 1875 that a lithographer of Roxbury, Mass., Louis Prang, hesitantly introduced the first cards. They were an instant success — but the floral designs were far different from today's familiar holly and poinsettia.

Prang used spring-like roses, daisies, scarlet geraniums, and sprays of apple blossoms. By 1881, Prang was printing five million Christmas cards a year, said the association. But the lithographer abruptly discontinued cards in 1890 because of the competition from low-priced foreign imitations of his designs.

The modern era of greeting cards began about 1910, when many of today's leading firms were founded.

The association reported these trends in the new cards:

—Santa Claus has switched his style from "Jingle Bells" to up-beat tunes. On one card, Santa conducts a choir of cherubs billed as "Santa's Folk Singers." On another, he and a chorus of reindeer tune up for "Santa's Hootenanny, December 25." Other greetings show Saint Nick strumming the banjo, hitting the hot notes on a horn or tootling a flute.

—There is a wider than ever choice of reverent greetings. The great religious paintings of such famous artists as Raphael, Michaelangelo, Murrillo and Van Dyck are reproduced on cards. And there are dozens of versions of Madonna and Child by modern artists. Symbols and scenes of the Christmas story also are depicted — the Dove of Peace, the Christmas Star, the Journey to Bethlehem, the Adoration of the Shepherds, the Three Wise Men.

—More cards that serve somewhere in between a regular greeting and a gift. The industry calls these "spectaculars." Typical is a mistletoe-decked card, shaped like a Christmas tree ornament, which turns out to be exactly that. The card folds flat for mailing but opens into a three dimensional decoration, complete with a gold ribbon that can be used to hang it on a tree. Other three-section cards, but cut in the shape of trees, angels or bird cages, are designed to use as stand-up decorations on table tops or mantels. A variety of cards contain calendars. And cards containing book marks also are popular.

Teens Seek Super Phono

CHICAGO (UPI) — The average teen listens to the phonograph 9.5 hours a week, according to a national poll taken by the Phonola Phonograph Co. Two-thirds of the 500 teens polled had phonographs of their own; the rest wanted them

The average "age" of a home phonograph is three years. It has a high fidelity unit and is a portable, rather than a console model, the poll showed.

More than 52 per cent of the teens said they used their home phonographs for educational purposes. Most popular educational use: language records. But such diverse areas as morse code and bridge instruction also were uncovered.

The teens said their parents used the phonograph with almost unanimous basic rules: not at the same time as the television.

One teen age girl was asked what features she would like built into phonographs. She replied:

"Something that will make it sound loud to me, and soft to my parents."

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd H. Methe of Crowley of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kay Ann to Robert Wingate of Crowley. He is the son of Mrs. Reeve Lewis of St. Joseph. The wedding will take place Saturday, December 26 at 10 a.m. in St. Michael's Catholic Church in Crowley.

Phi Mu Mothers Entertain

An annual event of the holiday season was the mother-daughter open house given by members of the Phi Mu Mothers club, last Saturday in Breard Hall at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Receiving guests who called between the hours of 4 and 6 p.m. were Mrs. James Loker, president of the Mothers club and Miss Eleanor Harmon, president of Alpha Rho Chapter of Phi Mu on campus. Mrs. Frank Harmon presided at the guest book.

An ornate flocked Christmas tree was the focal point in the decor and centering the refreshment table was an arrangement of red carnations in a silver compote.

Alternating at the silver coffee service and punch bowl during the afternoon were Mrs. A. L. Lewis, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Joe Barry Mullins, Mrs. J. H. Rinehart, Mrs. Jimmie Hoben, Mrs. Ralph Caldwell and Mrs. R. G. Frazer.

Floating hostesses were Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. J. C. Rowan, Mrs. Z. J. Byrd and Mrs. L. N. Blair. Tea girls were Misses Linda Blair, Ann Rinehart and Marguerite Davis, active members of the sorority.

Mrs. Henry Hinkle, a national officer of Phi Mu was a special guest for the occasion.

MRS. BOBBY CUMPTON

Linda Sue Roberts Wed In Rayville Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony Thursday, December 10, Miss Linda Sue Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roberts of Rayville, became the bride of Bobby Cumpton, son of Mrs. Geneva Cumpton, also of Rayville.

The Rev. Fred Keys performed the ceremony at 7 p.m. in Eastside Baptist Church in Rayville. White flowers and candles formed a background setting at the altar.

Mr. Roberts gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's gown of Chantilly lace and tulle was fashioned on traditional lines with floor length skirt, and long sleeves tapered to lily points over the hands. The bateau neckline was enhanced with applique petals, studded with pearls and sequins. Her bouffant veil of illusion was attached to a floral bandeau. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Mary Ann Parks, sister of the groom, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Shirley and Annette Roberts, sisters of the bride. Candlelighters were Misses Charlotte Fortenberry and Sybil Smith. The attendants wore short gowns of blue peau de soie fashioned with A-line skirts. Their circular veil headdresses were matching blue and they carried bouquets of white carnations with tint of blue.

Flower girls were Misses Kay Roberts, sister of the bride and Linda Weatherford, who also wore peau de soie frocks in lighter shade of blue and corsages of white carnations.

Donald Cumpton attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Billy Ray Parks and Russell Hollis. Ray Roberts, brother of the bride was junior groomsman and serving as ushers were Joe Heath and Travis Gammill.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained in the reception room of the church. Centering the bride's table was a cluster of wedding bells incorporated into the floral arrangement. Assisting with reception courtesies were Miss Doris Fuller, Miss Ginger Eppinette, Miss Fay Joyner and Mrs. Max Hollis. Niss Jane Upton and Miss Beulah Hollis alternated at the bride's book.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Rayville where both are employed.

PBX Club Has Christmas Dinner Party

Tiny Santa Claus figurines and other yuletide appointments decorated the table from which dinner was served. Group singing of Christmas carols followed and the Christmas story was told by the chaplain, Mrs. Faye Hefley.

A gift from the group was presented to the president, Mrs. Stella Starling and the door prize was won by Mrs. Sue Bratton, a guest. A gift exchange by the members concluded the evening.

Those present were Miss Esta Bolton, Mrs. Betty Smith, Mrs. Sybil Christman, Mrs. Vivian Foster, Mrs. Katherine Gunter, Mrs. Mary Jo Williams, Mrs. Juanita Dunn, Mrs. Lena Boyd, Mrs. Louise Cornett, Mrs. Christelle Futch, Mrs. Sue Bratton, Mrs. Vernice Breland, Mrs. Lois Fincher and Mrs. Camille Hathaway.

WAX MISTLETOE

To get extra dividends from your mistletoe, spray it with clear plastic or drip the stem ends in melted wax. This will keep the leaves from shriveling and the berries from dropping, says the Society of American Florists.

PROTECT POSIES

Keep holiday season flower arrangements away from drafts, hot radiators, and direct sunshine, the Society of American Florists recommends. Resting them in a cool, dark place at night will refresh them and prolong their beauty.

Evening Shoes Brazenly Bared, Buttoned Or Bowed

Shoes this season are as flirtatious as fans, as feminine as flowers. When they are intended for evening, says the National Shoe Institute, they are also out-and-out beautiful. Brazenly bared or classically covered, the new evening enchantments may be laced or buckled, buttoned or bowed.

Fabrics are opulent, running to satins, velvets, brocades, silks and the glittery metallics. Weaves have deeper dimension, colors are newly dynamic.

Decorations range from folded flowers to enormous vertical buckles, from narrow ankle straps blazing with brilliants to fine pleatings of re-embroidered lace.

The T-strap has never looked better, in every design from broad buccaneer ideas through openbacked afternoon striplings to skimpy T-strings for dancing.

HEELS AND TOES

Toe shapes have stabilized to include a crop of crescents that has evolved slowly and naturally enough to avoid being top news this season. While there are no headline hunters here, what's up front is as important as ever to overall silhouette. And what's up front has been widened and somewhat shortened for the more natural outline that finds favor everywhere in the fashion field. A shape to be watched is a further shortening and softening of the toe while continuing the longation of the rest of the shoe.

Fashion for fall insists that there are a number of valid looks to be enjoyed. In other seasons a single heel shape has captured fashion's fancy and swept through every collection in every category. This is the time to explore, to sample new shapes, to play it by ear. And it's smarter than ever to be guided by the basic laws of harmony.

COWBOY HEEL

Off-beat but very harmonic pairings might be a cowboy heel on a brocade cocktail shell, or a narrow high heel on a pilgrim-buckled suede ghillie. Rather high heels, with their bewitching way with legs and ankles, are considered the prettiest way to look after dark. These might be hourglass shaped, or narrow set-backs, or straightened cones.

Heels may be curved, stacked or skinny. They may be spools, gauchos, cowboys, pyramids or pared down kegs. They may be broad based. They may even, now, be the re-discovered wedge heel in the medium-to-low area.

Open Evenings 'Til Christmas

Everybody has his own individual brand of "Good Old-Fashioned Christmas." Some wish for snow and sleigh rides, some for red and white popcorn balls on the tree; others, for stockings by the fireside and jolly carolers. Universally, it's time for good-cheer, hospitality and giving. This year, let the old-fashioned spark your gifts.

Makers of glassware suggest going traditional by including some festive foods, preferably homemade. As Emerson so aptly put it, "The only gift is a portion of yourself."

Package these goodies in a suitable piece of glassware, and they'll grow twice their size in sentiment. The beautiful reproductions of the Henry Ford Museum pieces particularly, inspire a feeling of warmth and friendliness. These pieces go on "giving" long after the delicacies have disappeared. Even conventional gifts such as bath powder, soap or cologne, are enhanced when given an unusual and beautiful container to keep, re-use and treasure.

MRS. IVAN O. MORRIS JR.

Is Bride Of Ronnie Cascio

Miss Nelda Florice Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Frost, Winnsboro Road, Monroe, became the bride of Ronnie Jean Cascio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony D. Cascio, 3409 Polk St., on Saturday, November 28.

Vows were exchanged in the home of the officiating minister, Rev. I. L. Yeager, 4405 Jackson St., at 7 p.m. Only attendants at the wedding were Miss Linda Kolb, James Netherland and Jimmy Pickering.

The bridegroom attended Ouachita Parish high school and is now employed in Monroe. Mrs. Cascio attended Mangham high school. The couple is at home at 2406 Gordon Avenue.

Candlelight Vows Unite Daina Harp, Mr. Morris

An open Bible marked with a red rose, flanked by baskets of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums and seven-branched candelabra entwined with plumosa fern formed an altar setting in the Bonita Methodist Church for the wedding of Miss Daina Louise Harp and Ivan O. Morris Jr., on Wednesday, December 2.

The Rev. Edward Haug, district superintendent of Monroe, performed the ceremony at 6 p.m. in the presence of family members. Miss Mildred Cone of Wilmot presented a prenuptial concert and accompanied the soloist, Dewayne Haynes, of Wilmot.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harp of Bonita and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan O. Morris of Wilmot, Ark.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of ivory silk peau de soie featuring a high neckline embroidered in beads and seed pearls, high rise waist with princess front and full sweeping cathedral train. Long sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands. Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a cluster of imported orange blossoms of antique ivory. She carried a point lace handkerchief that had been carried by her grandmother, Mrs. D. R. Harp on her wedding day and her only adornment was a strand of ivory pearls, a gift of the groom. The bride's bouquet was of ivory roses in colonial design, centered with yellow orchids.

Miss Linda Harp, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a dress of pink velveteen with matching slippers and carried a bouquet of red roses. Her headdress was a crown of pink satin with a circular veil attached.

James Harold Crews of Lake Providence, served as best man and ushers were C. E. Snyder and E. L. Lewis, both of Monroe.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Harp wore a champagne dress and jacket costume with matching accessories and corsage of green cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a taupe ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

At conclusion of the ceremony Rev. Haug removed the rose from the Bible and gave it to the bride as he read Browning's "How Do I Love Thee?" As the bride left the altar she presented the rose to her mother.

A reception followed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hope Baggett. Other hosts were uncles and aunts of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harp, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. White, Mr. and Mrs. Carnel E. Evans and Mrs. D. R. Harp, grandmother of the bride, who was seated at the guest book table, graced with a memory candle and based with the bride's bouquet.

In the entrance hall lighted tapers cast a glow on white wedding bells mounted on black velvet and framed in gold. Names of the bride and groom inscribed in gold on white satin ribbon completed the decor.

A floor length white satin cloth with ruffled net overskirt covered the dining table which was centered with an arrangement of white carnations, chrysanthemums and greenery, flanked by white candles. Miss Polly Harp, cousin of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake and presiding at the silver punch bowl was Miss Phyllis Humphreys. Assisting as tea girls were Miss Maribelle Hopkins, Mrs. Paul Ramon Harp, Mrs. Dan Evans and Mrs. Charles Evans.

Other members of the house party extending reception courtesies were Mrs. Leslie McKoin, Mrs. Glen Cook, Mrs. Harry Baker, Mrs. John Knox Nunn, Mrs. C. S. Reeves and Mrs. George Sawyer.

White net bags filled with pale pink rice were distributed to the guests by James Harp, brother of the bride; Ann Townsend White, Keith and Harriett Baggett, cousins of the bride.

For a wedding trip to Western states the bride changed into a three piece gray wool suit with red accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The bride was graduated from Bonita high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. Mr. Morris graduated from Lake Providence high school and attended Louisiana State University.

Gifts Delight Plant Lovers

You needn't be a gardening or handicraft expert to make Christmas gifts that will delight and surprise your friends who enjoy the fascinating hobby of container gardening.

Here are a few easy and economical tips:

Package gifts of flower seeds, tubers or bulbs in large red clay pots. Nest seed envelopes or colorfully-wrapped bulbs on a layer of flower-scented bath salts and wrap the whole pot in colored plastic film.

Buy cactus or succulent plants in small red clay pots and place them in a large red clay saucer with proper planting soil and vermiculite or pebbles, as suggested by your florist or garden center, to make an attractive, long-lasting tropical dish garden.

Give a supply of three or four-inch clay pots and large trays or saucers and a selection of such herb seeds as chives, basil, dill and mint to enable your gourmet friends to grow their own windowsill herb gardens indoors. Easy guides to herb growing and cookery are available at many florists and garden centers.

Make a chairside planter by glueing two 10 or 12-inch clay pots together at their bases and running a wooden pole as a dowel through the bottom drainage holes of both pots.

Package garden tools — or Christmas candy — in clay pots. The smaller sizes, from three inches down to thimble-size, can be wrapped in colored cellulose and hung from the Christmas tree.

Make simple hanging basket frames by cutting sheets of perforated aluminum or copper to fit around the most generally used sizes of red clay pots — the four to seven-inch diameters.

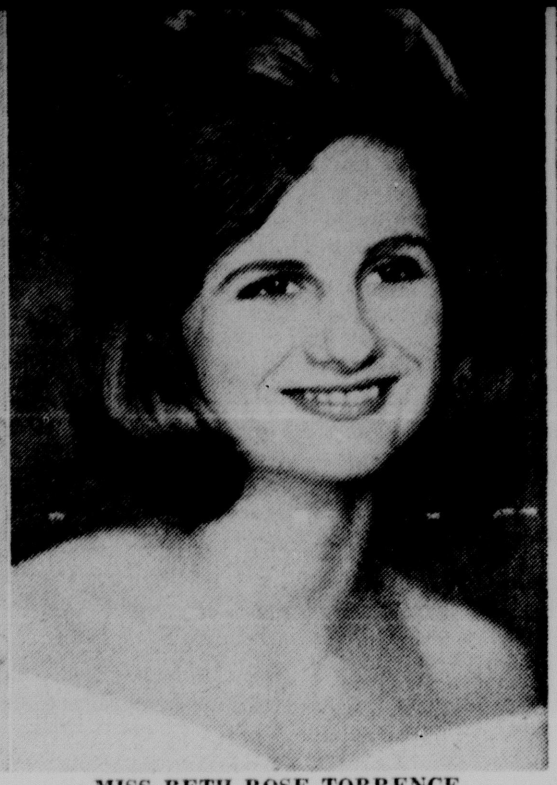
Make clay pot bread — or holiday rolls — in new clay pots from two to seven or eight inches, using your own favorite recipe, but being sure to grease and bake the pots alone (without dough) for five to 10 minutes to keep the bread from sticking.

A large shellacked or varnished clay pot saucer makes a handy holiday nut and fruit bowl, candy dish, or table centerpiece to hold flowering plants.

Wrap gifts of kitchen scouring pads in a small red clay pot, which can be used in the sink cabinet to store the pads. The porosity of the clay will draw moisture from the pads.

Small clay flower pots make handy measuring cups. A three-inch pot holds one cup, a four-inch holds 2 and a half cups.

MISS GLENDA WILLIAMS



MISS BETH ROSE TORRENCE

Vows Set By Couple In Delhi

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Glenda Williams and John A. Shepherd Jr., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Williams of Delhi. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. C. E. James Jr., of Houston, Texas and the late John A. Shepherd.

The wedding is planned for December 20 at 3 p.m. in Westside Baptist Church in Delhi with Rev. Glynn Byrd offiating.

Miss Williams has chosen her fiance's sister, Miss Helen Shepherd of Houston, Texas, as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Priscilla Torregrossa of Bogalusa and Miss Verna White of Bienville.

The bride - elect is a graduate of Delhi high school and is now a sophomore at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Shepherd attended Central high school of Delhi and is now serving as a jet mechanic with the Air Force, stationed at Mather Air Force Base in Sacramento, California. Following their marriage the couple will be at home in Sacramento.

NLSC Students To Wed On December 26

Saturday, December 26 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Beth Rose Torrence and Ronald Lewis Davies, both students at Northeast Louisiana State College.

The bride - elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leamon Garrett Torrence of Reedsport, Oregon, formerly of Springhill. Mr. Davies is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davies of Dallas, Texas.

Vows will be exchanged in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Monroe.

Lists Charter Members

Charter members of the Northeast State chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, national scholastic honor society for freshmen women, have been announced by Miss Alma Lufcy, counselor to women students at Northeast.

Eligibility for membership requires that a woman student carry fifteen semester hours and earn mid-point highest and second highest average during her first semester freshman year.

Students will be active only during their sophomore year. Later they will be considered collegiate alumnae. Charter members however, were selected from freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors.

Alpha Lambda Delta for freshmen is comparable to Mortar Board for senior women, Miss Lufcy said.

The society promotes intelligent living, high standard of learning and encouragement of superior scholastic attainment among freshman women in institutions of higher learning.

Laurell Rebecca Brisknell, Carol Kessler, Paula Lawrence, Charleen Morizot, Sara Lauren Rees, all of Shreveport; Jerilyn Byers, Hazel Hoben Calvert, both of Rayville; Carolyn Cole, Metairie; Jo Ann French Hathe Lawrence, Baskin; Beatrice Nugent, Rayne; Linda Louise Price, Baton Rouge; Judy White Trichel, Oak Grove; Jo Ann Calhoun, Sheryl Lynn Fletcher, Veronica Guillot, West Monroe; Frances Walters, Winnsboro.

Honorary faculty members of the organizaton include Mrs. Florence Z. Allbritton, Miss Frances Baldwin, Miss Dora Beard, Mrs. Maud Merritt Bentrup, Dr. Ruth Bruner and Dr. Hazel Mitchell.

"TWELVE DAYS OF CHRISTMAS" was theme of the Junior Charity League's annual ball, held last Saturday night at the Paragon ballroom. Large glittering cutouts of musical insignia, of partridges and pear trees, at the entrance set the motif. Several hundred merry-makers danced to the music of Phares Corder and his orchestra from nine until one.

Fronting the bandstand was a placard on which glittered letters spelled out the ball's theme. Each of the twelve columns which encircled the dance floor held a ten foot high cutout depicting one of the twelve days: five gold rings, geese, leaping lord, milking maid, etc. At one side stood the tall tree, hung with golden ropes and adorned with red cardinals. Packages clustered under the tree were all wrapped in red and gold. Individual tables were centered with six branched candelabra in the shape of trees with lighted tapers and pine boughs. Tiny gift-wrapped packages, one for each guest, were placed under the little "trees". Each of these contained a fortune. Much merriment ensued as the recipients read such advice as "He who indulges, bulges," or "Nothing improves one's driving like being followed by a police car."

This party each year brings out the season's most elegant ball gowns. CAROL McDONALD, League president, was wearing shirred velvet in a rich dubonnet color, with wide decollete and narrow skirt to the floor. And with this she wore her new black mink wrap.

Rich colors were noted in many of the dresses, as NAOMI DURRETT's royal blue satin with back panel falling from shoulder to floor. . and CAROL TENNIS' gold chiffon skirt topped with beaded bodice . . . ANNA CLAIRE SEYMOUR's blue sequin sheath glittered like a mermaid . . . VIRGINIA HARGROVE chose cafe au lait, cut on Empire lines. The bodice of velvet, styled with deep neckline and short sleeves, topped a long slim skirt of crepe. . . A pink-peach satin sash trimmed SANCY MADISON's shift of wool crepe in a plaid of peach on off-white . . . Another shift-line dress was that worn by SOPHIA BLANKS, this is a bright gold and orange print . . . With a pale pink dress, CAMILLE DENNIS wore a circular, flounced stole of rose-red taffeta.

Green seemed to this reporter to be the most popular single color, appearing in a variety of shades, LINDA DANSBY chose forest green Italian velvet in a long skirt topped with a bodice of white crepe worked in seed sequins. A jacket of the velvet was styled with long tight sleeves and wide collared neckline. . . Topping LIBBY MILLER's sea green crepe was an overblouse of matching lace . . .ANN SLAGLE chose green brocade; JEANNE DOWNING, green peau de soie.

All-white was the choice of COURTNEY CURRY, in a white crepe topped with lace overblouse . . .and of ANN BELL, in a white crepe with apron over-skirt caught with large rhinestone buttons . . . WALLY McARTHUR combined a white skirt with bodice printed in reds and greens on white.

Visitors here this week were JEDDIE (Mrs. P. E.) NOLAN of Sarasota, Florida, and Blowing Rock, North Carolina; and FRANCES (Mrs. Lester) GAVITT of Sarasota and Boston. They were guests of the TRAVIS BROWNS at their home on Pargoud Boulevard, stopping over en route to Pasadena, California, from Florida. . . On Tuesday Mary Etta was hostess at a tea between the hours FRENCH, a recent newcomer to the city.

Focal points of decoratations in the living room were a lighted ceramic Christmas tree and bowls of pale pink camellias. Pine branches and red apples, flanked with green candles, centered the dining room table. Hot cranberry punch was served by OLIVE MUNHOLLAND and RUTH SHERROUSE, while CARRIE DEE DREW and MABLE WALLACE presided at the silver coffee service. Others who assisted were GAIL THOMPSON, JANET MORGAN, MATTIE STEWART, and MARY ELLETT.

On Wednesday at noon, the visitors were guests at the holiday luncheon of the Twentieth Century Book club at Bayou DeSiard country club. That night, Ruth Sherrouse invited them for dinner at her home. On Thursday, Carrie Dee and HARRIETT BOYLE entertained at luncheon. The DIX ELLETTS were hosts for dinner that evening at their home. Jeddie and Frances left on Friday, promising to return soon to hospitable Monroe.

Here from New Orleans was SALLY HAAS, sister and guest of TOTSY TERZIA. Salley was named guest of honor when ESTHER ROSEHEIM was hostess for luncheon at Bay-DeSiard country club last Friday.

This party was held in the private dining room, where the pink table cloth and ruby goblets reflected the room decor. Esther's table decoration a la HELOISE, was of pink nylon net. "Flowers" of the net, on long "stems" were arranged with rose foliage. At the conclusion of the party, each guest received one as a favor, to try Heloise's household hints. A menu of crabmeat au gratin, asparagus with artichokes, and pineapple with blue cheese was served to twelve guests.

BESSIE and CHICK FOSTER sailed from New York aboard the S. S. France for six weeks in Europe. They will visit their children, the ALLEN FOSTERS, in Oxford, England, for Christmas.

Prior to her departure, Bessie was honored at a luncheon given by DORIS McDOWELL at Bayou DeSiard country club. The table in the main dining room was centered with a wicker wine basket holding a bottle of French burgundy. The menu included crabmeat, marinated whole green beans, green salad, with hot cheese logs. For PAULA STEELE invited her neighbors in for coffee Wednesday morning. The party provided an opportunity for CAROL RAPHAEL, JEAN DIXON, MARTY KAUFMAN, and ANN CLARK, new to the neighborhood of Pargoud - at - Indian-Mound to get acquainted. Paula is already decorated for the holidays, with a holly wreath on the door, and holly throughout the house. In the den, berried branches are arranged with red candles. For Wednesday, Paula used white gladioli with red candles on the dining room table.

Tomorrow is the date for Monroe Garden Club's Christmas tour. This, a most popular affair in former years, has not been held for the past several seasons and a great deal of interest has been aroused by its revival. Homes to be open for the tour, to garden club members only, are to be those of MARIE LOUISE SNELLINGS, VIRGINIA GUERRIERO, and KATHERINE FOSTER. Tea will be served. CLIO BRIGHT is tour chairman, with KATHERINE COTTON co-chairman. Tea chairman is BERNICE WOODS, with LOUISE MORGAN as co-chairman. The tour begins at two p.m. Monday.

As we aproach the season of giving, let us remember the words of Kahlil Gibran on "Giving":

You give but little when you give of your possessions.
It is when you give of yourself that you truly give.
For what are your possessions but things you keep and guard for fear you may need them tomorrow?
And tomorrow, what shall tomorrow bring to the overprudent dog burying bones in the trackless sand as he follows the pilgrims to the holy city?
And what is fear of need but need itself?
Is not dread of thirst when your well is full the thirst that is unquenchable?
There are those who give little of the much which they have — and they give it for recognition and their hidden desire makes their gifts unwholesome.
And there are those who have little and give it all.
These are the believers in life and the bounty of life, and their coffer is never empty.
There are those who give with joy, and that joy is their reward.
And there are those who give with pain, and that pain is their baptism.
And there are those who give and know not pain in giving, nor do they seek joy, nor give with mindfulness of virtue;
They give as in yonder valley the myrtle breathes its fragrance into space.
Through the hands of such as these God speaks, and from behind their eyes He smiles upon the earth.
It is well to give when asked, but it is better to give unasked, through understanding.
And to the open - handed the search for one who shall receive is joy greater than giving.
And is there aught you would withhold?
All you have shall some day be given;
Therefore give now, that the season of giving may be yours and not your inheritors.
You often say, "I would give, but only to the deserving."
The trees in your orchard say not so, nor the flocks in your pasture.
They give that they may live, for to withhold is to perish.
Surely he who is worthy to receive his days and his nights is worthy of all else from you.
And he who has deserved to drink from the ocean of life deserves to fill his cup from your little stream.

BOXWOOD TREE

A small tree made of glossy green boxwood, and trimmed with golden Garnette roses and a string or two of glistening baubles, is an ideal choice for a buffet table.

Engaged To Wed

Of interest in this area is announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of a former resident, Miss Connie Lynn Armstrong to Lonnie Wayne Roberts of Bioloxi, Miss.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Mayme Armstrong, Alamogordo, New Mexico and G. C. Armstrong, San Francisco, Calif. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Louise Garmer of Ocean Springs, Miss.

The wedding will be performed on January 29 at the First Assembly of God church in Alamorgordo by the Rev. W. E. Clark, formerly of this city, now of Denver, Colo. Following their marriage the couple will be at home in Biloxi.

ENGAGEMENT of Miss Shirley Ann Kimble and Arthur Leonard Sealy Jr. is announced today by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Dee Kimble of Eros. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Matthews of Monroe. Vows will be exchanged January 31 at 3 p.m. in Lakeshore Baptist Church with Rev. Vestor Headrick officiating.

STRETCH QUILT

The newest in ski-wear for '65 is a stretch quilt fabric of nylon taffeta over a layer of polyseter fiberfill and a thin sheet of foam. The fabric has a soft, puffy texture and the stretch factor is said to be permanent.

SKI PARKAS

Seen In Mink Fashions

Coats are slim, shaped in front, and often double-breasted featuring the open-throat, notched collar. The three-quarter mink coat is noteworthy, particularly in the various natural Emba shades.

Jackets are long to the hipbone, bloused or slim, with belt or without. Both coats and jackets tend toward the slightly squared - off shoulder. News is at the top in collars and shaping, going along with the long line and the feminine phase of fashion.

The casual look for furs continues in the news, in such styles as a mink sweater, complete with knit collar and cuffs and a knit skirt to match.

Fur stylists fashion coats and jackets of Emba mink that are sashed or tied with fur or leather. One town and country jacket features a notched collar, bone buttons and cuffed shirt sleeves. Another coat has a hidden drawstring, which when tied gathers the coat at the waist to part of the fur fashion picture, have been given the casual treatment, too. One designer has created a wrap which can be worn over the head as a hood. Another mink wrap has a neckline styled after the collar of a man's sport shirt.

TOPS FOR MEN

For men, the FDR 'Campobello' shape-it-yourself hat will be tops in the spring with lots of new fabrics for pork - pies and side-dent styles.

BUCKLES, BOWS

On shoes, bows and buckles will be back in the spring. They will return in all manner and in all sizes, as will coin shaping on shoe toes. Coming are the quarter and fifty - cent piece widths.

Winter At-Home Styles

Since the autumn collections find long and languid sleepgowns vying with waltz lengths and baby dolls for dream time, the robe array offers a complementary group of to-the-floor wraps.

These may be shaped like overcoats, bathrobes, trenchcoats but they all have their share of fall's pretty femininity. It's expressed here in fluid lines, pretty trims, prints and colors. Fabrics do their share — from a new importance for drapable wools to a starring role for lace.

Not all wrap-ups plunge to floor length, however. The layered look appears in pretty short coats to pop over one of those long, clingy sleepgowns.

Still other sleepgowns are brief and ruffly, very much like those little dancing dresses that go out of an evening; the at-home versions naturally require flirty coats to accompany them.

Quilted at - home toppings, either short or long, take on new charm this season, thanks partly to more flexible fillings that include a layer of polyester fiber, and partly to the artful use of "common" fabrics. As seen this fall, ginghams and calicos and chambrays look far from ordinary in their new quilted appearances. Some hostess "robes" have all the slinky appeal of formal evening gowns, with bared necklines, ruffles.

Yule Decorations Created For Homemakers Display

"Making Preparations for Christmas" was theme of a demonstration and display of holiday decorations and pastries given by Mrs. Audrey Dawson, Ouachita Parish home demonstration agent at the Agriculture Building in West Monroe Tuesday, and attended by 150 homemakers.

On display were unique decorations to give homemakers ideas for creating inexpensive holiday appointments by using articles around the home.

Mrs. Donna Moore, associate home demonstration agent, made two door decorations for the demonstration, one of which featured a silhouette of her children kneeling in prayer. The second door hang was a reindeer scene.

A display by Mrs. Frank Buce of Better Homemakers Club, featured the use of traditional red and green in a Christmas tree, wreaths, Christmas stockings and a unique wall arrangement. Mrs. Pearl Bower of Colony Coub, made a table Christmas tree fashioned of white poinsettias, and green leaves mounted in a footed compote.

Also unique were the Christmas decorations, created by Mrs. Floyd Kent, of Thrifty Homemakers club, using red and green wrapping paper, candles and choir boy figurines.

All decorations created by Mrs. Dawson carried out a pink and silver motif, which she plans to use in her home during this holiday season. She incorporated the use of Christmas baubles and beads and numerous other items found in the home or variety stores at little expense, in creating gay and colorful decorations. Outstanding was the arrangement using two oversize brandy snifters inverted in a pyramid over pink styrofoam bases and mounted on a crystal cake stand, garlanded with swags of pink and silver beads. Pink and white cherubs were enclosed in the snifters.

In addition Mrs. Dawson prepared a variety of cookies and candy which can be made ahead of time for serving at Christmas parties.

Wedding Plans Announced For Miss Brownlee

Wedding plans for Miss Barbara Nell Brownlee to Jimmy T. Freeman are announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Brownlee of Calhoun. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Freeman of West Monroe.

The ceremony will be performed on January 8 at 7 p.m. in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brownlee in Calhoun.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Calhoun.

NANCY JOSEPHINE CASTLEBERRY

Crossett Couple Plans Early February Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. Neil Castleberry of Crossett, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nancy Josephine Castleberry to SP4 William Charles Watson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Talley Jr., also of Crossett.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Spencer Jarvis of Crossett and of Walton L. Castleberry and the late Mrs. Castleberry of Hermitage. She is a senior at the University of Arkansas where she is a member of Delta Gamma sorority, SNEA and ACEI.

Mr. Watson is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Hopson of Lambert, Mississippi and the late Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Watson of Little Rock. He attended Mississippi State University where he was affiliated with Phi Kapja Tau fraternity. The prospective bridegroom is presently staioned with the 7th Infantry Division at Camp Casey, Kore..

FORMAL GOWNS

Floor-length formals are still best for gala evenings. Prim Sunday-school conservative jackets of quilted velveteen or quilted cotton are making the top fabric scene.

Shopping Hints For Friends Of Barbecue Set

Her's a suggestion: give a his-and-hers barbecue set. His, of course, should be a man-size grill o charcoal-cook thick, juicy steaks and sizzling burgers. Hers should be more ladylike — a coctail-size hibachi, to grill delecable hors d'oeuvres while he concentrates on the main attraction.

Sturdy grills can be bought from $10 on up; and hibachis, depending upon their size, are availble from $2.95 on up.

Anyone who barbecues appreciates a "charcoal caddy" or similar receptacle for storing wood charcoal briquets.

One need not be from the NearEast to enjoy shish-kabob. An atractive gift for those who do is a set of six stainless steel skewers.

Handsome cooking tools such as extra long brush, spatual, fork and tongs of stainless steel with wooden handles, also make a fine gift for the barbecue buff.

Small salt and pepper sets, available in a variety of deisgns and woods, are welcome, too. And spice racks are useful for the male charcoal cook as well as for the housewife.

Serving platters, salad bowls, cutting boards are old stand-bys that are always needed but seldom bought for one's own use; and so are asbestos gloves, pot holders and gay barbecue apparel.

MISS BETTY DEE MOORE

Milady Can Be A Pin-Up Girl At Christmas

Fashion is so overwhelmingly important that it has even produced a change in old superstitions. Time was, when if you gave a lady a pin, she was obliged to give you a penny in order not to break friendship. Today, the giving of a pin is one of the great signs of friendship and even love, and while you may not receive a penny in return, her obvious pleasure in wearing it will be more than ample compensation. A recompense that will go on and on, and bring you pleasure too, each time you see her wear her pin.

The vogue for understated fashions has brought the pin into such prominence that it is now, probably, the number one item on every ladies Christmas list. Large pins, small pins, pins of all sizes; golden pins, simulated pearl pins, and pins sparkling with stones, are all included in Trifari's galaxy of pins that will correctly adorn an understated dress without making it appear overstated.

Not only is a pin the precisely right touch that this years' fashion demands, but it can be used to point up a feature you might care to accent; a small waist or a slim, rounded hip; exactly as a beauty spot was used, to direct the eye to your most attractive feature.

A wide variety of styles is offered this Christmas; golden pins in finely wrought textures and many shapes; snow flakes, garlands, circles, bows, oak and crescent leaves, star bursts, wings, oval sprays, flames and birds and a garden of flowers; all ideal for simple daytime wear.

Christmas Candles Made At Home Popular Hobby

Christmas is only weeks away and it's still time to make candles for decorations, centerpieces and for gifts. This is certainly the season for gay, colorful candles and, this year, more and more housewives will be making their own.

This hobby has really grown in popularity during the last few years. You can buy Christmas candles, of course, but it's much more fun when your family gets together for an evening to make your own. It gives everyone a chance to participate and results are surprisingly good because it's so easy to do.

Normal care is all that's needed when working with melted wax. Remember that wax is inflammable and should be melted in a double boiler over low heat, never over direct heat. Never splash water into hot wax or pour melted wax down the drain.

An excellent wick can be made from bricklayer's or carpenter's chalk line, obtainable at most hardware stores. It is a braided cotton cord and has good burning characteristics. You can make your own by soaking cotton string overnight in a solution of one tablespoon of salt, two tablespoons of borax and one cup of water.

Hang it up to dry then dip it in melted wax to stiffen it for easier handling. Don't make it too thick or it may smoke. If you prefer, you can buy commercial wick at the hobby store or use the wick from used dinner candles or small dime store candles.

To make fancy candles, you should use a good quality wax. The pound paraffin packages contain four pre - measured quarter pound bars. You'll need wax crayons or other coloring materials, double boiler, egg beater, an ice pick (or your husband's electric drill!) and a variety of kitchen items to use as molds. If you really want to get fancy, have some sequins, glitters and other decorations on hand.

Molds can be almost anything around your kitchen. Most popular are empty milk and ice cream cartons, all sorts of plastic containers, jello molds, cookie cutters, muffin tins and even empty paper towel spools. Just remember that solidified wax must come out of the mold in one piece so the opening of the mold must be the largest part.

Always grease the molds, except for waxed cartons, with colorless vegetable shortening and chill before pouring wax into them. of course, wax should be slightly cool before pouring. And here's a tip, if you cover your work surface with wax paper, any drippings can be scraped up and returned to the melting pot.

One other point to remember. Old candle stubs are not suitable for melting down to make new candles because they contain stearic acid and will not glow when burned. Use a good quality paraffin. You'll find that quarter-pound bars can be fashioned into candles just as they come or, because of their size, can be melted quickly.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES WALLACE HONEYCUTT

Couple Wed In Candlelight Home Ceremony

Vows uniting in marriage Mrs. Retagae Lolley Smith and James Wallace Honeycutt of Bossier City, were solemnized Friday, December 4 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed M. Lolley, 816 Arkansas Road, West Monroe. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Alton M. Honeycutt of Bossier City.

Rev. Filer Seal performed the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. in a candlelight setting before the fireplace which was banked with white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Miss Linda Fuson, West Monroe, who served as maid of honor, wore an American Beauty wool sheath dress with accessories to match. Her corsage was of feathered peppermint carnations.

Serving as best man was Gene Gatti.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a navy blue knit ensemble with navy accessories and the bridegroom's mother was wearing a royal blue wool sheath. Both wore corsages of white feathered carnations.

Following a reception in the home for members of the bridal party and families, the couple left on a short wedding trip. They will be at home in Bossier City where Mr. Honeycutt is employed.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Gentleman Friend Has 'Shell-Out' Falter

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I have been a widow for 14 years. Last year I began to spend some time with a well-to-do retired gentleman. He has taken me to many nice places. After being lonely for so long I don't mind telling you I appreciate his company.

A few months ago this man hinted that I should reciprocate by taking him to dinner and to the theater occasionally. I did pay for the dinner and theater tickets twice, but I can't keep it up. Frankly it's too hard on my budget.

The gentleman likes my cooking and I've invited him to my home for dinner several times.

What I need to know is this, Ann: Have customs changed in the past 30 years? Is it possible that today a woman is supposed to pay a man's way now and then? Will you advise me? — MIDDLE AGED LADY

Dear Lady: If you invite the gentleman to your home for dinner you are doing all the reciprocating that is required. He sounds a wee bit tight, Dearie. I call it a touch of "shell - out falter."

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a teenager who has a 45-year-old problem. My mother.

Mother went to work in a plant where almost all the employees are men. Six months ago she dyed her hair blonde. A few weeks ago she started to wear stretch pants to work. She looks so cheap I'm ashamed to have anybody know she's my mother.

I began to write only about the way she looks but now I might as well tell you what is really bugging me. I'm afraid my mother has a boy friend. She leaves the house every Tuesday and Friday night after supper and tells Dad she is on a committee for the plant.

Should I come right out and tell my mother she is making a big fool of herself and get back to normal? — ASHAMED DAUGHTER

Dear Ashamed: You can't say anything to your mother that will "get her back to normal." Your criticism would only produce an even wider gulf — and it's pretty wide already.

Conduct yourself like a lady even though your mother is setting no example. And keep quiet.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter which appeared in your column recently about the telephone pest. I thought your cut-off phrase was effective but I'd like to suggest another cut - off phrase which has worked wonders for me.

Several years ago I was pestered to death by a distant relative who had a habit of phoning me several times a day — and always at the most inopportune times. I became resentful and upset because this woman took advantage of me. I consulted my minister. He listened sympathetically and asked, "Can't you have something on the stove?"

I replied, "No — not ALL the time." He said, "My wife has— pots and pans."

That was five years ago and I've kept pots and pans on my stove ever since. Maybe you'd like to pass on the suggestion. It's the greatest "invention" since they started to slice bread.—LIBERATED

Dear Lib: Welcome to the free world. Telephone pests are a breed unto themselves and I am in favor of any type of insecticide that works.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS FREDDY FRAZIER

Frazier-Chapman Vows Solemnized In Delhi

First Baptist Church in Delhi was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Marilynn Sue Chapman and Thomas Freddy Frazier on Saturday, December 5. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian E. Chapman of Delhi and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Frazier of Baton Rouge.

Cathedral tapers in branched candelabra entwined with emerald fern formed a background for the exchange of vows. Massive baskets of white gladioli flanked the satin covered prayer rail where the ceremony was performed at 3 p.m. by Rev. Connie E. Ward.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Edward Thomas, organist, who also accompanied the soloist, Edward Thomas.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, styled with bell-shaped ankle length skirt, which terminated in a chapel train. A crown of pearls held her veil of illusion and she carried a white Bible, crested with a white orchid.

Mrs. Ronald Jorstad of Shreveport, attended her sister as matron of honor and wore a gown of blue peau de soie in afternoon length fashioned similar to the bride's. A crown circlet held her short illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow Fuji chrysanthemums and yellow tulle. Bridesmaids dressed identically to the honor attendant were Miss Jane McKibbens, Miss Marilyn Calhoun, Miss Carolyn York, all of Delhi and Miss Jerryce Womack, Shreveport.

Mr. Frazier served his son as best man and groomsmen were Hugh and Richard Frazier, brothers of the groom; Danny Chapman, brother of the bride and Bobby Jones of Bastrop. Candles were lighted by Rusty Cook, Shreveport, cousin of the bride and Byron McKinney of Delhi.

For the occasion Mrs. Chapman, mother of the bride, wore a beige wool suit with beige pillbox hat, black accessories and corsage of garnet red roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue suit with black accessories and corsage of red garnet roses.

A reception followed in Fellowship hall of the church where lighted candles and the bridesmaids' bouquets formed the central decor of the bride's table. Miss Sandra Strong served the tiered wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Sandra Womack. Miss Barbara Cook, cousin of the bride, had charge of the guest book table which was graced with a memory candle. Tea girls were Misses Jan Gilly and Francine Corley.

After a wedding trip to Natchez, Mississippi, the couple will be at home in Baton Rouge where Mr. Frazier is employed. For travel the bride wore a blue double knit suit with white fur hat and black patent accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet. Mrs. Frazier graduated from Delhi high school and the bridegroom graduated from Central high school at Baton Rouge. Both attended Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe.

Paris Likes Ribbon Trim

The favored trim throughout the Paris collections was ribbon from Chanel's flat hairbows of silk velvet to Bernat Kelin's new tweed fabric woven of velvet ribbon and mohair.

The ribbon idea is an easy way for women to refresh dresser from last season.

TUNICS AND TIERS in sheers and satins belong to the ladylike look this season. This informal dinner dress by Yves Saint-Laurent, has a chiffon tunic edged with mink held loosely at the waist with a black satin ribbon. A thin sliver of the skirt shows beneath. Femininity flourished in line and fabric and in accessories which included simple strands of pearls, flowers in the hair.

Old Fashioned Is High Fashioned This Christmas

This year pink Christmas trees are out — and old-fashioned green ones are in. And under the trees, presents will be wrapped in gay patterns showing Santa Claus, peppermint sticks, religious scenes, and all the beloved trappings associated with a traditional Christmas holiday.

These findings come from a survey, recently conducted throughout the United States by the Papercraft Corporation, manufacturers of Christmas gift papers and ribbons.

Over 3,500 people, in towns large and small, were asked questions about their color preferences, their personal tastes in patterns, and their purchasing habits. Results were tabulated on a regional as well as national basis. Most startling was the similarity of tastes. Red, the most popular color, received 11 per cent of the total vote — with the same percentage coming from California as from New York. Green came a poor second with only 18 per cent. Sixty-two per cent preferred a patterned paper, to a solid, and added that they liked old fashioned Christmasy motifs best. Here, the regional tabulation gave everyone a surprise. The southern states, where little or no snow falls, actually, voiced a preference for winter scenes. The northern states ran more to geometric patterns. Pastels, so very popular a few years ago, received only 7 per cent of the vote this year.

The Papercraft Corporation, which devotes 364 days to that one day a year, saw this trend coming over a year ago. Their clue was the state of Texas. For a reason no one has yet understood, the colors and pattern preferences that start to show popularity there in one year, become the preferences of a large part of the country the year following.

Just a few years ago, such a survey wouldn't have been possible, since there were limited choices to make. Gift wrap was a piece of white tissue, tied with red string. Today, white accounts for only 5 per cent of the popular choice. It was during the depression years that the first gift paper first appeared. It was not that people had extra money to spend on fancy wrappings, but the need to make necessities look more like Christmas presents. Pennies were saved to buy children's shoes, not roller skates.

While the papers were not of good quality, the colors were bright, and people liked the added Christmas touch.

As the need for fancy trappings lessened, the custom remained. Suddenly, after the war when paper was again available, stores were giving more space to a growing variety of papers designed especially for Christmas wrapping.

Today, according to the corporation, the business of gift wrap for Christmas has become big business. It is estimated that Americans are going to exchange one billion gifts. They will spend approximately 11.2 billion dollars for these tokens of good cheer — and another 17 million dollars to wrap them up in fancy papers, ribbons and bows.

According to the survey results, over 50 per cent of those questioned said that they spend up to $8.00 for the wrappings alone. This is about twice as much as was spent per customer only five years ago. The price of paper hasn't gone up — but the amount of paper and ribbon used to decorate each package has doubled.

Today we have a glittering array of textures to tie into presents. There are foils, flocked papers, magnificent embossings.

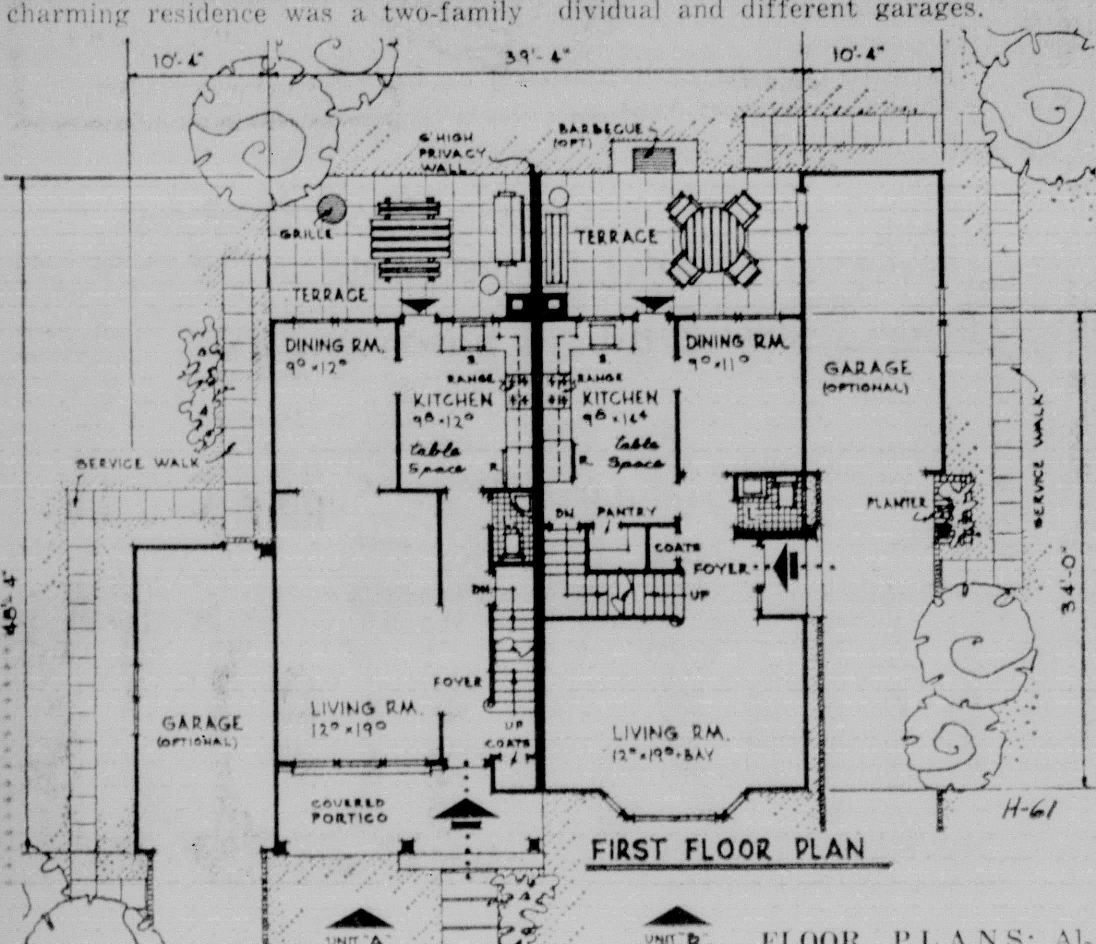
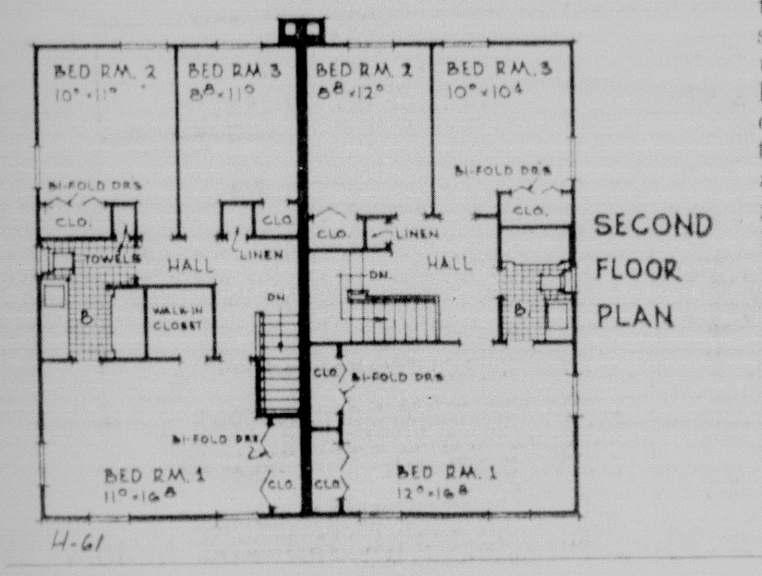
UNLESS YOU were told, you'd have a difficult time imagining that this charming residence was a two-family house, with separate, modern, three-bedroom units; private entrances; individual and different garages.





FLOOR PLANS: Although a long party wall separates the two living units and terraces of this house, with only minor differences on each side, the exterior design gives a strong impression of a graceful attractive one-family structure.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-61.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Two Family House Looks Like One-Family Dwelling

By ANDY LANG

We have something unusual this week — something rarely seen in house plans displayed for the reading public.

It's a two-family house!

Not just any old two-family house, but one that looks like a one-family house, thanks to an ingenious design by architect Herman H. York. Most two-family houses have one living area directly over the other, or one unit next to the other in a symmetrical pattern. But note the exterior of this house, with a porticoed front porch at the left and an attractive separate entrance at the right side, giving an over-all appearance of a one-family, two-story plan. There are two garages, but one has been subordinated, further adding to the impression of single-family occupany.

SPECIAL DESIGN

This house is so built that each unit can be separately owned or the entire structure singly - owned with one unit rented. Income - producing property such as this is particularly good where land values are high and plot sizes consequently must be held to a minimum. Under some community ordinances, this double residence conceivably could be built on a plot measuring as little as 70' wide, although a width of 80' would be preferable. In any case, it is important that local zoning ordnances be carefully checked to determine what can and can not be done at the exact location where you intend to build.

Each unit has its living room to the left of its own entrance and foyer. There is a living room - dining room expanse of 31' in the home to the left of the party wall, about the same to the right. You can see that this party wall extends as a six-foot-high brick wall when it moves outdoors, thus serving as a decorative and practical separation of the two rear terraces. Since the chimney is conveniently located between the two terraces, individual barbecues can be built if desired. Both kitchens overlook and lead to the terraces. While the kitchens can be entered from the rear of the house, it is not necessary to do so, the traffic pattern permitting movement to them from the main entrances without crossing any other rooms.

AN ADVANTAGE

Another advantage of the traffic design is that any one can go from the outside directly to the stairs leading to the bedrooms. Each unit has three bedrooms and a sizable bathroom. The continuous party wall gives excellent sound control by itself, but added sound insurance is built in by the back - to - back closet arrangement.

There are 1305 square feet of living area in the left-hand unit, 1356 square feet in the other. However, the owner might prefer the left-hand unit because of the direct approach to the front door. These statistics, by the way, do not include the garages, terraces and porticoes.

For the exterior, architect York suggests wood shingles with some brick veneer under the front portico. The masonry has been minimized in Design H-61, primarily to create an exterior which looks like one found in the suburbs rather than one with urban characteristics. The addition of brick or stone veneer will not detract from the elevation should local preference be strong for masonry.

COLOR SCHEME

As for a color scheme, it is advantageous to do the entire unit in a monochramatic decor, using white sidewalls and trim, depending upon the masonry for complement, and dark shutters and roof for accent. Should dark sidewall shingles be used, the roof, trim and shutters should be white. In any event, the front elevation will have a strong horizontal line because of the portico cornice, a device used to create an appearance of length.

An unusual House of the Week, we think.

Yule Ideas Presented

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

The Christmas season is fast approaching. There's not any need for me to write anything to you, Mrs. Homemaker, today about gardening. You are too, too busy. About the only job that you have time to do is to get the leaves raked, but remember don't burn them. Save them for your compost heap.

We had a lovely meeting with 150 homemakers this past week in a demonstration making preparation for Christmas. Donna M. Moore, our Associate Home Demonstration Agent, prepared two lovely door decorations and Mrs. Pearl Bower, of the Colony Club, made a white poinsettia tree. Mrs. Floyd Kent, of Thrifty Homemaker, a traditional red and green decoration of candles and wrapping paper of green and red. Mrs. Frank Buce, of Better Homemaker, displayed several of her Christmas decorations consisting of Christmas wreaths made from fruit, stockings, yule log decoration and others.

Your Home Demonstration agent displayed decorations of wreaths, made from net, Christmas trees made from bottle caps, plastic ribbon, chicken wire and ribbons and decorations made from coat hangers. All these were on display to give homemakers ideas.

In addition, your Home Demonstration Agent demonstrated making cookies and candies in preparation for Christmas. Recipe books, prepared by the Associate Home Demonstration and Home Demonstration Agent were given out. If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want a copy you may call your Agricultural Extension Office. This is one of the services furnished free of cost to you.

BUBBLING MOTH BALLS

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want the bubbling moth ball decoration for Christmas, here is the recipe. If you use a large snifter which holds about three quarts of water, add three tablespoons of citric acid crystals (can be bought at your drugstore) and three tablespoons soda and stir well. Then drop moth balls into this.

If they do not start moving soon, add more soda and acid crystals. If you have a special color scheme, add food coloring to the water. The moth balls will bubble approximately 30 minutes. To continue the bubbling effect keep the crystals and soda handy and add to the water. When the party is over pour off the mixture and save moth balls to use again.

COLOR IN FIREPLACE

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are fortunate and own a home with a wood burning fireplace then you can really add a note of interest during the coming holidays. This has been a favorite over the years. Treat pine cones rolled newspaper or soft wood with a particular chemical to give colored flames in the fireplace. This is the recipe. Dissolve one pound of chemical in one gallon of water and soak wood for an hour then dry thoroughly. Copper sulphate produces blue flame, boric acid green and strontium nitrate — red.

NUTS

This is another favorite for homemakers during holiday season: How many unshelled nuts to make a pound of shelled nuts. So clip this Mrs. Homemaker and keep with your Christmas recipes. Two pounds of unshelled walnuts give one pound of shelled; three pounds of unshelled pecans yield one pound of nuts and four pounds of almonds will give one pound of shelled nuts. One pound of shelled nut meats measure three to three one half cups. Large pieces measure less. Of course, you know this information is just an average. The quality will certainly determine the amount of shelled meats, but thought this information could help.

A THOUGHT

Let's remember to keep Christ in the Christmas of 1964.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Artistic Yule Motifs, Ideas

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Christmas Designs and Ideas," all made by one very artistic person, Mrs. W. A. Kunze, president of the Clark-lea Garden Club of Bastrop, were presented for the Fifth District Garden Center's last Wednesday program, for your pleasure. There were 10 outstanding works of art. I hope you were lucky enough to see them since I will not attempt to describe each one, but will try to tell you about the ones that were left in the Center at Sears for close viewing.

Mrs. Kunze explained that color was one of the most important elements of design in the Christmas arrangement. This means that color plays such a leading role we can go all out with it at this season of decorating. One of the leading colors is gold. Another, of course, is red or green. Silver, too, plays an important part in glamourizing. One design that played color as it's symbol was one featuring the brown wooden, hand carved Madonna. For a background, Mrs. Kunze used the basic straw wreath (usually found at the florist) onto which she wired cedar at one point with small brown cones. For glamour she placed three tin can roses within the cedar. The whole design was placed on a brown wooden base. The brown, Mrs. Kunze explained, symbolizes hospitality. Of course, we know that the Madonna created a quiet, prayerful mood.

COLOR SCHEME

Typical red, green, white color scheme was carried out in the "quickie" design made by using a straw basket for a container (sprayed bright red). Fresh magnolia leaves on small branches formed a line in the baket. These were picked into oasis within the container. A row of white mums was placed within the line. Two playful pixies in red and green felt were perched on the handle of the basket. This could be made at the last minute for a colorful decoration, thus a quickie.

An old railroad lantern proved to be a clever container for a table design. Painted dull black first, then a red velvet bow added to the handle and a red candle placed inside, this is a real conversational design.

LINE FOR DESIGN

White plastic fern created a line for the design. Red velvet nosegays were placed at the basic part of the design. Two red birds were perched within the line, adding life and color. This lantern would be ideal for the entrance decoration, a welcome to the home.

The porcelainized posies have their place in the Christmas decorations this season. Mrs. Kunze made a lovely blue and green color scheme using the blue rambler roses for the vertical line in the ornate bottle container made of a juice bottle and covered with the broken glass in colors of blue and green.

This, too, is a new idea the flower arrangers are enjoying now. Take two bottles of the desired color (green, blue or amber, perhaps; and place them horizontally in a shallow pan. Now place the pan in the oven at 450 degrees for about 30 minutes. While the bottles are baking make a large pitcher of ice water. Take the pan from the oven and place it in the sink. Cover with two thicknesses of cloth (towels) and pour the ice water over this. The bottles will crack into interesting shapes and will be surprisingly smooth. These odd shapes of glass are glued onto the bottle container — thus, your new and glamourous bottle. It is fun to plan different color schemes and shapes of containers. Just be careful to cover when cracking it with the ice water.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Late Bulb Plantings

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

It is not at all too late to plant daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, crocuses, chinodoxas, grape-hyacinths and many other spring-flowering bulbs. Late planted bulbs, if they are not too dried out, will come along just after the earlier planted ones and the already established ones and lengthen the flowering season in the garden.

Bulbs bought this late in the season will probably be very dried out, but you can squeeze them firmly enough to tell whether or not they are sound at the heart. A good soaking in a pail of water overnight will help them to plump out and will encourage roots to start right off as soon as they are in the ground.

PLANTING DEPTH

Late planted bulbs should always be set at a good depth — never planted shallow. It takes these dry bulbs some time to recover their moisture and get started, and they must not be set so shallow that they will have to contend with freezing soil. Most of us plant bulbs too shallow in our gardens where the bulbs might be set down deep out of the reach of any digging that may go on above them amongst perennials and annuals. One must be sure that the soil is rich at least four and better six to eight inches below the bottoms of bulbs, so dig your beds deep.

As we have mentioned before in the column, the little corms of crocuses like to be down six inches in the ground. Where there is trouble with squirrels that dig up and eat crocuses, the six inches of soil over the corms will prevent the squirrels from reaching them. Rabbits are more destructive of crocuses than squirrels, however. For some reason, rabbits seem to favor crocus foliage, sparse and narrow as it is, over most everything else in a flower garden. If the ordinary chemicals that the seed stores offer to keep rabbits away do not work then get some dried blood and keep sprinkling it about flower beds during the winter.

This has always worked for old-timers when it was repeatedly scattered about in very small amounts about once a month. In fact, persistent use of dried blood will usually drive rabbits completely out of an area.

U.S.-Brazil Treaty On Extradition Near Effect

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A "not welcome" sign for American fugitives will be officially tacked up on Brizil's portals Thursday.

A long-delayed extradition treaty between the two countries goes into effect then, stripping Brazil of the last of its qualties as a paradise for well-heeled U. S. outlaws.

"Any more fugitives who come here will be nuts," says one U. S. official.

Under the treaty, Brazil is obliged to return any U. S. citizen accused or convicted of committing, trying to commit or participating in any of 32 crimes. These range from murder to piracy, robbery and bribery.

The United States is likewise obliged to return Brazilian citizens for these offenses.

Neither country need return one of its own citizens, a person under penalty of death or in danger of being put to death for his crime, or persons accused of political crimes. Brazil does not have the death penalty and insisted on that clause.

A combination of the lack of an extradition treaty, Brazil's warm climate, its easy-going people and frequently cooperative police has made Brazil a haven for wanted Americans.

One source estimates that in the peak years as many as seven or eight fugitives a year found their way to Brazil.

This average has dwindled as Brazil has slowly lost its status as an extradition-proof paradise. After a wave of unfavorable publicity over some big-time American fugitives who came here, Brazilian police decided to do something about the situation.

While they legally couldn't ship anybody home, the police found they were able to persuade many to accept a voluntarily one-way trip to New York instead of a possible jail sentence here.

Thus persuaded were two of the best-known fugitives.

One of them was Earl Belle, whose wonderworld of stock manipulations turned into a nightmare of fraud charges. Belle fled here in July 1958 and returned home a year ago after being implicated in a complicated bad-check ring. He pleaded guilty to banking and fraud charges at Pittsburgh and is serving a 2½-year term.

Lowell McAfee Birrell elected to return last April 23 after being here five years. He fled here after a $60-million stock manipulation empire crumbled.

When he first came to Brazil he was a free spender but he was broke when police convinced him life would be better in the United States. Four men indicted with him pleaded guilty in New York last May, and the government said they would testify against Birrell. No date has been set for the trial.

Others persuaded to return have included dope pushers, murderers, bank robbers and embezzlers. Most of these cases have gotten little publicity.

Many fugitives come here hastily without the proper preparation, money or legal documents. They run into language problems and can't get jobs. When the money runs out, many return on their own with no official intervention.

This was the case for Edward M. Gilbert, who caught a Brazil-bound plane after converting to his own use nearly $2 million of the funds of E.L. Bruce Co. He pleaded guilty in New York but sentencing was deferred while he cooperates in a Securities and Exchange Commission inquiry.

A few fugitives remain in Brazil but police say they have all under surveillance and that they can be picked up momentarily if extradition proceedings are stated.

New Rights Jury May Be Called

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — An entirely new federal grand jury —not the one which recessed after hearing evidence in the slaying of three civil rights workers — could be called for a new probe of the killing, but not before next year.

Under Federal Court Procedure Rule 6-A, it is possible for "one or more grand jury to be convened at such time as the public interest requires."

The grand jury now in session met in Biloxi in October and heard evidence in the slayings, but declined to return an indictment. If the jury is called back into session, new evidence would be introduced, it was learned Saturday.

Only U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox has the power to summon the federal grand jury for the Southern District of Mississippi and he left his office after saying earlier he would call no jury this month.

The Justice Department said it would seek jury indictments, therefore, the next official step hings on Judge Cox's action when he receives the department request.

U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter in Meridian refused Thursday to admit an FBI statement of a confession as evidence on which 21 men could be bound over to the jury in connection with the killings.

The commissioner ruled the confession, reported by the department to be signed and implicating the other men, was "hearsay."

The Justice Department then dropped the charges against the men arrested in the slaying of Michael Schwerner and Andrew Goodman, both white and of New York, and James Chaney, a Meridian Negro.

Acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach said in Washington after Miss Carter's move that immediate grand jury action would be sought.

Sources indicated Saturday the case evidence — once on record in federal court — will be turned over to the Neshoba County Grand Jury which meets Feb. 1.

The Neshoba County jury could return an indictment on charges of murder, but the federal jury could only act on a charge of a civil rights violation, since murder is not a federal crime.

U.S. Pilot Dies In Plane Crash

MANILA (AP) — A U.S. Marine Corps pilot was killed when his F8 crusader jet crashed on Mindoro Island Friday, the U.S. Navy reported Saturday.

RED MEETING

Soviets Again Snub China

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Soviet leaders disdained Red China Saturday by calling for preparations to begin March 1 for a world Communist conference.

What the Kremlin calls a unity meeting has been condemned by Peking as intended to split the international Communist movement.

It seems certain to make permanent and formal any rift between Moscow and Peking, leaving two competing centers of communism with different approaches to world problems.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda announced that the editorial commission to prepare documents for the world conference would begin meeting March 1. Communist parties of 26 countries are commission members but at least six, including Red China, are expected to boycott meeting.

Pravda did not mention a date for the conference to which the more than 80 Communist parties in the world would be invited.

The successors to Nikita Khrushchev issued the March 1 call after a pause to consolidate their support. Khrushchev had announced last August the commission would meet Dec. 15, to prepare for a conference "about the middle of the coming year."

A number of Russia's East European allies, such as Poland, were reported by Communist sources to have argued with the men who ousted Khrushchev Oct. 14 to make another attempt to patch up the quarrel with China. But talks here last month with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai left no indication that the two sides had moderated their bitter dispute.

Instead, the Soviet Union continued to reiterate points often assailed by China, among them desire for peaceful settlement of problems with the West, more consumer goods at home and cautious help to foster Communist revolution abroad.

According to reports from Peking through Western diplomatic channels, the Soviet Communist party wrote to the Chinese about two weeks ago. In a letter dripping with hopes of unity—in phrases recommended by such allies as Poland—the Russians proposed the March preparatory meeting. These sources said the Chinese spurned the suggestion.

An unconfirmed report in Moscow said the Soviet party's Central Committee met in secrecy this week to consider the China situation. It decided to push ahead.

Whether the report was true or not, Pravda curtly declared: "On the basis of mutual consultations conducted among fraternal parties with the aim of a better preparation for the meeting of the editorial commission and the international conference of Communist and workers parties, the first session of the editorial commission is set for March 1, 1965."

There had never been an announcement that the Dec. 15 session was postponed, although this became known while Chou was here a month ago.

Countries that have announced they will not attend a preparatory session are China, North Korea, Albania and Japan. Indonesia and North Viet Nam have indicated they also will stay away. Romania and Cuba are officially undecided. Romanian spokesmen have indicated the answer probably will be no.

Police Here Book Suspect In Burglary

Officers said they noticed a window broken on the south side of the building and upon entering found that four vending machines had been broken into.

A police spokesman said officers later arrested Alvin James Darnell, 37, of 1604 S. 10th St., in connection with the burglary. Police said Darnell is an ex - convict who has served time in Arkansas and Louisiana State Penitentiaries for similar offenses.

When apprehended he had in his possession about $94 and a fifth of whiskey which police said was missing from the bar.

The burglary of Henrietta W. Johnson Recreation Center on Burk Jones Lane, reported as a theft Monday, was reported solved Saturday.

Police said investigation revealed that three Negro juveniles had stolen an employe's keys, gained entrance to the building, and made off with about $30. Police recovered $24.

Other investigations Saturday included two lawn chairs missing from Alcoholics Anonymous on South Grand Street, three junk car batteries reported stolen from L & M Motors and an official complaint from Seven-Eleven Stores in the city that several Christmas trees left outside the stores overnight have been stolen.

About 12:35 a.m. Monroe police booked a 31 - year - old Negro, Clyde Brown of 1306½ Rear Pine St., on charges of reckless driving and driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. Brown was arrested at 1900 Breard St. Bond was set at $435.

A 23 - year - old Slagle resident, Norman Ross Cooley, was booked about 2:07 a.m. on the same charges in addition to charges of damage to property and disturbing the peace.

About 3:07 a.m. Robert Sewell Jr., Negro of 3919 Segrest Mercy St., was booked on an aggravated battery charge. He was arrested at his residence. Bond was set at $500.

Dean Walsworth, 19 - year - old West Monroyan of 1015½ N. 8th St., was booked in Monroe about 3:30 p.m. after his arrest at Sixth and Pine Streets on charges of reckless driving and damage to property. Bond was set at $500.

About 8:50 p.m. Saturday West Monroe police booked Ruth P. Coates of 1305 Hinkle Dr., West Monroe, on charges of DWI and reckless driving. She was arrested at Mill and North Seventh Streets.

Sailor, Filipino Hit Live Wires

MANILA (AP) — A U.S. Navy sailor and a Filipino were electrocuted when they ran inside a power house while seeking refuge from a storm, the Navy said Saturday.

A Navy spokesman said the men dashed into an electric relay station on Subic Bay Naval Base Friday during the storm and came into contact with live wires. The building was a facility for supplying electric power to ships at berth.

The American was not immediately identified.

NEWS ANALYSIS

More Homework In Order Before Cong Path Bombed

WASHINGTON (AP) — All this talk about blocking Communist supply routes to the Viet Cong operating in South Viet Nam with bombs indicates one thing:

Somebody has not done his homework on the effectiveness of air assault against supply lines in Korea — or World War II, for that matter.

As any Korean veteran can tell you, the Red Chinese sustained a million-man army at the far end of a 300-mile supply route in the teeth of the best aerial effort the United States could mount.

In World War II the best the Air Force could achieve was a temporary isolation of local battlefields from resupply and reinforcements.

There is no reason to believe at this point that mere bombing of the Viet Cong's main supply route through Laos, known as the Ho Chi Minh Trail, would be any more effective than was the so-called "Operation Strangle" during the Korean War.

The only time-tested and completely effective method of interdicting a supply route is to put men on the ground astride it. Next best is to be close enough to keep the route under constant artillery pressure.

Another method to strike at troops' supplies is to use air power to destroy the production centers — in this case it would be North Viet Nam —but the Germans proved in World War II this gambit could be at least partially checkmated by dispersion and camouflage and by going underground.

The United States announced last Friday in Saigon that joint plans were being prepared with the government of South Viet Nam "to restrain the mounting infiltration of men and equipment by the Hanoi regime in support of the Viet Cong."

With the assistance of unidentifiable State Department officials here this has been widely interpreted by some to mean air attack against the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos.

It seems clear that the people putting out that sort of information have made scant study of past wars.

For example, in the spring of 1951 Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, 8th Army commander in Korea, ordered an all-out aerial campaign to separate the Chinese front line troops from their supply base in Manchuria.

There were eight highways leading from Manchuria south towards the 38th Parallel. For a solid month, aircraft from the Air Force, Marines and Navy plastered all of them, destroying tunnels, highway bridges and passes, pock-marking the roadbeds and searching out motor vehicles.

Building Permits Here Past Week Total $64,030

The insurance of building permits in Monroe for the week ending Dec. 11 showed a sharp decline with only seven permits written, amounting to $64,030, of the building inspector's office, reported.

The largest permit issued was to Worthen Clinic for the construction of a one - story plaster (stucco) building to be used for a clinic at 1201 Royal at a cost of $33,000.

Other activity shows that permits went to Georgia Street Nursing Home, addition of one-story brick and block building for a kitchen - nursing home at 2700 Georgia, $8,730; H. M. James, addition of one-story frame building for hobby shop at residence at 1403 N. Second, $2,000; A. C. Harper, addition of one - story frame building for carport and storage at 1602 S. Fourth, $900; J. M. Gilstrap, addition of one-story frame building at residence at 1902 DeSiard Drive, $2,400; J. Douglas, construction of one - story brick veneer building at residence at 1910 John Circle, $16,000; and James Turner, addition of one - story frame building at 1615 Rogers, $1,000.

CHRISTMAS GIFT SHOPPERS ADVISED ABOUT REFUNDS

Don't sign contracts until all important verbal promises made by the salesman are included in the written contract.

Do . . remember that a store is not required to give refunds or make exchanges unless the merchandise is defective or misrepresented. Inferior merchandise is not necessarily defective and evidence of misrepresentation is essential.

Do . . Give to charity but give wisely. To be certain a charity dollar goes to a legitimate charitable organization find out the facts first — call the BBB.

Don't be a sucker for unordered merchandise schemes. Recipients are not obliged to pay or to return the item. If the sender insists on payment write him to come get his article.

Do . . avoid unnecessary exchanges and returns. Where permissable returns and exchanges should be done promptly.

STORE POLICIES

1. Some stores follow the policy that all sales are final. They will neither refund money nor give credit slips.
2. Other stores follow the policy of refusing to make cash refund, but will give a credit slip which may be applied on the purchase of other merchandise.
3. Some stores will make refunds because it is their policy to do so, not because they are required to. It is a "PRIVILEGE" they extend to their customers. It is a "PRIVILEGE" that should not be abused by needless return of merchandise, which adds tremendously to the cost of doing business, and thus penalizes all customers.

STAMPS

First Issues By Republic Of Zambia

The Republic of Zambia, formerly Northern Rhodesia, has just achieved independence and has issued its first postage stamps.

The 3 pence shows Dr. K. D. Kaunda, president of Zambia, looking up at the Eastern Cataract of the mighty Victoria Falls. The 6 pence depicts the College of Further Education symbolizing the country's desire to provide an education for all the poeple. The 1 shilling 3

Zambia is the ninth African dependency of Britain to emerge as an indepdent sovereign state. The position of Barotseland within independent Northern Rhodesia was settled by an agreement between the prime minister of Northern Rhodesia and the Litunga of Barotseland in May 1964.

The British connection with Zambia began over 100 years ago with David Livingstone's journeys to the upper Zambezi. Cecil Rhodes' British South Africa Company laid the foundations of the orderly administrations of the country at the end of the 19th Century. The educational and medical work of the missionaries contributed much to the advancement of the populace.

Canada has issued a new 5-cent stamp commemorating the royal visit of Queen Elizabeth to Charlottetown and Quebec. Also announced by the Canadian postal authorities was the issuance of an 8-cent stamp in blue of the same design as its regular 7-center. The increase became mandatory when Canada upped its airmail rate to 8 cents and is the first such denomination to be issued since Sept. 16, 1964.

RUBY DEE AT STRATFORD

Miss Dee is the first Negro actress in major assignment at Stratford since the group began in 1955. Earle Hayman, however, enacted the title role in 1957 in "Othello" and also appeared in "The Merchant of Venice."

AROUND WORLD

NEW YORK (AP) — Shelia Smith, who emerged on the entertainment scene in "To Broadway with Love" at the World's Fair last summer, has been signed for the starring role in the Australian production of "Fade Out - Fade In."

CURTAIN CALL

By JACQUE BIEGENWALD

With only one performance - tonight's - left for "Sunday in New York", we urge those of our membership who haven't seen this contemporary comedy to attend. The audiences for the first six shows were most enthusiastic with their applause and laughter, the "Good show" and "You were wonderful!" falling thick and fast upon the cast in the Green Room after each final curtain.

The box office at Strauss Playhouse will be open from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. today for reservations. The number is 323-1235.

Eula Davenport, who had been reading book for "Sunday in New York," was called away the last week of rehearsals and Emma Ullman came to the rescue of the cast by filling in those last crucial days. For our readers who may be unfamiliar with the term, "reading book," it means the dedicated soul who sits on the front row of the auditorium night after night, playbook in hand, and scribbles away in the dark, making notes of the director's stage directions, which most often must often be changed as fast as they're written.

PROJECTOR

We're grateful to Tom McCann for the loan of his projector during rehearsals and the run of this play. Items like this which are not part of Little Theater's equipment are always needed and we appreciate the generosity of our friends who never fail to respond when we send out a call for props.

This past Friday night had several distinguished guests in the audience. The five district Governors of Louisiana of Lions International and their wives made up a gay party, part of a two-state tour, meeting first at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Kettering of Monroe. Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ansardi and their daughter, Wanda, of Meraux; Mr. and Mrs. Don Bailey of Lafayette, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miller of Port Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarance Reeves of Minden, and the Ketterings.

Also driving over from Minden were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hall. Mrs. Hall has directed several Little Theater productions in Minden.

CAST CHANGES

Some changes in the cast for "Greensleeves' Magic" are announced today by Executive Director Lonny Fraze. Ken Garrison will be playing the King, John Bradley the Sailor, and Marty Mullens will be among the peasants who form the chorus.

Lonny called on capable Jeannie Taylor to act as choreographer for "Greensleeves' Magic." Jeannie began rehearsing her group this past week in what looked to the casual observer like a medieval version of a good, old-fashioned barn dance. The "peasants" seemed to be having a rousing good time learning their Gothic heel-and-toe, too.

PERFORMANCES

"Greensleeves' Magic" will play four performances, all matinees, on Dec. 26-29. Begin making plans now for your holiday parties and treats for those special children on your list. Another thought, a ticket to this delightful bit of fantasy would make a grand stocking stuffer for some little theater buff.

"Snowflakes the size of fifty - cent pieces," was the way Richard Clark described in a recent letter to Bob Evans, the view outside his train window on the way to St. Moritz, Switzerland. Monroe Little Theater's former director and his wife, Pat, were on the last leg of their three - month holiday in Europe. He went on to say that Switzerland reminded him of a picture post card, a land of "blue water, rugged land and friendly people."

Richard and Pat were particularly impressed with Greece, though, saying it was the highlight of the trip. From Switzerland, they were headed for a week in Paris, a week of theatergoing in London and then the plane trip home.

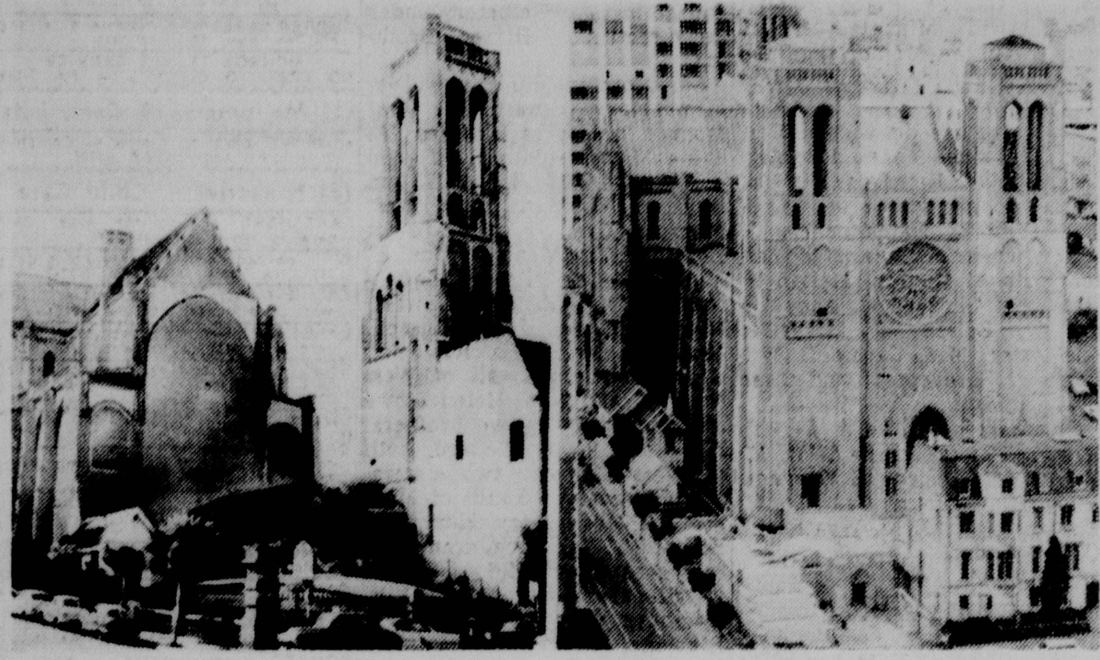
There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Have you listened in the council of God?

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, FA 3-3660, FA 3-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.



GRACE CATHEDRAL in San Francisco, was a long time in taking on its present appearance as shown at right. Work on the project was started after the 1906 earthquake destroyed its 43-year-old predecessor. Economic depression halted work in 1932. Work resumed in 1961, moved into its final stages this year. At left is the Episcopal cathedral after work stopped in 1932, unfinished and with a temporary wall. It is a concrete and steel structure. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

NOW HAS MANY OPPONENTS

Church Council's Initial Work Not Controversial

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In December, 1950, leaders of 29 Protestant and Orthodox denominations met in Cleveland and established an organization called "The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A."

During the 14 years of its existence, the National Council of Churches, hereinafter referred to as the NCC, has developed into the nation's largest cooperative religious organization. It now includes 31 denominations with 40 million members.

Along the way, the NCC also managed to become an exceedingly controversial body. The very mention of its name is enough to make some conservative church members wax choleric. Foes of the NCC are particularly numerous in the South.

At the recent general convention of the Episcopal Church in St. Louis, Southern delegates made a strenuous but unsuccessful effort to pull the denomination out of the NCC. Similar withdrawal moves have been made — and defeated—at the national conventions of several other major Protestant bodies which have sizable constituencies in the South, including the Methodist Church, the Presbyterian U.S. Church, and the Disciples of Christ. The issue doesn't arise in the Southern Baptist convention, because it has never joined the NCC.

STRONG OPPOSITION

Opposition to the NCC is so strong in some Southern congregations that they have taken steps to withhold funds from their parent denominations until assured that none of their money will wind up in the NCC's treasury.

The NCC operates on a budget of about $14 million a year, contributed mostly by its member denominations. About 95 per cent of this money is spent on religious and service activities that the member denominations used to perform individually but now carry on cooperatively. For example, the NCC's overseas relief department, Church World Service, distributes food, clothing and medicine to needy families in 50 nations. The division of Christian educationers prepares Sunday school materials, especially audio-visual aids which are very costly for any denomination to produce on its own. The division of foreign missions coordinates the work of 70 mission boards in 65 countries. The home missions division provides an interdenominational ministry to migrant farm workers and visitors to national parks.

Had the NCC stuck to such activities as these, it would never have become controversial. But from the outset, it has also sought to serve as "a voice of Christian conscience" on social issues. It has been particularly outspoken on race relations.

OPPOSED TO BELIEF

In June, 1952—two years before the Supreme Court's famous ruling on school segregation — the NCC's policy-making General Board declared that segregation is "diametrically opposed to what Christians believe" about the brotherhood of man and the dignity of every individual as a child of God.

Since that time, the 270-member General Board, which meets three times a year, and the 700-member General Assembly, which meets every three years, have repeatedly put the NCC on record in favor of speedy and total elimination of racial barriers.

Last year, the NCC formed a "Religion and Race Commission" to stimulate action by churches and church members in support of the Negro's drive for equality. This commission lobbied openly and effectively for the enactment of the civil rights bill.

Particularly distressing to some Southern church members were the NCC's role in training the hundreds of civil rights workers who went into Mississippi last summer, and its participation in a project to bring religious workers from other na ions into Mississippi as "Missionaries for Racial Justice."

TOUCHY ISSUES

Segregation is only one of the toucny issues on which the NCC has taken a forthright stand. It also came out against right-to-work laws, and said that government programs of medicare for the aged may be necessary if voluntary health insurance fails to meet needs. Although the NCC itself has never advocated recognition of Red China, a "study conference" which met under its auspices in 1958 did say that U. S. interests would be served by opening a diplomatic channel to Peiping.

Denominational leaders have also suggested that the NCC concentrate on speaking to the churches rather than for them. This advice is apparently being heeded.

But the NCC is not retreating from the stand on segregation which is the principal concern of many of its critics. Last week, the General Board met at Des Moines, Iowa, and instructed its Religion and Race Commission to carry on the fight for racial justice in "ghetto areas" of Northern cities, as well as in the South.

NEW RULE IN GREECE

ATHENS (AP) — Hereafter Greek clergymen may not drive cars.

The 85 - year - old Archbishop Chrysostomos, Patriarch of Greece, has sent out an order saying: "It is strictly forbidden for clergymen who have been driving cars up to now to continue driving. It is also forbidden to rent or drive cars belonging to friends."

The clergymen were told they must use public transportation, or ride in chauffeur-driven automobiles.

TOO MANY TESTS?

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Three Catholic educators of the Louisville Archdiocese believe parochial students are put through too many tests of various kinds at school.

"We give so many tests that children don't fear them at all," said the Rev. Thomas Casper.

"And sometimes they don't study hard for exams when teachers wish they would," added the assistant secretary of the Catholic School Board.

Agreeing with that comment, the Rev. J. J. Butler questioned whether it is good or bad that students take tests "without any worry at all." He is an English teacher at Trinity High School.

Mrs. Lillian Mann, college supervisor of elementary education at Catherine Spalding College, said tests lose their significance through over - use.

FIRST BLOW

OWINGSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Robert I. Collins won't forget his first day as new minister of the Owingsville Christian Church.

Thirty minutes after reporting he was moving his baggage into the parsonage but forgot to duck while going through a low doorway.

TENT TO SANCTUARY

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP) — Stained glass windows have replaced the canvas flaps and guy - ropes that used to surround the Rev. Jack G. Conely and his flock, the Central Baptist church.

The preacher and his congregation — about 80 strong — held their first service in a tent in 1953. This June, Conley and a membership swollen to 200 dedicated a new spired main sanctuary and retired an interim church structure to use as an education building.

Cantata Slated At Church Here

A cantata, "The Wonder of Christmas," by John W. Peterson, will be presented today at the 11 a.m. worship service at Memorial Methodist Church on Sherrouse Ave., it was announced by the Rev. Lloyd Williams, pastor.

Mrs. Estelle Sanders will direct the cantata, Mrs. Irene Nelson will be organist, and Mrs. Linda Callender, pianist.

HARRY S. SMITH

Lecture Set On Christian Science Here

"Practical Christianity" is the subject of a lecture to be given 8 p.m. Monday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 224 Auburn Ave.

The speaker will be Harry S. Smith, a recognized teacher and practitioner of Christian Science in Atlanta, Ga.

He formerly was the regional sales manager there for a national firm, but left the position in 1956 to devote full time to the Christian Science healing practice.

He currently is on tour as a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

He will deal in the discussion with "How to let loose the power of Christianity in human life."

Full Schedule Of Christmas Presentations

A full schedule of Christmas season programs and activities has been arranged at Southside Methodist Church, 1623 South 4th St., it was announced by the Rev. Lea Joyner, pastor.

A "Festival of Christmas and Birthday of The Christ Child Celebration" will be held today during the period of 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Children, youth, and adult choirs will take part, the film, "O Holy Night," will be shown, and the Nativity scene will be depicted by members of the Youth Department. Gifts for the Christ Child will be placed on the "Enchanted Tree."

DAILY SHOWING

Daily during the period of December 20-27, between the hours of 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., an outside movie will be shown on "The Spirit of Christmas," and carols will be played around the Christmas Center which includes a miniature church and manger scene. The center is located on the side of the Educational Annex facing Temple Drive and South 5th Street. There is ample parking space so persons may sit in their cars and watch the film.

Sunday, December 20, a Christmas cantata, "Behold the Star," by Peery, will be presented by the Chancel Choir, directed by Jack Hesketh, with Mrs. Dorothy Stewart as organist.

December 24 at 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m., there will be Christmas Eve candlelight communion services. The Chancel Choir, directed by Jack Hesketh, with Mrs. Dorothy Stewart as organist, will sing the responses at the 7:30 p.m. service, and the Altar Choir, directed by Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moore, will sing at the 11 p.m. service.

MY ANSWER

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Some religious people think I'm wrong because I believe everyone is good at heart, and that to me means they are religious. Am I wrong? G.F.

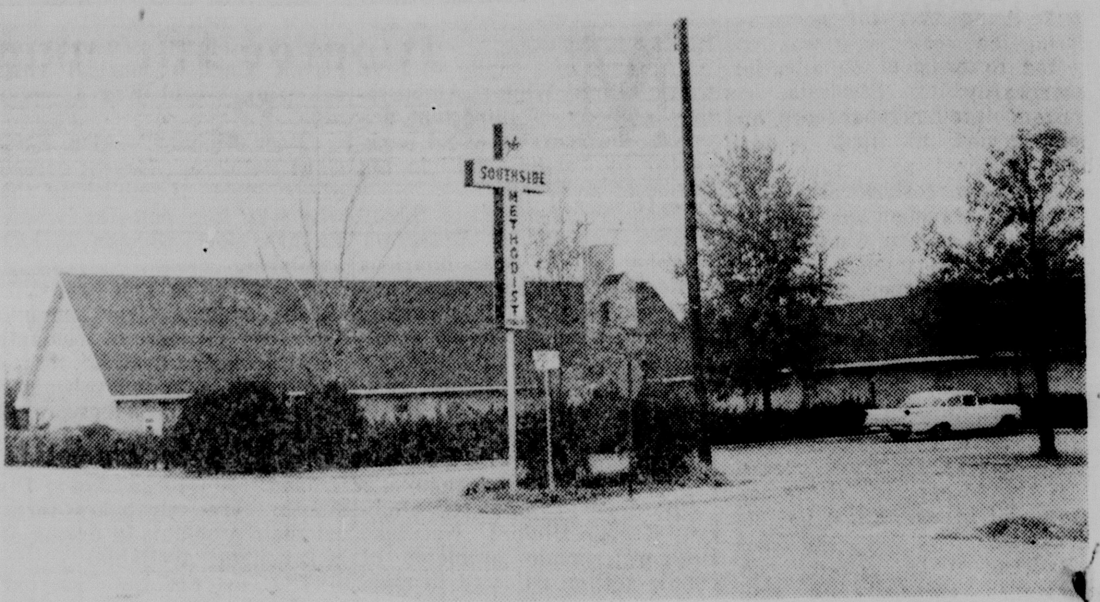
ANSWER: I'm afraid you came to the wrong source if you expect comfort in your argument. We often hear people say, "They act bad, but they are good at heart." God judges us by our actions, and not by shallow sentiment.

He also lays down a principle. He says, "The heart of man is desperately wicked and deceitful above all things." The best of us are capable of murder, embezzlement, and larceny. It was for this reason that Christ came to the cross — to redeem us and rescue us from our lostness. If we had all been 'good at heart' Christ wouldn't have been given as a sacrifice for the world's sins.

It doesn't matter so much what 'some religious people' think of you — but God's estimate is all important. He has said, (and this includes you) "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." He sent a Saviour to save us from sin, and wise is the person who accepts Him as such.

SOUTHSIDE METHODIST, MONROE

Continuous Growth In Membership And Facilities Recorded By Church



Southside Methodist Church, 1623 South 4th St., Monroe.

The Southside Methodist Church located at 1623 South Fourth Street, has had continuous growth since its organization on July 13, 1952. The organizational meeting was held in the Missouri Pacific Booster Hall on Ouachita Avenue, with 126 charter members.

"The first unit of the present building was occupied on September 1, 1952 and dedicated in the same conference year, free of debt, thanks to the help of our Lord and many interested friends," said the Rev. Lea Joyner, who has been minister of the church since its beginning. "Due to the phenomenal growth in these 12 years, it has been necessary for us to add four additional units to the church building, and now in this 13th year, we expect to add the sixth unit, a Children's Building."

Continuing, she said, "The Church, as we see it today, speaks for the spiritual, numerical, and financial growth witnessed through these years. From the very beginning the people in this church have felt the importance of prayer and in a great sense have depended upon God to help them meet their needs. Because of this, there has developed a spiritual feeling and warm kinship among our people. We feel that there are many things we are unable to do here, but there is one gift all of us have, the ability to be friendly. It is our desire to make people who visit us and worship with us, feel at home and feel wanted. The able leadership of our bishops, Dr. Paul E. Martin and now Dr. Aubrey G. Walton, and our district pastors, Rev. W. H. Giles, Rev. James T. Harris, Rev. George Harbuck, and Rev. Ed Haug, has been an encouragement, inspiration, and most helpful experience in the total life of our church."

NUMERICAL GROWTH

The numerical growth speaks for itself. In 12 years the church received 1,675 members, with 724 of these being on profession of faith. This is an average of 58 first commitments to the Lord each year.

"Of course, as in every community, many of our people have moved away and some have gone on to their reward," said Rev. Joyner. "We have lost 581, leaving us a total membership to date of 1,094. The church school enrollment is 435. This includes 20 church school classes in the morning, five classes in the evening fellowship with study groups for all ages from kindergarten to older youth, home roll members, scouts, and a daily kindergarten which is in its eighth year of operation. All of our classes are adequately staffed and the morning and evening groups on Sunday use literature recommended by the Methodist Church. The music program in this church has always been strong. We have six choirs, each directed by a different member of the church and each taking their turn serving in the regular church services. The quartet has inspired and helped many people in this area as well as the surrounding communities."

The church has not had any one outstanding year financially, but each year it has been able to meet its obligations in full and add consistently to its buildings and property. It has always accepted all conference askings and participated in the extra programs recommended by its leaders. To date, the property has a valuation of approximately $201,000, with an indebtedness of $16,000.

LAY LEADERS

An outstanding trait of the Southside Methodist Church is in its lay leadership. The willingness to work hard and cooperate with the church program, to give of themselves freely. The desire to have a spirit of harmony within the church prevails in the life of its members. The visitation program, both among the membership as well as the newcomers and prospects for the church, is active. Due to the lack of funds, it has been necessary for the members to assume different places of leadership and responsibilities that are ordinarily on a salary basis. Even this has developed a closeness among the membership and developed leadership unrealized before, said the pastor.

In addition to the work within the church, the people are very active. The laity in the church serve two out - post missions, visit regularly the eight convalescent homes and three hospitals in the Twin Cities, and work in the detention home and jail extension. This church has had district leadership selected from its ranks, both in the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Wesleyan Service Guild, Methodist Youth Fellowship, and Lay program. The Conference layman of the year was chosen from Southside three years ago. A feature story about one of its members was written in the Methodist Story last year.

The church is fully organized according to the Discipline of the Methodist Church. Each of the committees and commissions recommended by the church plus others that are deemed helpful in the church's particular situation are functioning. An active Woman's Society of Christian Service, Wesleyan Service Guild, Golden Age group, Altar Guild, Methodist Men, Fishermen's Club (visitation group), and Shepherd's Club, all add to the effectiveness of the church program. The leaders in the congregation are of the opinion that participation of a large number of members helps to do a more effective work for Christ and His church.

"When people are busy, they are happy and work together well," said Rev. Joyner.

BACKGROUND

A native of Grayson, Rev. Joyner came to her present pastorate from the First Methodist Church of Monroe, where she served as assistant minister for about eight years. She previously served several small area churches, including Columbia Heights Methodist Church, Columbia. She received her college training at High Point in North Carolina.

Rev. Joyner observed, "As we enter into this sixth phase of our church life, we do so with faith in the promise, 'He is able to do abundantly more than we can ask or think.' We feel that our nursery and kindergarten children must have better facilities and more space in order that we may meet the great need. The remodeling of the sanctuary will enable us to meet the needs of our worship services Sunday after Sunday. At present we have four preaching services each Sunday, 8 a.m. holy communion; 9:30 a.m., and 10:50 a.m., identical worship services; 7 p.m., The Friendly Hour. It will also provide more classroom space for the youth and adult groups in the Church School. This work can be done for approximately $45,000. We are praying that God will again help us to see this program completed.

"Truly, tomorrow will echo measure of response to the blessings we have received in the past and the needs we have today. We do not want to live on the progress of yesterday, but go forward in His name to be 'workmen that need not be ashamed.' God is still able to do more than we can ask or think when we keep in mind:

"Christ has no hands but our hands, To do His work today

He has no feet but our feet To lead men in the way.

He has no tongue but our tongue To tell men how He died.

He has no help but our help To bring men to His side.

You are the only Bible, The careless world will read,

You are the sinne.'s gospel, The scoffer's creed,

What if the line is crooked What if the type is blurred."

St. Paschal's Dedication Of Building Set

Dedication of the new St. Paschal's Catholic Church building at North 7th and Wilson, West Monroe, will take place 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, it was announced by Dr. Vitus Duschinsky, pastor.

Presiding at the dedication and blessing will be the Most Rev. Charles P. Greco, bishop of Alexandria Catholic Diocese. Former pastors and assistants of the church will be present for the ceremonies.

The first holy mass was held in the church Sunday, November 29. It was blessed in a private ceremony on November 28.

The building is quasi-gothic in architectural style and has seating capacity for approximately 500 persons.

2 Area Women Have Stories In Church Journal

Two area women have written articles which will be used in a christian family magazine published monthly by the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville.

They are Mrs. Louise Brown of West Monroe, and Mrs. Carol Marie Albritton of Jonesboro, whose articles will appear in the January issue of Home Life, which has a circulation of approximately 900,000.

In "Timothy Didn't Have a Thing on Me," Mrs. Brown tells the story of her mother who reared four children after being left a widow, with the oldest child only 3 years old.

The Browns are member of McClendon Baptist Church in West Monroe. Mrs. Brown teaches Sunday school, works in Training Union and is a Girls' Auxiliary counselor, and Mr. Brown is a deacon in the church.

Mrs. Albritton's "A January Sunshine Walk" is her fourth article to be published in "Home Life." It is a fictional story in which she tells of the joy of taking a young child for a winter walk.

Mrs. Albritton and her husband are active members of First Baptist Church in Jonesboro. They have three children.

Outlook Dim For Boosting Clergy Ranks

United Press International

Most Protestant denominations are already faced with a serious clergy shortage. It will grow steadily worse in the years ahead unless there is a rise in seminary enrollments at least commensurate to the growth in population.

Church leaders therefore greeted with glum disappointment a recent report of the American Association of Theological Schools. It shows that the size of the entering class at 127 accredited Protestant seminaries declined in 1964 for the third consecutive year. The decline was not great — from 5,769 to 5,596 students. But it continues a trend which is precisely the reverse of the one which must be established to overcome the clergy shortage.

A Survey of religious affiliations shows that there will be 108 Catholics in the new Congress—94 in the House and 14 in the Senate.

Methodists, who constituted the largest religious group in the last Congress, will drop to second place with a total of 94 members. Included in the total are 70 House members and 24 senators.

The new Congress also will contain 77 Presbyterians, 70 Episcopalians, 56 Baptists, 21 Congregationalists, 17 Jews, 16 Lutherans, 12 Unitarians, 11 Disciples of Christ, 10 Mormons, three Christian Scientists, two Quakers, and single members from eight other denominations.

The Pastor's Corner

GOD WITH US
- Matthew 1:18-25

Rev. Joyner, Minister
Southside Methodist Church, Monroe

"His name shall be called Emmanuel — God with us" — makes life sacred but I wonder in our haste, worry, frustration, and self-seeking if Christmas, which marks the birthday of Jesus, has a real meaning for our hearts? Just as the Star of Bethlehem shone in a fearful, tense world, so the Star shines once again for us in this Twentieth century for truly God has come to dwell with us! Christmas is more than sentiment, pageantry, carols, good wishes, gifts, and fine food — it proclaims that life is sacred — "Behold a virgin shall conceive and bare a son, and His name shall be called Emmanuel." God has acted, and Jesus lives among us! Through Him we have peace with God and our fellowman, faith to live abundantly day by day, and the hope of eternal life.

HEART OF CHRISTMAS

At the heart of Christmas, then, is Christ - "God with us." Through Him we are reminded of the pre-eminence of God for He is the only one who can bring order out of chaos. Our only hope today is that God will become supreme in life, we will be ruled by His love, and the Christ of Bethlehem will be enthroned in our hearts as the "Lord of Life." When we live as children of the Heavenly Father, we can then live as brothers to each other, for we can sing "Peace on earth" only when we can first sing "Glory to God." Our need then is to turn again to God, for He is ready to save and keep us if we seek Him with all our heart. The coming of Jesus was the answer to the yearning of man for the qualities in God which would enable us to feel a part of Him. Jesus was more than the High and Holy one. He took upon Himself our nature, became a part of us, identified Himself with our suffering, weakness, sorrow, and death, and dwelt with us. Today, God still reigns, and at the heart of every true Christmas lies the Christ-God with us!

Our need today is to rediscover the Christian Christmas; but the question is how? In our greetings, customs, and songs, let us seek to make "God with us" the theme. If only we could reclaim our faith and show to the world that Christ lives because He lives within our hearts, what an impact Christian people of all denominations would make on our disturbed and troubled world? If only we could make Christ real in the home, much of the strain, self-seeking, and tension would be eliminated. If "God with us" could be reflected in our giving, so many people would come to know and sense His presence. Let us not forget to make Christ real in our church, as here it is our privilege to lead people to a deeper realization of what "God with us" really means. "The word became flesh and dwelt among us" brings new hope in this twentieth century. But I ask you — do we reflect in our daily living that He dwells among us?

RENEWED SENSE

"God with us" revives our hearts by a renewed sense of the divine at the center of life. Our spirits are lightened because there is a reawakening of our sense of joy. In the face of threats today, we hear "Behold, I bring you good tidings of joy." There's nothing dreary about the Christian faith when we let Christ be the center of our thinking. "God with us" redeems our lives by our faith in love as the greatest thing in the world. For truly,

Love came down at Christmas time, Love shall be our token,

Love be yours and love be mine, Love to God and all mankind

Love for plea and gift and sign.

Yes, love is the only hope for our world. To lump all power available to men in one would be far less than the power of a life that's dedicated to Christ, living the realistic fact — "God with us." This love is not weak and spineless and does not spend itself in the vague and common place. It is gentle, kind, forgiving, and comforting to be sure. But it is also strong, vital, and revolutionary. It is a love that disturbs our easy - going ways with a vision of God's hopes and dreams. Christ in our Christmas enables this love to be born again in our hearts, homes and world. God at Christmas reminds us that love is still supreme. Only in this light and power does life have a chance to be cleansed, purified, redeemed, and restored.

GOD IS SUPREME

Again Christmas comes to remind us that God is supreme, that He is available if we seek Him, and that in each heart there is a deep desire for the presence of God. "God with us" renews the heart, makes joyful the spirit, redeems our lives, assuring us that love is the greatest force in the world. God determined that Jesus would live among us. Are we determined that Jesus will live in our heart? God became one of us that we might become like Him. Thus, may our Christmas prayer be: "O come into my heart, Lord Jesus; there is room in my heart for Thee."

Court Action To Delay Railroad Strike Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — The threat of a crippling railroad strike hung over the economy during the week but it was expected to be put off, at least temporarily.

From the general public's point of view this would be perhaps the most inopportune time of the year for a rail tieup. Christmas travelers are making their plans and the mails are clogged with gift packages.

Three shop unions representing 53,000 machinists, electrical workers and sheet metal workers called a strike for next Tuesday.

The assumption was that if a strike develops other unions would refuse to cross picket lines and 90 per cent of the nation's rail system would be immobilized.

Railroad strikes have been threatened twice before this year. But the operating unions and three of the shop unions agreed to contracts.

In the latest development, the railroads immediately went into federal court in Chicago seeking an injunction against a strike.

Judge Joseph Sam Perry directed the carriers to prepare a 10-day temporary restraining order and present it to the court on Monday.

He indicated the court would grant the order at that time and then begin hearing arguments on a motion by the carriers for a permanent injunction against the strike.

Wages are the main issue. The railroads contend that the unions are demanding a pay increase larger than that recommended by a presidential board.

The other unions had settled earlier in accordance with the board's recommendation.

Many eyes in the business world turned during the week to 1965 as 1964 approached an end. The big question: What next?

The Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission had pleasant words about the outlook for spending for business expansion.

These businessmen, who were polled during November, said they plan to raise their outlays for new facilities in the first six months of 1965 by 8 per cent over the average for 1964.

This indicated spending will be at an annual rate of $47.7 billion in the first half, compared with an estimated $44.7 billion for 1964.

A leading economist expressed the opinion that the majority of forecasters are too pessimistic in their outlook for 1965. He is Dr. James J. O'Leary, vice president and director of economic research of the life Insurance Association.

He expects the gross national produce — total of all goods and services — to reach $660 billion next year.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said the economy is robust enough to support greater expansion.

With automakers driving hard to make up for production lost in strikes, output during the week topped the industry record set last week. Plants working overtime turned out an estimated 223,400 cars compared with 220,668 the previous week and 188,215 a year ago.

Steel production, already certain of setting a record this year, posted another gain during the week, exceeding the previous week by 0.8 per cent.

The Commerce Department reported that manufacturers expect sales in the current quarter to total $112.4 billion, unchanged from the third quarter, and anticipate a gain in the 1965 first quarter.

Construction spending in November was helped by unusually warm weather. The government estimated building outlays were at an annual rate of $65,-37,000,000, up $406 million from October and $565 million ahead of November 1963.

Grain Market Closes Lower

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain market was jittery most of the time last week and prices ended mostly lower for the period.

As the open interest in soybeans swelled to record highs on The Board of Trade every day through Thursday, indicating a steadily increasing public interest in that commodity, traders became concerned over the possibility of a technical reaction.

As a result, trading was erratic with brokers exercising greater caution than usual. Substantial liquidation by longs resulted in sharp setbacks on two days, which the market was unable to recover fully in subsequent rallies.

At the close of trading Friday, soybeans were 1¾ to 4⅞ cents a bushel lower. Wheat was unchanged to 1¾ cents lower, corn unchanged to ¾ lower, oats 1⅜ higher to ⅜ lower and rye was ⅞ to 1¾ cents lower.

Stock Prices Decline For Third Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week ran its string of weekly declines to three straight despite a fairly encouraging background of news.

Beginning the trading week with an early show of strength by blue chips which faltered and left Monday's market mixed, stocks took sharp losses on Tuesday and Wednesday, began to pick up scattered support on Thursday despite an irregular decline, and ended the week with a feeble advance.

This was close to the "support" level reached in the steep decline of Dec. 1 and Wall Street analysts regarded it as a "test" area.

Some stock analysts commented that, although there was good economic news, the market seemed to be lacking confidence in itself, for the time being.

Backgrounding Wall Street was such news as—

—A rise in construction spending.

—Plans for an increase in business spending for new plant and equipment in the first half of 1965.

— A rescinding by the Citizens & Southern National Bank, Atlanta, Ga., of its rise in the prime lending rate to 4¾ per cent from 4½ per cent.

This was the kind of news that was seized as an "excuse" for the sharp market decline of the previous week. The nullifying of the news, however, brought no rally in proportion to the loss.

Comsat was the star of the week's trading, rising 9⅛ on well over a million shares.

Bond prices advanced generally last week, reflecting optimism by investors that the nation's money markets have become stabilized for the time being.

On the New York Stock Exchange bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $46.619 million, compared to the previous week's level of $46.335 million.

Cotton Futures Lose Ground In Week's Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—Domestic cotton futures generally lost ground this week on the New York Cotton Exchange. At the close on Friday prices were down $1.25 a bale to 50 cents a bale higher with the only improvement recorded by the distant May delivery.

Last-minute evening up operations gave a boost to the December 1964 contract just before it went off the board Tuesday, and at the expiration of trading the price was up $1.85 a bale.

At the outset, the December delivery had been under pressure which quickly gave way. Later, with this contract off the board, trading in domestic futures settled down and was confined mainly to commission house dealings on both sides of the market.

The market paid little attention to the official government crop estimate.

IN MONROE DISTRICT

Weather Slows Oil, Gas Activity

The Ouachita Parish Employment Service lists oil and gas (mining) employment down in November as compared to November of last year. The office's Labor Market Trends also reports that during heavy rains occurring in the area recently and during other poor weather conditions the trend is toward curtailed activity and some unemployment.

According to the Oil and Gas Report issued by the Monroe District of the Louisiana State Conservation Department, there were ten completions for the week ending Dec. 10. Catahoula and LaSalle parishes accounted for most, each recording three completions.

Of the 15 new locations, seven were in Concordia Parish. Ouachita Parish has three, one in Cheniere Field and two in Monroe Gas Field. Morehouse Parish also had one in the Monroe Gas Field.

There were a total of 55 locations during the reported period. Thirty-five wells were active and 77 inactive. Seven were abandoned and one expired. There were no re-completions or temporary abandonments.

Production Of Off-Shore Oil Increases

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Writer

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Crude oil production in the disputed Gulf of Mexico zones off the Louisiana coast has increased by more than 230,000 barrels a day since 1956.

The increase for the zones claimed by both Louisiana and the federal government is equivilent to nearly 50 per cent of the nationwide gain in crude output the past eight years.

The comparison was included in a memorandum filed Saturday with the executive committee of the 33-state Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

A special staff study of offshore Louisiana production growth trends was ordered by the committee at its June meeting in Billings, Mont., at the request of several trade groups representing independent oil producers.

The independents, since June, also have taken other actions designed to curtail offshore production or encourage federal officials to study the effect of the Gulf of Mexico oil on the level of onshore production.

The 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association approved a Sept. 14 resolution asking the Interior Department to "stop further disproportionate growth in production from offshore federal leases."

On Oct. 27, officers of the 7,-500 - member Independent Petroleum Association of America were instructed to appoint a special subcommittee to study the problem.

Business Briefs

CHOSEN FOR AWARD

SAM LACARA

One of the deciding factors in selecting LaCara for the award was that while under his guidance, the parts department of Lee Edwards, Inc. was built into one of the better departments in the entire country.

During the past four years, LaCara has attended three parts managers' meetings and seminars at International Auto Sales and Service. Prior to 1960 he was parts manager for a heavy equipment firm.

He is vice-president of the Progressive Men's Club, a member of the Knights of Columbus, 3rd degree, and the American Legion. A Veteran of Foreign Wars, he completed four years in the U.S. Navy.

He and his wife have four children.

NEW FRANCHISE

Jefferson Electric Company has franchised Agnew Neon Sign Service Co., Monroe, to construct Neorama cellular signs for advertising, business identification and other signing purposes, William D. Hamel, Jefferson's director of marketing, announced.

The Monroe sign manufacturer can now build electric signs using the Neorama system which, for the first time, makes practical neon illumination of plastic signs with the resulting advantages of longer lamp life, lower maintenance costs, animation versatility and full neon spectrum range of true colors, Hamel said.

FIRM EXPANDS STAFF

HOUSTON, Tex. (Special)—William Penfield, a graduate of Louisiana Tech, Ruston, has joined the staff of Bovay Engineers, Inc., as a senior engineer.

He has 14 years of engineering experience in the design of electrical projects. Among these have been design for the Mission Control Center at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, and many industrial and commercial projects.

John R. Anderson, a graduate of the University of Michigan, also has joined the Bovay staff as a principal engineer. He has 30 years engineering experience and has been responsible for the design and supervision of construction of many milti-million dollar projects.

NAMED DISTRIBUTOR

Beco, Inc., electrical wholesaling firm of Monroe, has been appointed to distribute electric motor controls manufactured by Furnas Electric Company of Batavia, Illinois. The Monroe firm will be serving contractor and instural accounts within a 100-mile radius.

Twin City – Area Deaths

Suit Returned–But With Price

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The man was carrying a suit when he walked into the bar.

He studied the proprietor, Floyd Harris, 41, for a moment, then offered to sell him the suit. It looked like a good fit, the man told Harris.

Harris agreed it was a perfect fit. "This is my suit," he yelled, and the salesman fled, dropping the suit.

Since the return of the suit Friday, all Harris needs are the topcoat and briefcase taken from his car Thursday with the suit.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

I have many potted plants in my house but have always found it a messy job to keep them watered.

Finally I hit upon the idea of using a plastic tooth-brush holder!

Cut off both ends of the plastic tube. Place one end of the tube in the soil in the flower pot and fill it with water about once a week (depending on the size of the plant).

Busy nurse

* * *

I tried it.

I inserted the tube about

one inch deep in the soil.

The water will drain slowly into the dirt.

Wet the soil thoroughly before trying to insert the tube. Push the tube into the soil, pull the tube out and blow the mud from the end of it back into the pot. Insert the empty tube again.

Then fill it with water. That's all there is to it. . . .

Fantastic. I also put plant food into the tube before putting water in it, when my plants need extra feeding.

Any plastic tube will do. Try it. You'll love it.

PROFESSIONAL PAINTER

DEAR HELOISE:

When we had our house painted I picked up a very good tip from the painter.

Every time he opened a new can of paint, he immediately made several nail holes on the inside rim of the can. Thus, when he wiped the excess paint off his brush it ran back into the can.

FOR BIBLIOPHILES

DEAR HELOISE:

This is good for all book lovers who have a problem keeping their books clean, mainly on the top edges.

Dusting does not always work well, so I thought of using an art gum eraser, and it works like a charm. The edges become clean as new again.

SPLINTER PARTY

DEAR HELOISE:

If your little darling gets a splinter in his finger, do you know that you can remove it almost painlessly by having him hold an ice cube over the splinter until the finger gets real cold?

His finger gets so cold and he gets such a thrill out of playing "Doctor" that he doesn't even feel the needle or the tweezers you are using to remove the splinter!

HANG IT ALL

DEAR HELOISE:

I had just broken the last of a set of one dozen plastic children's hangers, when a friend passed along this wonderful tip:

I now use regular wire hangers for children's clothes, by bending the tips of the hangers inward about three or four inches from the end. The turned-in tips are ideal for hanging skirts by their straps and suspenders . . .

HOME STEAM BATH

DEAR HELOISE:

For those of you who have a shower and not a bathtub and would like to have the feeling of relaxing in a tub of water . . . the next best thing to do is don a terry cloth or chenille robe and just stand under your shower! (A bath towel will also do if you have no robe of this sort.)

When the flow from the shower hits your robe or towel it will cause a relaxing home steam bath. Very refreshing . . .

Celeste

* * *

Folks, you all should try this.

It's absolutely amazing . . . I found it good to use two towels (one wrapped around the waist and the other across the shoulders) if you have no robe.

Thanks, Celeste, for that honey of an idea.

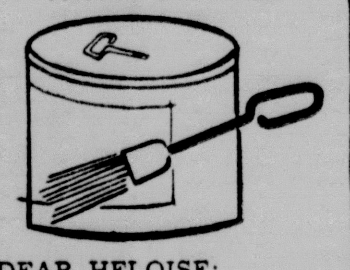
PASTRY BRUSH-UP



DEAR HELOISE:

I keep a pastry brush in my shortening can at all times. It takes so little time to grease a cake pan or casserole when the brush for doing the job is so handy.

DECORATOR CANDLES

DEAR HELOISE:

Not being able to find candles the color I wanted, I bought a small can of spray paint and sprayed some white candles the exact shade I desired — also sprayed some old plastic flowers to match, for my bedroom.

EASY BOTTLE OPENER

DEAR HELOISE:

I find the best way to open any jar or screw-top bottle, is with the cuff of my rubber gloves . . .

This idea can also be a life saver if you use the cuff of the rubber glove to tighten screw-type caps on bleach, medicine bottles, etc.,

CRAYON CARRIER

DEAR HELOISE:

I use empty tin boxes to put my children's school crayons in when the original containers are worn out.

METAL CHAIR LEGS

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you ever have a metal chair leg cut through a rubber cup placed under it to protect the floors?

Well, I have!
